Residential Mail Delivery Is Slashed To One a Day

Effective in District May 19; Decrease Caused by Deficit; Firings Are Planned

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

A Nationwide cut in postal service reducing daily residential deliveries to one, curtailing business deliveries and postoffice hours was ordered last night by Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson.

Donaldson acted in the face of a mounting departmental deficit and on the strong advice of the House Appropriations Committee. The Department indicated the slashes will result in substantial firings as the reductions in service are effected. The orders direct postmasters to start work on them immediately and to have them in effect by July 1 at the latest.

In Washington, the orders will reduce the carrier force by 100 to 150 men and the clerks' ranks by 50 to 100, Postmaster Roy M. North declared last night.

North outlined the following changes, most of which will go into effect May 19, allowing the public 30 days notice:

1. Residential deliveries will be dropped from two to one per day. This reduction is expected to drop about one in every six carriers and will mean that some residents will receive mail as early as 8 a. m. and others as late as 4 p. m.

Carriers retained will work lengthened routes caused by consolidation.

Among the first men to be dropped, according to Departmental orders in yesterday's Postal Bulletin, will be temporary and war service employes and then classified substitutes. If further reductions are required, additional procedures are set up.

2. The main Postoffice near Union Station will close at 6 p. m. Some windows such as stamps and registration now operate till midnight.

Other offices will close at 5:30 p. m., including the Benjamin Franklin Station, which now stays open all night.

3. All branches will close at noon Saturday instead of 1 p. m. Some offices may be closed entirely on Saturdays if business fails to warrant continuance.

4. Only first class mail, daily newspapers and parcel post will be processed during night hours between 6 p. m. and 6 a. m. Several below-revenue categories of mail will thus be slowed.

Other service changes directed by Postmaster General Donaldson included:

1. Acceptance of bulk mailings of second, third and fourth class mail, other than newspapers, will be limited to the hours of 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

2. Deliveries of parcel post will be restricted to one delivery each weekday in both business and residential areas.

3. Street box collections will be kept "at a minimum" with final pickups each day at 8:30 p. m.

4. Directory service on ordinary mail other than perishable matter

Rockefeller Gives $1,000,000 to Aid Barnard College

New York, April 18 (AP).—John D. Rockefeller, jr., has given one million dollars worth of securities to Barnard College.

Barnard is the women's college at Columbia University.

It is trying to raise $10,800,000, some $3,500,000 of which is to be used to build a science-library-theater building.

Mrs. Ogden Reid, chairman of the board of trustees of the college, said the income from Rockefeller's gift, plus increased student tuitions, would give Barnard a balanced budget for the first time since 1944.

Talk at DAR Fete Colored By Election

By Dorothea Andrews and Nicha Soure
Post Reporters

Constitution Hall was the center of two spectacles last night.

One, on-stage, was of 4000 delegates, dressed in silks and satins and wearing their patriotic best, walking smilingly through a receiving line to shake hands with Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, president general, and other national officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The other, very much off-stage, was of uncounted wheelhorses in two party campaigns, trying to line up votes for the most prized office in the patriotic organization—that of president general.

The two aspirants for that office, Mrs. James B. Patton, of Columbus, Ohio, first vice president general, and Mrs. Edwin Stanton Lammers, recording secretary general, stood in the receiving line with Mrs O'Byrne.

Physically, Mrs. Patton seemed nearer her presidential goal, for she stood next to Mrs. O'Byrne. But although Mrs. Lammers was four places below the head of the line, the backstage rumors were that she had cornered substantial support both among Mrs O'Byrne's cabinet and the powerful honorary presidents general.

One DAR official told reporters, "We cannot talk about politics—they've told us not to." And there was no on-the-record confirmation of rumors that Mrs. O'Byrne would come out in support of one or the other of the two leaders.

One honorary president general admitted, however, that efforts are being made to consolidate support for one of the two contenders, in order to avert a split cabinet.

Some indication of whether the split cabinet is to be avoided may come today, when nominations for national officers are made. Now in the field are Mrs. Patton and Mrs. Lammers, each heading an 11-woman ticket, and 10 candidates for vice president general. Seven highest of this number will win.

An announcement was read to the congress at yesterday morning's session, inviting "all delegates, alternates and friends to meet Mrs. Lammers, candidate for president general, at an open house in the Chinese Room of the May-

Senators Urge Potato Bill Full of Teeth

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

A potato control bill with more teeth than a curry comb was recommended by the Senate Agriculture Committee yesterday.

The bill provides that price supports will be granted on Irish potatoes only if the growers agree to strict regulations, such as:

1 Drastic limitations on plantings.

2. Marketing quotas, with controls over the amount of potatoes that may be sold from each farm.

The above controls are similar to those now in effect on peanuts, cotton and tobacco. But the bill also provides this additional restriction:

3. The Secretary of Agriculture may, at any time before harvest, reduce the marketing quotas by 20 percent. In other words, if growing conditions are extremely favorable, and crop estimates indicate more production than needed to meet demands, the Government may reduce the number of bushels on which price supports will be paid.

The bill also contains unusually stiff penalties for noncompliance. Farmers selling more than their quota may be assessed a penalty tax of 75 percent of parity on the excess. This is 15 percent higher than the present price-support level—which is only 60 percent of parity. Penalties on basic crops, such as peanuts, for which marketing quotas are in effect are limited to 50 percent of parity. Potatoes are the only "nonbasic" or storable commodity for which marketing quotas have been suggested.

Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D., La.) of the Potato Subcommittee said he was the only member who voted against the 20 percent provision. Senator Spessard L. Holland (D., Fla.) reserved the right to object on the floor.

NLRB Lawyer Who Wed Negro Is Discharged

The wife of Leslie S. Perry legislative representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was fired March 31 by the NLRB general counsel, Robert N. Denham.

Miss Weyand was the assistant general counsel of the NLRB in charge of Supreme Court litigation, and has been with the board since 1938.

GOP Will Seek 'Over 10%' Cut In U.S. Payment to D. C. Today

The 12-million-dollar Federal payment to the District, No. 1 item in the 29-billion-dollar House omnibus appropriation bill, today will become the battleground for the first test voting on the big single-package measure.

1. Representative John Taber (N. Y.), ranking Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, yesterday called for a cut of "more than 10 percent" in the District's Federal contribution. He said a GOP colleague will formally move for the cut when the House starts voting today.

2. Representative Vito Marcantonio (ALP, N. Y.) announced he will try to tie an antisegregation rider to the District fund. Marcantonio said his amendment would ban use of any part of the Federal payment for maintenance of segregation in District education, recreation or other facilities.

The District was singled out as the GOP's initial economy target as the House concluded general debate on legislative appropria-

Truman Wins $1 on Nats' Win, Sits Through Rain at Opener

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman pitched a strike with his left hand and a grounder with his right to open the 1950 baseball season at Griffith Stadium yesterday. He then sat through the rain to the last out of a hair-raising game.

As usual, the First Fan made good as a prophet. He picked Washington to beat Philadelphia 5 to 3, and backed his judgment with a $1 bet. The final score, after much breathless suspense, was 8 to 7 in favor of the home team.

It was a game attended by fireworks, literally. Somebody, identity not established, threw a firecracker out of the stand. It landed and exploded on the turf about 40 yards from Mr. Truman, and gave Secret Service agents and police a start.

Gil Coan, the Washington leftfielder, was the hero out on the diamond.

Next to the President, however, the real lion of the afternoon was Cornelius McGillicuddy, known to the sports world as Connie Mack. A roar of applause went up from the crowd of 31,548 as the Philadelphia manager, still spry at 87,

Lucas Denies Thwarting of Crime Inquiry

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

The proposed crime investigation, this year's elections and the quick acquittal of former Representative Slaughter all were tossed about together on the Senate floor yesterday.

Out of it came a declaration by Senate Majority Leader Lucas (Ill.) that he had no desire "to thwart the efforts" of the proposed crime committee "that will ultimately be appointed."

Lucas said that committee, as far as he was concerned, could go as far as it wants and look into any kind of crime. He defended his action in calling up the ECA bill on Monday for Senate debate instead of the resolution to set up the crime committee. He said it would take a "couple of days" to debate the resolution and that he was sure no one would say it was more important than the foreign aid measure.

The discussion grew out of a speech by Senator Brewster (R., Me.) who said the Slaughter case

Judge Warns U. S. Lawyer in Maragon Trial

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Failure to produce "confidential" Government records subpenaed in the trial of "peanut vender" John F. Maragon yesterday brought a court warning of possible arrest to a Department of Agriculture attorney.

Maragon is on trial in Federal District Court here on four counts of perjury in connection with his testimony before the Senate Investigations subcommittee inquiring into five-percenters July 28. Maragon, described by his attorney as a "peanut vendor among princes," had free access to the White House until after the hearings.

Federal Judge Jennings Bailey delivered a stern warning to Department of Agriculture Attorney Benjamin Holstein when he failed to bring records subpenaed by Defense Attorney Irving Goldstein.

Goldstein asked if the Agriculture attorney had brought the records of the Allied Molasses Co.

Police Seize 4 Who Confess Wave of Holdups in District

Four men were arrested by robbery squad detectives as they prepared to flee the District last night. Police said that they were identified in and confessed to two robberies here in the past week.

In addition, one of the four, according to Capt. Robert V. Murray, confessed being an accomplice in another robbery with a man previously caught. That man has been identified in five robberies, Murray said.

Murray was jubilant over the arrests, asserting that "this breaks the crime wave we've been having and ends our worst headache."

The four arrested last night were:

Clarence J. Baldwin, 19, who gave his address as 624 Quebec pl. nw., picked off a New York-bound train minutes before it was to leave Union Station.

Russell Leon Perry, 23, who said he lives at 205 C st. nw., arrested in Union Station with a New York ticket, a bag, and armed with a pistol.

Nathaniel Anderson, 27, who said he lives at 205 C st. nw., also arrested entering Union Station.

George McDaniels, 22, 1526 5th st. nw., arrested in his room as he packed to leave.

The "break" in the series of robbery cases came when victims who were in the Rhode Island Pharmacy, 1830 1st st. nw., when it was robbed Monday night, picked out Baldwin's and Perry's pictures from a police gallery, detectives said.

Working swiftly on this information, police learned Perry and Baldwin were headed out of the city and hurried to Union Station where they arrested the pair. After they had been questioned at police headquarters for a time, police went out and brought in the other two.

In the robbery Monday night, three men entered the pharmacy, all armed, while a fourth stood watch outside, police were told. They held up Morton E. Bachrach, of 7730 Eastern ave. nw., a pharmacist; Ruby Green, 1802 1st st. nw., a fountain attendant; and four customers.

They forced Bachrach to open a safe, took boxes containing $657.21 in U. S. Post Office funds

3 Ex-FBI Men To Take Stand For McCarthy

By the United Press

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) yesterday said he would offer three former FBI agents as witnesses to back his charges that Far Eastern expert Owen Lattimore is Russia's top spy in the United States.

He told reporters the former G-men will "corroborate or supplement" testimony to be given to Senate investigators Thursday by ex-Communist editor Louis F. Budenz.

McCarthy has said Budenz will swear he knew Lattimore, now a Johns Hopkins University professor, as a Communist Party member subject to the party's "disciplinary powers." Lattimore has denied any Communist or pro-Soviet ties.

McCarthy said he would give the names of two of the one-time FBI men sometime yesterday to Edward P. Morgan, counsel of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee investigating his Communist charges against Lattimore and the State Department. He will name the third witness soon, he added.

The FBI has already showed subcommittee members a summary of its file on Lattimore and Chairman Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) said it "completely cleared" Lattimore. But Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) said the summary showed a need for a full investigation. Other subcommittee members have refused comment.

Another source of possible partisan strife within the subcommittee bubbled up again yesterday with the refusal of Frederick Ayer, jr. Wenham, Mass., lawyer, to serve as assistant counsel to the investigators.

He based his refusal on objections to his appointment raised by Tydings.

Ayer was recommended by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, jr. (R., Mass.), a subcommittee member, and tentatively approved by the committee. But Tydings objected on the ground that the lawyer is a GOP candidate for attorney general in Massachusetts and therefore couldn't do a fair job as an investigator.

Tydings withdrew his objection after Lodge protested bitterly.

Obstacles Arise

Allies Balk At Bradley Defense Plan

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Reaction among foreign military men here to Gen. Omar Bradley's Chicago speech makes it plain that his "national specialization" suggestion for North Atlantic Pact defense plans has a tough row ahead.

The chairman of the American Joint Chiefs brought out in the open for public discussion a problem that has figured prominently in closed conferences of defense officials of the 12 treaty powers.

Even though it involves giving up a "bit of sovereignty" said Bradley, each nation should contribute to the common defense what its resources and geographical position enable it to do best, and seek an over-all, rather than a national, "balance" of armed forces.

Comment by members of foreign military missions stresses the practical difficulties of such a program and illustrates the obstacles which have to be overcome in getting anywhere in the field of collective defense. Just looking hard at the problem makes our own unification question appear simple.

Netherlands defense circles, for example, reacted strongly to a suggestion advanced in informal discussion of the Bradley proposal that the continental powers under the pact put greater emphasis on expanding their armies and rely more on the United States and Great Britain for naval and air forces required for the common defense.

More than tradition and national pride are involved. While the old imperialism may be dying, its influence still is felt. It'll take a lot to convince everyone that appeals to the "common interest" are not

Bruce Submits Resignation as Arms Aid Head

James Bruce, wealthy businessman-diplomat, has submitted his resignation as director of the foreign arms aid program.

The White House confirmed yesterday that Bruce has urged President Truman to let him return to private life.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, told reporters Bruce is "trying to resign" but that Mr. Truman has not yet accepted his resignation. Other officials reported that the President has agreed reluctantly to accept it around May 1.

Truman Calls in Sen. Bridges For Foreign Policy Discussion

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

President Truman and Secretary Acheson sought the help of one of their bitterest Republican critics yesterday in their effort to improve two-party cooperation in foreign policy.

They had a long meeting at the White House with Senator Bridges (R., N. H.), whom the President had denounced three weeks ago for trying to "sabotage the bipartisan foreign policy of the United States."

The meeting was all the more unusual because of Bridges' personal attacks on Acheson in recent weeks. At one recent hearing he virtually told the Secretary to his face that he was a bad security risk as a friend of Alger Hiss.

Yet the President said it had been "a very satisfactory talk," and issued a statement promising close consultation with Republican leaders in Congress. He explained that Bridges had been in-

Plane Shot Down at Sea By Russians, U. S. Alleges

Note Denies Unarmed Craft Crossed Soviet Border; Indemnity, Regrets Expected

The United States accused Russia yesterday of shooting down an unarmed Navy plane without excuse over the open waters of the Baltic Sea.

An American note to Moscow denied that the plane had flown over Soviet territory or within the three-mile limit of Soviet territorial waters.

It said the United States "confidently expects" the Soviet government to express regrets, to punish the fliers involved, and to pay an "appropriate indemnity" for the destruction of American lives and property.

Although the note was stiff, it was what the diplomats would call "correct" and polite in its wording. Much more outspoken language came from the State Department's press officer, Michael J. McDermott, in a statement that followed the release of the note.

McDermott accused the Russians of "an astonishing lack of common international courtesy and an unusual disregard of human life" in not showing any concern for the fate of the 10 men aboard the plane.

He chided them for the "aggressive tone," the "impossible allegations" and the "false propaganda claims and diatribes against the United States" in their statements on the incident.

"This attitude of the Soviet Government," he said, "shows clearly the insincerity of its oft-proclaimed desire for peaceful relations with the United States and the non-Soviet world in general.

"The cause of peace is not furthered when the U.S.S.R. ostentatiously decorates Soviet airmen in a manner calculated to give the impression that they are being rewarded for shooting down a defenseless American plane."

This referred to the award of the Order of the Red Banner to four unidentified Soviet airmen "for excellent fulfillment of their service duty" just two days after the Russians had formally protested the alleged violation of their territory.

Officials here were more disturbed by this than by any other aspect of the incident, for they felt the decoration showed a reckless attitude on the part of the Russians.

Nobody here seriously expected the Russians to apologize, or to pay an indemnity, or to accept the American version of what happened in the Baltic on April 8. But officials clearly hoped that the Soviet-American temperature would cool off and that the plane incident could stay in the hands of the diplomats instead of leading to more serious trouble.

The next step is expected to be a note from Moscow, and then a counter reply from Washington, a process which can go on indefinitely as long as either side thinks it serves a useful purpose.

Yesterday's American note, delivered by Ambassador Alan G. Kirk to Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, was far less

Eaton, Sieminski Win House Races In Jersey Primary

Newark, N. J., April 18 (AP).—Republican Representative Charles A. Eaton, who has served in Congress since 1924, won renomination today in New Jersey's primary election.

Eaton, former chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, will face Democrat Thomas Chabrak, an author, who had no primary opposition.

Major fight in the Democratic ranks was in the Thirteenth District where Alfred D. Sieminski, a laundry executive, defeated nine opponents by a wide margin.

In another Democratic contest, Representative Edward Hart defeated two candidates in his bid for renomination in the Fourteenth District.

In November he will run against Republican Michael Bongiovanni, apparent winner in today's GOP primary.

The third Democratic battle was in the First District where John J. Crean, regular nominee, was headed for victory. He will meet Republican incumbent Charles A. Wolverton in the general election.

William B. Widnall, incumbent, won easily in a GOP contest in the Seventh District. He will face Democrat Emil Wulster in the general election. William H. Rawson gained the Republican nomination and will run against Democratic incumbent Peter W. Rodino, jr., in November.

Albert L. Vreeland, also a Republican organization nominee, won in the Eleventh District and will meet Hugh J. Addonizio, Democratic incumbent.

$1.2 Billion Addition To Deficit Forecast

Drought, Bugs

Much Wheat Land Being Abandoned

Uncle Sam may thank his lucky stars for the farm price support program before this year's winter wheat crop is harvested, Montana "Wheat King" Tom Campbell said yesterday.

Campbell reported that a plague of greenbugs that has destroyed half of Oklahoma's crop is being equalled by an invasion of army worms in Montana and northern wheat belt States.

Heavy rains that broke the 141 days of drought in the Texas Panhandle last week, came too late, Campbell said. His remarks were borne out by this week's report of the Crop and Weather Service, that said much wheat land had been abandoned.

The weather report also indicated that reports of complete destruction of Georgia and South Carolina peaches by cold weather, were exaggerated.

The report warned that dry weather was affecting planting in both Virginia and Maryland. Recent cold nights had injured the peaches in both States, although in Maryland it added that "peaches were not damaged extensively."

Campbell told newsmen that prospects are such that the Government may have to buy wheat from outside this country to meet its commitments for occupied areas and the International Wheat Agreement this fall and winter.

He said that winter wheat has deteriorated "as much as 50 million bushels since April 1." The Government Crop Report on April 1 predicted a winter wheat harvest of 763 million bushels—the lowest in six years.

Campbell wants the Government to stockpile wheat. In order to encourage such action, he suggested yesterday that wheat men offer free farm storage of Government wheat up to 20 percent of each grower's annual production. He said he would join such a program. The Government now pays 7 cents a bushel storage the first year, and 12 cents for the second year if the crop is "resealed." It also pays 2 cents a bushel for loading.

By The Associated Press

The experts who advise Congress on taxes figured yesterday that President Truman guessed $1,200,000,000 too low in estimating this year's Government deficit.

They calculated that the Treasury will find itself $6,700,000 in the red by June 30, end of the 1950 fiscal year, instead of $5,500,000,000 Mr. Truman estimated in his January budget message.

By their appraisal, the Government seems to be suffering from a case of limping revenues that do not appear to have hampered its spending arm.

The deficit in fiscal 1950 stood at $1,888,785,525.79 last Friday, and was headed up. The total national debt that same day was $255,483,825,162.40. That is about $1703 a person on a basis of a 150,000,000 population. A $6,700,000,000 defict amounts to $44.67 apiece on the same basis.

Senator George (D., Ga.), chairman of the Joint Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, presented a new fiscal forecast prepared by the committee's tax experts.

The committee's formal report said the staff took account of "the disappointing collections, especially from individual income tax, since January of this year."

Looking ahead to the 1951 fiscal year, which begins July 1, George said the staff figured the Government would go $7,300,000,000 into the red in that twelvemonth. President Truman estimated the 1951 deficit at $5,100,000,000 and predicted that the country would be "moving toward budgetary balance in the next few years."

George commented that in past estimates the committee staff has "not missed the mark greatly."

The staff's estimates were based on an assumed national income of 212 billion dollars in calendar 1950, dropping to 207 billion dollars in the first six months of 1951.

Steel Shortage Seen Threat to Small Firms

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Federal Trade Commissioner James M. Mead yesterday added his warning to those of other Government officials that the United States faces a permanent steel shortage.

Mead told a House Judiciary subcommittee that studies should be made to determine whether current shortages can be remedied to avoid "a substantial lessening of competition" with ultimate higher prices for consumers. The subcommittee, headed by Representative Celler (D., N. Y.), is investigating alleged monopolies in the industry.

The danger for the future, he declared, was that ore shortages might leave small steel companies at the mercy of the big corporations that control a large proportion of the sources of ore.

Garland Peyton, director of the Georgia Department of Mines, informed the committee that his State had reserves from which 800,000 tons of brown iron ore and manganese ore could be developed, but which were being neglected by the steel companies. He urged that these ores be classed as strategic materials so they could be stockpiled.

Peyton said there "appeared" to be a "sort of gentlemen's agreement" among steel company ore buyers to bypass Georgia ores in favor of those from other sources.

Hagerty Quits Waltham Co. To Rejoin RFC

By The Associated Press

John J. Hagerty, who left a Reconstruction Finance Corporation job last year to head the Waltham Watch Co., has returned to RFC. The watch concern shut down two months ago.

A Senate Banking subcommittee looked last year into Hagerty's shift from the RFC to Waltham. It developed evidence that Hagerty accepted the company's presidency—at a reported salary of $30,000 a year—after the RFC had agreed to make a six-million-dollar loan to the firm on his recommendation.

RFC officials said yesterday Hagerty had returned to the Government lending agency as a special assistant to the board of directors. His salary is $10,330 a year.

That was approximately the pay he received as head of RFC's Boston agency before he became president of Waltham in April, 1949.

Rexall 1-Cent Sale Misrepresentation Denied to FTC

New York, April 18 (AP).—The Rexall stores tonight denied Federal Trade Commission charges of misrepresentation of prices in "one cent" sales.

The ETC yesterday ordered Rexall to halt what was termed "representations that two units of merchandise may be purchased for the price of one, plus one cent, when the advertised single-unit 'price' is actually higher than the price at which one unit is customarily sold."

The FTC said Rexall had done this several times each year.

In a statement, Rexall president Justin W. Dart said that "for the past several years the company has voluntarily adjusted its advertising to conform to the requirements of the FTC and has been free of any criticism since that time.

"On our one cent sales this weekend, all one cent sale items will be sold at two for the regular price of one, plus one cent. We are informed that this policy has the full approval of the FTC."

DAR Congress Side Glances

While DAR applicants will spend a great deal of time and effort to find out the date of their Revolutionary ancestors, they are hesitant about giving their own birth date.

Mrs. William V. Tynes, the registrar general realizing that a woman's age is her own business, came up with this solution at yesterday morning's session:

DAR aspirants need fill in their birth date on only one application. This will remain a deep, dark secret at national headquarters.

A new name for the Daughters was added to many others at the opening session Monday.

John Welchel Finger, president general of the Sons of the American Revolution, said he often wanted to be on the same stage as "the goddesses of the broad ribbon of Mount Olympus."

The new administration building received a new street number yesterday—with patriotic significance. The number was changed from 1720 D street to 1776 D street.

Ex-GI Reverts To Life of Crime

Topeka, Kans., April 18 (U.P.)—Charles Hinkley, 25, a former Marine who gambled his life in a delicate brain operation to cure his criminal tendencies, has reverted to crime and left a trail of "hot" checks from Kansas to Massachusetts, it was revealed today.

Hinkley underwent a prefrontal lobotomy last October in Miami, where he had been arrested on embezzling charges because "I'm better off dead than going on this way."

He later was sent to a hospital here to recuperate and find a "new personality." But today detectives reported Hinkley had fled three weeks ago and made his way to Massachusetts, where he was arrested.

Mrs. O'Byrne Dedicates New DAR Building

Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne reached the peak of her three-year administration as president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday when she dedicated the new administration building.

Under cloudy skies at the DAR site, and overflowing onto the adjacent Red Cross grounds, the Daughters gathered to participate in the brief ceremonies dedicating the last building on the DAR block.

It was "an occasion we will never forget," in the words of Mrs. O'Byrne.

"Our Memorial Continental Hall," she said, "the symbol of the dignity and enduring strength of the DAR, has been joined by this administration building to Constitution Hall, our stately temple of culture."

It wasn't always smooth sailing in acquisition of the addition. Taking stock of the situation when she became president general, Mrs. O'Byrne recalled there was inadequate desk space in the administration building, and Memorial Continental Hall.

Cabinets were kept in the halls, important files were in the basement, and the review of application papers for DAR membership lagged three years for lack of working space.

At the congress two years ago these conditions were revealed, and a report recommended the building be built at an approximate cost of $900,000.

The congress voted unanimously for the new building. Two months after the resolution was passed the structure was begun.

The 4000 delegates and alternates will vote for the first time in O'Byrne Voting Hall in the new building Thursday.

Miss Katherine Matthies, who made the largest single contribution to the building fund, gave $30,000 for the room where the Daughters will register and ballot.

flower Hotel at the close of Wednesday's session." The invitation was extended through Mrs. Harper D. Sheppard, honorary vice president general, and Mrs. Grace L. H. Brosseau, honorary president general.

Mrs. Patton, during yesterday's building-fund pledging session, promised $2500 slated for a Patton campaign reception tonight to the DAR building fund, and pledged additional gifts during the congress.

On Monday the Texas Daughters gave Mrs. Lammers a reception in the Mayflower, attended by Mrs. O'Byrne.

Mrs. Patton's reception Monday was sponsored by Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, "in honor of Mrs. Patton as the first vice president general."

Mrs. Patton's contribution brought the total of money raised yesterday to $3960.

In her report as president general yesterday, Mrs. O'Byrne announced a gift of $10,000 to the society to begin work on a film depicting DAR patriotic activity. It is a donation from John Anderson of Gary, Ind., who will speak to the Daughters today.

In her report, Mrs. O'Byrne again stated her desire to see the administration building fund completed.

Today's meeting will include the report of the resolutions committee, of which Mrs. Roy Valentine Shrewder is chairman, and reports of other committee chairmen.

Cripps Budget Offers No End to Austerity

London, April 18 (U.P.).—Britain's Labor Government, its eye on an early election, today proposed a slight cut in lower-bracket income taxes in offering its fifth austerity budget. It totaled $9,674,000,000.

But the over-all tone of the budget for the fiscal year that began April 1 was more of the same—high taxes, frozen wages and austerity. The budget was $244,193,100 higher than last year.

There were no big cuts in taxes, no substantial changes on strict rationing, and virtually no changes in the type of life the British have lived since the war.

The Labor Government, holding a four-seat majority in the House of Commons, showed no signs of abandoning socialism.

It recognized increased cold-war tension by reversing the downward trend of defense expenditures for the first time since the war and budgeting 112 million dollars more for the military this year than last.

The income-tax cut was the major concession to the man on the street. It amounts to one sixth in the lowest tax rates.

All who pay income taxes will benefit, but the saving will be insignificant in the upper groups. The change will reduce the tax on the first $140 from 42 cents in the pound to 35 cents and the rate on the next $560 from 84 cents to 70 cents.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps delivered the budget message to a packed Commons. The Conservatives decided not to challenge it immediately, but there will be many bitter battles and probably several test votes.

In a radio broadcast later, Sir Stafford made the following points:

Gasoline—Tax of 10½ cents is doubled, making the over-all cost of a gallon about 42 cents, but the basic ration also will be doubled.

Beer—No change in the tax affecting the consumer's price, but a rejuggling of taxes so brewers will be allowed to strengthen the alcoholic content.

Tobacco—No concessions on high taxes.

Purchase tax—No changes on consumers goods, but a 50 percent decrease in the 66 2-3 percent tax on automobiles costing more than $3360.

Hoffman Report

Reds Spend Millions To Beat ECA

Chicago, April 18 (AP).—Paul G. Hoffman said today that Communists "have spent about 15 million dollars a year for anti-Marshall Plan propaganda" in France.

"On the information front, we are outmanned and outgunned 50 to 1," the Economic Cooperation Administrator declared in a speech prepared for delivery before the National Association of Broadcasters.

The allusion to Communist spending in France was made in illustrating what Hoffman called "the determination of the Russian imperialism to reduce the status of the countries now free to that of satellite police states."

He indicated that the same "Russian method" is being followed in "each target country," but he quoted no other figures.

"It is becoming increasingly clear that the Russian dictators hope to take over the free countries without resorting to a shooting war," Hoffman said. "True, they maintain a huge Red Army, but they use that army for the purpose of intimidation. The real battle for world conquest is being carried on on the economic and information fronts."

World Bank Grants India Third Loan

The World Bank yesterday granted an $18,500,000 loan to India to help develop the industrial resources of the Damodar River valley, in the northeastern part of the country.

This is the third loan the bank has made to India within a year. Last August it granted a 34-million-dollar loan for railway reconstruction and development; last September it made a 10-million-dollar loan for improving farm production.

The Damodar valley, richest mineral and industrial region of India, is the center of a unified development resembling in some respects the Tennessee Valley here. A vally authority something like the TVA has been set up to carry out a unified scheme of projects that will cost an estimated 142 million dollars.

The first of these projects is the building of a big steam electric plant, a two-mile-long dam, and 470 miles of electric transmission lines, all to cost the equivalent of 53 million dollars.

The bank's latest loan will provide power house equipment for the steam plant, construction equipment for the dam, accessories for transmission lines and equipment for substations. The balance of the cost of the project, including sterling, Swiss francs, rupees and dollars, is being financed out of India's own resources.

Dread Cholera Strikes Panic In Calcutta

Calcutta, India, April 18 (U.P.).—An outbreak of cholera reached epidemic proportions today.

Hospitals are overcrowded and floors are littered with patients. Staff workers are unable to remove victims as they die and these are "only a small fraction" of the stricken.

More than 100 persons have been hospitalized daily for the past week in Calcutta, many of them refugees from Hindu-Moslem disorders.

Outbreaks of smallpox and meningitis further overtaxed hospitals. Harassed ambulance drivers can only leave the patients on the floor of receiving rooms and speed off for new victims. But most of the arrivals are near death and cannot be saved.

Ex-GI Eludes Police in U. S. German Zone

Munich, Germany, April 18 (U.P.) Homer Cook, the Oklahoma "tough guy" today eluded three police traps, threw trained police dogs off his trail and is believed heading for the Communist East. He held up a stadium caretaker tonight, stole his clothes and escaped.

Police of three nations—France, Austria, West Germany—have been ordered to shoot the 27-year-old former GI and boxer on sight.

He escaped from the Dachau Army stockade, near here, early Monday, his second jail break in a week. For more than 24 hours he has led hundreds of German and American military police in circles around Munich.

A. U. S. Army spokesman said Cook probably will gamble on his chances with the East German and Czech people. All guards along the Soviet Zone and Czech borders have been alerted.

Truman Calls in Sen. Bridges For Foreign Policy Discussion

vited as the ranking Republican Senator, in seniority, during the absence of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), who is recovering from an operation.

"We discussed a number of the more important problems facing this Nation in the field of foreign relations," the President said, and also some of the problems involved in finding a workable means for keeping the Republican minority informed currently.

"On my instructions, Secretary Acheson has previously consulted with Senator Connally as well as with Senator Vandenberg and other Democrats and Republican members of Congress. In addition to the discussions I have had with Senator Bridges, I have also talked personally with members of the Senate of both parties. I expect to obtain the views of still others on this subject.

"With the problems facing the United States in the field of foreign relations it is most important that every effort be made to maintain a true bipartisan foreign policy.

"It will be my purpose as well as that of Secretary Acheson not only to keep the members of the minority currently informed, but to solicit their views and take them into serious account in both the formulation and implementation of our foreign policy."

Bridges seemed pleased with what he called "a very eminent gesture" by the President and the Secretary to set up a closer relationship with the Senate Republicans. "I told the President that bipartisanship in foreign policy is a good thing," he said on leaving the White House. "But I also told him I believe in the two-party system and intend to speak my views when I deem it desirable. "I also asserted that bipartisanship is a two-way street and that there must be reciprocity."

Bridges said the Administration needed to take other steps going beyond the recent appointments of John Foster Dulles and former Senator John Sherman Cooper as Republican consultants to Secretary Acheson. He described these two as "outside individuals," and said there would have to be closer consultation with Republicans in the Senate "during the formulation of policy, not after it has been established."

Among the Senators he had in mind, he explained, were Robert A. Taft (Ohio), chairman of the Republican policy committee; Eugene D. Millikin (Colo.), chairman of the Republican conference; Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.), floor leader, and Alexander Wiley (Wis.), ranking Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee during Vandenberg's illness.

Bridges was asked whether the President's comments about "sabotage" of foreign policy had been mentioned.

"We didn't relish that," he said. "The President had his say at Key West and I had mine on the Senate floor."

One result of the meeting is expected to be the end of Bridges' attempt to "get" Acheson, as he once described it; another may be smoother sailing for the Administration foreign policy legislation in the Appropriations Committee, of which Bridges is the ranking Republican member.

There were signs that yesterday's meeting had been long and carefully planned; in fact, the President's reference to "discussions" with Bridges in the plural, suggested that this was not the first such meeting with him.

But in planning yesterday's meeting someone, apparently, had failed to remember Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.) of the Foreign Relations Committee, or to tell him about it beforehand.

Connally let reporters know that he was irritated and hurt, and couldn't understand why Bridges, of all people, had been invited when Republican members of the Foreign Relations Committee were available.

He recalled that these Republicans had been put on the committee by their own party organization in the Senate. "They are the best qualified men on the Republican side to deal with foreign affairs," he said. "They should not be ignored and rebuffed in the important labors in which they are engaged."

No doubt the White House and State Department will try now to mollify Connally, whose committee only yesterday agreed "in principle" to divide into eight subcommittees for closer relations with the State Department. Each of the eight will cover one of the fields assigned to the eight Assistant Secretaries of State, and will consist of two Democrats and one Republican.

'Deutschland' Anthem Stirs Berlin Ruckus

Berlin, April 18 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of the West German republic caused several angry Socialists to stalk from the stage today when he called for a West Berlin audience to sing the third verse of "Deutschland Uber Alles (Germany Above All."

Maj. Gen. G. K. Bourne, British commandant in Berlin, who remained seated with the American and French commandants in a box of honor, said later the chancellor's action was in "bad taste."

Most of the 1500 Germans in the Titania Palast Theater stood and sang the third verse of the former national anthem of the Kaiser's empire and the Nazi reich, which says: "Unity and right and freedom for the German fatherland, toward that let us all strive in brotherhood with heart and hand."

The verse was sung again tonight when the Christian Democratic Party held a special rally for Adenauer, a leader of that party. About 4000 attended the rally in the old radio tower hall of Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels.

City Councilman Otto Bach explained his objection to the anthem this way: "We have nothing against the song itself, but we know what use the Nazis made of it. Germans don't think of 'unity and right and freedom' when they sing it, but of 'Germany, Germany above all-'"

Adenauer is visiting West Berlin to demonstrate its solidarity with West Germany. He had just concluded a speech appealing for fewer Allied controls and equal rights in the Council of Europe.

Death Notices Hint Purge In Russia

New York, April 18 (AP).—Moscow has announced in the past half year deaths of 15 Russian generals and admirals—some of them rather young.

Appearance of such obituaries so frequently in the Soviet press naturally arouses speculation in the West over the possibility of a new purge. However, there has been no hint in the advices that pass through Moscow censorship that a purge is actually under way.

Even if the Soviet press has reported all the deaths, a rather high mortality rate is indicated, particularly when a number of the officers were in their forties.

The Russians have reported also the deaths of a considerable number of civilian officials. The latest obituary of this type was that of N. V. Egorov, 48-year-old official of the Council of Ministers, whose death was announced today.

Other high-ranking functionaries also have passed away recently. They include Peter Anurov, a counselor first class in the Soviet Foreign Ministry. Another was Anatoli Kopytov, Minister of Cinematography, who died March 10 at 45.

Alexander Petukhov, deputy chief of the Communist Party Central Committee Organization Bureau, died April 13. Scientist Nikolai Luzin died March 3. He was once under fire on a charge of being servile to the ideas of Western scientists.

Last week the Berlin newspaper, Tagesspiegel, published a report that Maj. Gen. Pavel Kvashnin, former railway chief in Germany, killed himself and his family when he was caught trying to escape from Poland to Sweden.

at least partly motivated by national interest.

For generations, say continental diplomats, Britain urged its allies on the mainland to build armies, while it concentrated on maintaining a naval blockade, providing shipping, arms and money. Now, America seems to be saying the same thing, they state, and they add that it gives some support to Communist propaganda that "America plans to fight to the last Frenchman."

"Special Circumstances"

Dutch partisans also point up some "special circumstances" in their case which they say makes it illogical for the Netherlands navy to be cut and its army greatly expanded to meet the Russian threat. They urge:

1. Holland is a seafaring nation. It ranks third in shipbuilding and has the fourth largest merchant marine. It once was a first-rate naval power and still has an efficient though small fleet, consisting of an aircraft carrier, two cruisers, 16 destroyers and other escorts, seven submarines and 30 minesweepers. A shipbuilding program aimed at replacing the older vessels is under way.

2. The Netherlands Air Force is very small and its army now is ineffective. The army lacks the navy's tradition and high morale, due to its lack of experience in World Wars I and II, and after defeating the Indonesian rebels in the field Dutch troops had to turn over their armament to them under the peace treaty. There are no combat divisions now in existence and it will take time to rebuild them. Any attempt to keep the Indonesian veterans in service under the draft would not pass The Hague parliament.

Weapons Lacking For Army

3. Weapons are lacking for a new army and there are no Holland arsenals (though plenty of shipyards) to replace them. The guilder is too "soft" to permit heavy arms purchases abroad and the American military assistance program will do only a small part of the job.

4. Why not let the Netherlands "specialize" on what it can do best—that is, supply naval forces to the common pool of North Atlantic defense—and rebuild its army at a rate it can afford, suggests this Dutch viewpoint.

The above argument is cited largely to illustrate the difficulties in the way of Bradley's "national specialization" suggestion. A contrary view is held by other military men, not only in the United States and Britain, but also in Holland itself.

It is best expressed in a quip that Holland's Navy could do nothing to stop Russian occupation but only to evacuate the Hague Government to Britain again. This, of course, ignores the contributions the Dutch fleet might make to combating enemy submarines, and the question of whether any force the western powers put in the field could stop the Red Army. But that is the aim of the mutual assistance pact and of Bradley's plea for every nation to contribute what it best can do.

"When I think that national pride and sovereignty are often paid for with the life and blood of soldiers," said he, "I feel that we must accept the more difficult alternative which comes with this joining of hands in collective defense."

D. C. To Be Used As Ocean Port For First Time

For the first time in Washington's history, an ocean-going cruise ship will use the city's waterfront as a port of embarkation on June 18.

On that day, the Eastern Steamship Line's SS. Evangeline will leave here for a 12-day cruise for the Bahama Islands, Puerto Rico, and Virgin Islands.

The 10,000-ton reconditioned hospital ship will accommodate 400 passengers and has a lounge, grill room, night club and an air-conditioned dining salon. Reservations are being handled by the United States Travel Agency, 807 15th st. nw.

Use of the waterfront by large ships, previously impossible because of a high channel base, was made possible by the recently completed dredging of the Potomac Channel to a 24-foot depth.

Hainan Says Invasion Smashed

Hongkong (Wednesday), April 19 (U.P.).—The Chinese air force today said the Nationalists have inflicted a major defeat on Communists attempting to invade Hainan Island, but admitted the Reds had established a beachhead.

The announcement said the beachhead, 21 miles west of Hoihow, the capital, had been encircled and that Communist troops ashore were under heavy naval and air bombardment.

The pro-Communist Hongkong press insisted the invaders were expanding their beachhead, but gave no details. Pro-Nationalist newspapers said the invasion attempt ended in disaster and that there was dancing in Hoihow streets.

The Air Force announcement, issued on Formosa, said that in a 30-hour battle naval and air attacks sank 200 of the Communists' 400 invasion vessels and left others in flames, scattered over the 10-mile wide Hainan Strait. It estimated 2000 killed in these attacks, but gave no casualties for those ashore.

Press dispatches, quoting Nationalist officials on Hainan, placed the total invasion force at 15,000 and said all but 1100 had been killed, driven off or had deserted to the Nationalists.

The invasion appeared to be the biggest Communist attempt yet to capture the Nationalist base. Rout of the invaders would be one of the biggest Nationalist victories of the war.

Pro-Nationalist dispatches gave this account of the battle:

The Red invasion fleet put to sea Sunday from Luichow Peninsula, was spotted by Nationalist air patrols and immediately subjected to intensive bombing and strafing by planes which called for naval support, Nationalist reports said.

Most of the invasion fleet was scattered or sunk. The Nationalists yesterday estimated they inflicted between 7500 and 10,000 casualties.

Truman Will Ignore Record, GOP Holds

Chicago, April 18 (U.P.).—Republican National Chairman Guy Gabrielson tonight predicted that President Truman, on his forthcoming cross-country tour, will ignore his "sorry record" and go on the offensive in an attempt to "hoodwink" the people.

He declared that the President will promise everyone a "gold mine in the sky" and blame all his troubles on the Republicans.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Western Railway Club, Gabrielson said that Mr. Truman "intends to stay in power" and that the voters "will be promised and bribed to accomplish his purposes."

Grabrielson charged that the President will be riding a "gravy train" when he sets out on his tour 10 days hence "in a desperate attempt to save the socialistic Fair Deal."

But he said the President realized that "Nation-wide resentment" has built up against his Administration.

"Mr. Truman further realizes that unless he can continue to hoodwink the American people the whole socialistic Fair Deal will blow up in his face," he said.

Gabrielson said that the election of only five more Democratic Senators and 20 more Representatives would make the President's legislative program a reality.

He called upon voters to rally to the Republican banner for "The Preservation of Liberty."

Home Mail Deliveries Cut

and parcels of obvious value will be discontinued.

North said the present three daily deliveries in the business area will be continued from Benjamin Franklin and Connecticut ave. offices. In some areas, business deliveries will be reduced from three to two.

North said no reductions in force will be made until May 19, but plans for them will commence immediately.

Deputy Postmaster General Vincent C. Burke estimated the reduced service order will cut about 10,000 persons off the present National postal force of a half-million but will not wipe out the department deficit. He said the changes will be generally effective throughout the country in a month.

The official of the deficit-ridden department pinned the responsibility for the order on the House Appropriations Committee. "They control the purse-strings," he noted.

In issuing the order to postmasters over the nation, Postmaster General Donaldson quoted liberally from a report of the House committee of March 21:

"The committee has discussed with the Postmaster General certain proposals for effecting economies, and realizes that probably all of the suggestions made will provoke some complaints from one source or another.

"Nevertheless, the financial condition of the United States Treasury is such that every step possible must be taken to save money.

"The committee believes that sizable savings could be made by a reduction of the number of deliveries per day to many areas, particularly on those routes serving residential areas exclusively. Residential areas receive from one to three deliveries a day; rural patrons receive one delivery a day.

"The committee urges the Postmaster General to provide for the rearrangement of city delivery service so as to reduce the number of deliveries wherever possible."

The cutback was promptly denounced by President William C. Doherty of the National Association of Letter Carriers, AFL, as "a rape of the postal service."

He said the union has asked the Senate Post Office Committee to take steps to block "this devastating, ill-advised and unnecessary order."

The House recently passed a bill to raise postal rates on postcards, parcel post and second-class matter. This was aimed to bring in 131 million dollars a year in revenue. The bill is now pending in the Senate.

However, even if passed, it would meet only a fraction of the department's 551-million-dollar deficit, Donaldson pointed out in his semiweekly "Postal Bulletin" to postal officials.

Two Buffalo Men Held in $500,000 Bogus Money Plot

Buffalo, N. Y., April 18 (U.P.).—Secret Service agents today arrested two men described as leaders of a Nation-wide ring of counterfeiters organized to flood the country with $500,000 in bogus $10 and $20 bills.

Edwin Manning, Secret Service agent in charge of the Buffalo district, identified the two as Salvatore Salli, 39, and Anthony Iraci, 36, both of Buffalo.

The Secret Service said the two also were "the moving spirits in widespread counterfeiting of OPA ration stamps during the war the organizers of the ring which recently counterfeited large amounts of Canadian currency." Salli was free in $10,000 bail following conviction on a narcotics charge.

House GOP to Seek More Than 10% Cut in U.S. Payment to D. C. Today

tions, which follow the big D. C. item in the bill.

Under a unanimous consent agreement, reached a fortnight ago, there was no general debate on the District fund.

House Appropriations Chairman Clarence Cannon announced the House will simply start voting on the D. C. stakes when it convenes at noon today under the "five-minute rule" limiting talk on each District amendment, and then proceed to vote on the bill's legislative appropriations.

Although two hours of debate had been scheduled on the legislative "chapter," the House quit early yesterday (at 1:42 p.m.) to attend the baseball season opener at Griffith Stadium.

Taber told newsmen the proposed percentage slash in the District's Federal payment "will in no sense set a pattern" for other cuts Republicans hope to make in the bill.

"We will try to cut some chapters more, and others less," Taber said. "The reductions we propose on the floor will depend on how much each chapter has been trimmed in committee. I can say only I hope to make a substantial total saving in the bill."

Cannon emphasized he was more concerned about organized pressures for unjustified increases in the bill than he was about threatened cuts.

Cannon said he would oppose any cut in the District's Federal payment, however. He said it was his understanding that both Democrats and Republicans on the District Appropriations subcommittee favored the 12-million-dollar figure.

That amount, as the Federal Government's share of District expenses, is now substantive law. Congress made permanent provision for a 12-dollar- payment in revising the District income tax three years ago.

The estimated cost of running the District in the 1951 fiscal year was set at $119,244,875 in the President's budget. The Federal payment is less than 10 per cent of that figure. The detail District budget has not yet cleared the Appropriations Committee. Only the Federal obligation was made part of the omnibus measure.

As the House returned to work on the pooled appropriation bill, after a 10-day Easter recess, Cannon predicted "very few changes" will be made in the committee draft despite pressures for increases in local construction projects.

"In all my service in the House, I can't recall a time when the committee has received so many wires and letters opposing cuts already made by the committee," he told newsmen. "They all want economy somewhere else."

Taber said, however, he expected "very few increases" in the bill. The New York Republican said he personally will take the floor against increases in the civil projects section "and I may have an announcement that will surprise you."

In addition, Taber said he will read Dwight D. Eisenhower's hitherto unpublished statement to the House Appropriations Committee. Taber argues Eisenhower's statement does not justify a current drive to increase defense appropriations by more than 500 million dollars.

Tornadoes Rip Mobile; Floods Hit Minnesota

By The Associated Press

Twin tornadoes ripped into the Mobile, Ala., area Tuesday, toppling houses, trees and power line poles and sending 14 persons to hospitals.

Far to the north, flood-swollen rivers, fed by melting snow, drove several thousand persons from their homes in North Dakota and Minnesota. However, a surge of cold air from Canada brought the prospect of another freeze. This would remove temporarily the threat of new flood damage.

The Alabama tornadoes hit four communities on opposite shores of Mobile Bay. One battered residential sections in the Moffett rd., Whistler and Saraland communities. The second, of lesser force, blasted Spanish Fort 13 miles east of Mobile.

All the injured were in the three communities near Mobile.

angry in tone than the bristling note—virtually an ultimatum—that went to Yugoslavia on Aug. 21, 1946, after the shooting down of an American plane.

On that occasion Marshal Tito promptly expressed regrets at the loss of American lives, and ultimately paid an indemnity to the fliers' families.

The text of the note to Moscow follows:

"The Ambassador of the United States of America presents his compliments to the Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and, with reference to the note of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of April 11, 1950, has the honor to state that the only American military aircraft which was in the air in the Baltic area on April 8, 1950, was a United States Navy Privateer airplane which disappeared on that date and no trace of its crew has since been found.

"The United States Navy airplane carried 10 persons. It was wholly unarmed. It left Wiesbaden at 10:31 a. m. Greenwich time for a flight over the Baltic Sea and 2½ hours later reported by radio crossing the coast line of the British zone of Germany. All American military aircraft operate under strict instructions to avoid flying over any foreign territory in the absence of express permission for such a flight from the appropriate foreign government. The investigation conducted by the United States Government has convinced it that the United States Navy airplane in question complied strictly with these instructions and did not fly over any Soviet or Soviet-occupied territory or territorial waters adjacent thereto.

"In the Ministry's communication under reference the Soviet Government acknowledges that one of its fighter aircraft fired upon an American plane on April 8, 1950, at 5:30 p. m. Moscow time. In view of the fact that the only American military airplane which was in the air in the Baltic area on that date was the unarmed United States Navy airplane mentioned above and that this airplane was at no time after it crossed the coast line of Germany over any foreign territory or territional waters, it must be concluded that Soviet military aircraft fired upon an unarmed American plane over the open sea, following which the American airplane was lost.

Protest in Most Solemn Manner

"The Ambassador of the United States has been instructed to protest in the most solemn manner against this violation of international law and of the most elementary rules of peaceful conduct between nations. The United States Government demands that the Soviet government institute a prompt and thorough investigation of this matter in order that the facts set forth above may be confirmed to its satisfaction. The United States Government further demands that the most strict and categorical instructions be issued to the Soviet air force that there be no repetition, under whatever pretext, of incidents of this kind which are so clearly calculated to magnify the difficulties of maintaining peaceful and correct international relationships.

"The United States Government confidently expects that, when its investigation is completed, the Soviet government will express its regret for the unlawful and provocative behavior of its aviators, will see to it that those responsible for this action are promptly and severely punished and will, in accordance with established custom among peace-loving nations, pay appropriate indemnity for the unprovoked destruction of American lives and property."

Fair Labor Practice Funds Sought Here

District Commissioners yesterday decided to ask Congress for funds to set up machinery assuring fair employment practices in the District government.

It was the first action taken since last summer when the Commissioners decided to follow Federal policies and instructed their personnel board to draft a plan of procedure.

On the board's recommendation yesterday, the Commissioners agreed to seek funds to hire a fair employment officer and staff. An earlier recommendation to assign the duties to an assistant Corporation Counsel had been turned down on the grounds that office is overworked.

The personnel board has also recommended adoption of a procedural plan which closely resembles that followed by Federal agencies. The plan provides that:

1. Each department head is personally responsible for an "effective program" to assure that fair employment practices are fully observed in all personnel actions within his agency.

2. All recommended appointments or promotions shall "be based solely on merit and fitness and no discrimination shall be countenanced because of race, color, religion or national origin."

3. The fair employment officer will receive complaints and make recommendations to the Commissioners on appointing investigative boards and on corrective or disciplinary action.

Victor A. Howard, secretary of the personnel board, said he knew of no complaint ever having been made of discrimination in the District government.

Arlington School Bias Case Appeal Before Federal Court

Richmond, Va., April 18 (AP).—Charges of illegal discrimination were aired before the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit here today by attorneys for Negro students who had lost their suit against the Arlington County School Board.

Attorneys for the Negro pupils asked for reversal of Alexandria Federal Judge Albert V. Bryan's dismissal of their suit against the school board and Fletcher Kemp, then superintendent of schools.

They argued that the lower court based its ruling primarily on the fact that Washington-Lee, for whites, has more than 2300 students, while the Hoffman-Boston High School, for Negroes ,has only 270 pupils.

Despite the fact that the smaller number of students at Hoffman-Boston makes equality of facilities harder to achieve, the rights sought are personal rights, guaranteed as such under the Constitution of the United States, Attorneys for the Negroes reminded.

Counsel for the school board insisted that the district judge properly had ruled, on the basis of all evidence, that substantial equality existed between the two schools and that, in the absence of inequality of treatment, no discrimination had been shown.

The suit was originally brought by the former Constance Carter, now Mrs. James Mason of Arlington, and others.

Root Shift Legality Questioned

Harry S. Wender, chairman of the District Recreation Board, yesterday asked the Corporation Counsel for a ruling on the legality of the Interior Department's sudden change in its representative to the local board.

The shift Monday replaced Irving C. Root, superintendent of National Capital Parks, by his special assistant, Edward J. Kelly. It was said to have been caused by Root's reputed misgivings about the Interior Department's decision to open its swimming pools this summer on a non-segregated basis.

In asking for a ruling, Wender quoted from the act creating the recreation board that one of its members must be "the Superintendent of the National Capital Parks ex officio."

Wender indicated he was not pleased with the change. "I see no reason why Mr. Root should not be permitted to continue to serve," he said. "He knows the recreation board and its problems intimately."

The change in itself is not expected to alter the recreation board's 4-to-2 stand against operating the city pools on a non-segregated basis. Root has always voted at board meetings to uphold the administration's non-segregation policy.

1. A NEW KIND OF STUDENT in American industry. Bob Bertouille, 19, one of 7,500 ambitious men enrolled in Ford's various "work-and-training" programs, earns good pay while he learns. Bob's story, one typical of the younger generation at Ford, is a far cry from that of the old underpaid apprentice. With classroom work in college subjects added to everyday shop practice, Bob is many steps "up the ladder" at an early age.

2. BOB NOW WORKS FOR LINCOLN-MERCURY Division of the Engineering Department in the largest drafting room in the world. He started there at $223.50 a month, earns $294.00 a month plus overtime now. Payment for trainees is based on scholarship as well as experience. Bob's grades have averaged above 95. Ford's program means better jobs and incomes for thousands of young men. Nearly 1,000 are now taking advanced classroom studies while working.

WHAT'S GOING ON AT FORD...

UNIVERSITY IN SHIRTSLEEVES

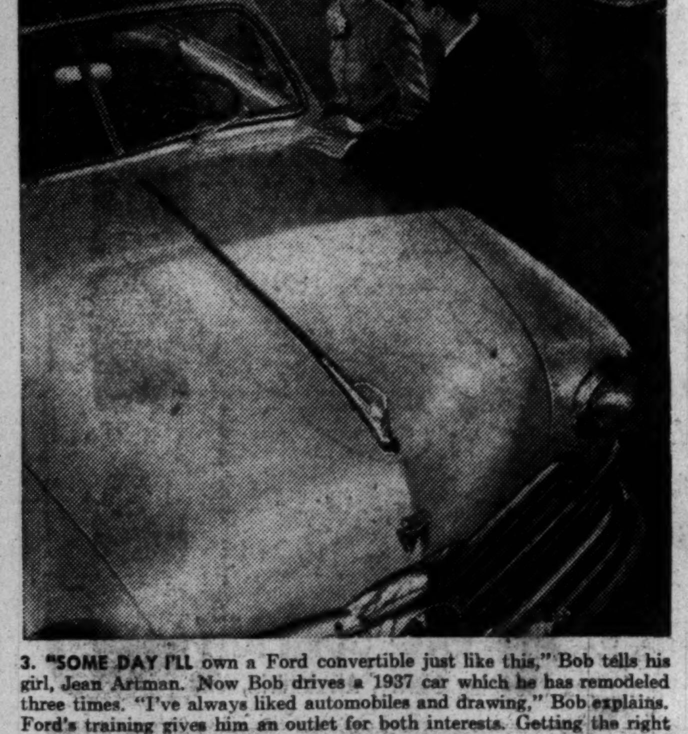
7,500 ambitious men earn while they learn at Ford

Does today's complex industrial picture destroy a man's opportunity for self-advancement? Not at Ford!

Located inside the huge Ford plant at Dearborn is the "campus" of one of the country's largest industrial institutions of learning. It might well be called a "University in Shirtsleeves." Here, 7,500 ambitious men can advance as fast as their abilities will allow, providing the Company with a continuing source of skilled workers, engineers and executives.

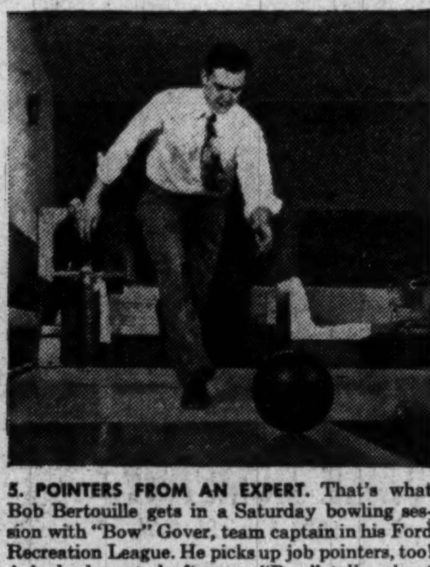
Industrial learning may begin, as Bob Bertouille's did, with Henry Ford Trade School or with any other qualified trade school. From this step until he becomes an expert in his chosen line, the Ford trainee is exposed to both on-the-job and classroom teaching. All the time he is learning, the worker-student is earning, advancing in both his responsibilities and pay.

Ford's "university" is part of "the Ford idea," in that it gives the individual greater earnings and job security; gives Ford new talent and stronger team spirit; contributes to the industrial "know-how" of the nation as a whole.



3. "SOME DAY I'LL own a Ford convertible just like this," Bob tells his girl, Jean Artman. Now Bob drives a 1937 car which he has remodeled three times. "I've always liked automobiles and drawing," Bob explains. Ford's training gives him an outlet for both interests. Getting the right man for the right job is only one phase of Ford's program. Rewarding ability and promoting steady employment are others.

4. TOP MARKS IN EVERYTHING. At Dearborn Naval Reserve Training Center, Bob shows his two older brothers a recent test which advanced his rating. Bob's father is a World War I veteran. Three sons followed him into the Navy—three into Ford—three own Ford cars.



5. POINTERS FROM AN EXPERT. That's what Bob Bertouille gets in a Saturday bowling session with "Bow" Gover, team captain in his Ford Recreation League. He picks up job pointers, too! A body layout draftsman, "Bow" talks about the job that Bob hopes to handle some day

Antipollution Plan Deemed Up to States

State officials were assured yesterday that the program of the Nation's Water Pollution Control Advisory Board will, in the end, be the States' own, not a Federally-dictated one.

Board Chairman Mark D. Hollis, Assistant Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, said that although the drive is national in scope, its final implementation will be up to individual States.

He declared, however, that if some States are not interested the national program will be weakened. "What we've been doing in the past has been shotgun therapy. There has been no concerted effort to take on the problem as a whole up till now."

The board is presently compiling, assembling and analyzing data from various water basins, preliminary to publishing suggestions for remedial action. Among these is the Potomac River Basin.

One of the handicaps in carrying out remedial programs is the shortage of qualified technical personnel with water pollution experience, Carl E. Schwob, Chief of the Health Service Division of Water Pollution Control, declared. He specified engineers, chemists, bacteriologists and biologists.

A national technical task committee on industrial waste will meet here May 9 and 10 to discuss the problem with the Surgeon General's staff.

Woman Found Dead in SE Wooded Area

Police and Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District coroner, were investigating yesterday the death of Mrs. Minnie Miller, 57, of 2977 Fort Baker dr. se.

Her body was found yesterday morning in a wooded area near 28th st. and Texas ave. se. On April 12, her husband, Harold Miller, 58, reported to police that she had left home two days before, leaving an "unusual" note.

Police said at least one other note was found with her body. A small, unlabeled bottle, partially filled with water, was found beside the body, as was Mrs. Miller's purse with contents intact. They have one son, Harold, jr., 18.

Police said they learned that last September, Mrs. Miller took an overdose of sleeping pills. Miller told them his wife had been in the habit of taking train or bus rides for days at a time. She was under care of a physician.

After an autospy, Dr. MacDonald declined to certify cause of death pending further inquiry. Police said Mrs. Miller apparently had been dead eight days.

Land Assessor Board Named In Arlington

Fred A. Gosnell, Arlington real estate man, was appointed head of a five-man Board of Land Assessors, named yesterday to conduct Arlington's quadrennial reassessment of property in 1950.

Other members of the board, appointed yesterday by Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy, are: Vincent F. Mullin, real estate broker; Charles L. Hanowell, real estate; William J. Hassan, lawyer; J. W. England, former builder, now with the Merchants' Transfer Co.

The board will set the taxable value of all Arlington property. This year for the first time the County Board will appoint a Board of Tax Equalization to hear appeals from the Board of Assessors, under a special act passed by the last Virginia legislature.

BETTY SUOMELA

Los Angeles, April 18 (AP).—Indebtedness, not "the other woman," aeronautical engineer John H. Grant told police today, caused him to plot the death of his wife and two children and 13 other persons aboard a commercial airliner yesterday.

Red-haired Betty Suomela, 31, a stewardess of another airline, said Grant had proposed marriage to her, she loved him and she wanted to help him, if possible.

Detective Ned G. Logsdon said Grant, 31, dictated an extensive statement about his plot to do away with his family, collect $25,000 in insurance, and square himself financially.

Grant's wife, Betty, 26, and their daughter, Marie, 6, and son, Robert, 5, were aboard a United Air Lines San Diego-bound plane yesterday when he rused to the baggage-loading rack and shouted: "Don't let that plane take off! I just put a bag on it full of gasoline."

The bag was carried to the runway, where it burst into flames. Chemists said it contained a clock bomb that would have ignited a gasoline-filled rubber innertube and set fire to the plane 50 minutes after departure.

Grant's wife said today she intends to stand by him.

Husband Wins Divorce, Child

An absolute divorce decree asked by John G. Robinson, jr., of Riverdale, Md., awarding him custody of a 6-year-old daughter will be signed by Judge J. Dudley Digges of Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

Judge Digges, in announcing his decision in Upper Marlboro yesterday, said he believed Mrs. Eva V. Robinson, the attractive 27-year-old wife, guilty of adultery.

He said he will give Robinson, a Naval Research Laboratory worker who lives at 4503 Queensberry rd., custody of the child, directing that she live with her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Robinson, sr., in Riverdale.

During the divorce trial, Robinson charged his wife, whom he married in 1941, of intimacies with a Washington cab driver. The cabbie, identified by the judge as Dallas A. Barnett, testified his association with Mrs. Robinson was merely that of a "family friend."

No Finer List of Names On Earth!

If you had in your hand a list of all the people who own and ride in Cadillac cars, we think you'd agree that you could search in vain for another list of equal size—and greater distinction.

Cadillac is the great common meeting ground for the world's distinguished people. Wherever the car is available, it has become almost the automatic companion for outstanding achievement.

Naturally, only long-continued goodness could have placed Cadillac in such an enviable position. Its owners are too numerous, too varied and too intelligent to have been won and held by any thing save quality alone.

Being the discriminating people they are—they have come to Cadillac because they know it is, consistently, as fine a medium of personal transportation as it is practical to produce.

And yet, such is the magic of Cadillac's manufacturing ingenuity, that this internationally distinguished car is available at a price which makes it a great practical value.

The lowest-priced Cadillac model—the lovely "Sixty-One"—actually costs less than certain models of numerous other makes of cars.

The great Cadillac engine is so economical to operate that gasoline mileage actually approaches that of the smallest, most economical cars. In a recent officially-supervised economy run, three Cadillac cars averaged better than twenty-two miles to the gallon for 751 miles!

And there is simply no practical limit to the car's endurance. It is merely a question of how long you wish to keep it and drive it. The full lifespan of a Cadillac has never been measured.

Faced with these great practical facts, don't you feel it's the part of wisdom to add your own name to the list of those who own this distinguished car?

This is a wonderful year for moving up to Cadillac. The car has never been so beautiful, so luxurious—so utterly thrilling to ride in and drive. It is an everlasting satisfaction to utilize and possess.

Better come in and talk it over. We'd be most happy to see you—any time. But please bear in mind that every day you delay will cost you its price in pleasure and satisfaction. In view of this, don't you think you'd be wise to come in today?

Widow Asks December-May Romance Rewrite

Annapolis, Md., April 18 (AP).—A young widow asked the Court of Appeals today to rewrite the ending of "The Story-Book Failure of a December and May Romance."

She is entitled to one third of all the holdings of her late husband, lawyers for Mrs. Louise M. Hebditch argued.

They sought to void a separation agreement by which she consented to give up all a wife's rights to her husband's property.

Mrs. Hebditch was under 21 when she signed the pact. Hence she was not bound by the terms, they insisted.

Mrs. Hebditch, the former Louise Andrews of Harford County, was only 18 when she married 71-year-old John C. Hebditch, wealthy Havre de Grace businessman, on January 14, 1948.

Mrs. Hebditch estimated her husband, president of a bottling works and real estate firm, was worth more than $700,000. He died March 24, 1949.

3 Indicted on Check Charges

An Arlington Circuit Court grand jury yesterday indicted three men on a total of 11 counts, stemming from attempts to pass three forged checks last February.

The three, allegedly involved in trying to pass checks for $1110, drawn on the Arlington Trust Co., are: Samuel Birnbaum and Buck Goins, both of 6107 N. 18th st., Arlington, and Jadean E. Zirkle, for whom no address was given.

William R. Kirkpatrick, 26, of 1415 1st st., nw., indicted Monday by the grand jury, pleaded guilty yesterday to larceny of a safe containing $1183 from the Fairlington Laundry, 3800 S. Four Mile Run dr.

Montgomery Short Term Debt Erased

For the first time in 20 years, Montgomery County is free of short term indebtedness, Finance Director Alexander K. Hancock disclosed yesterday.

However, present bonded indebtedness totals $18,791,400, he said. This figure will be raised to $23,101,400, or 6½ percent of the county's 352 million dollars assessable base, by the end of the fiscal year, he added.

Amounting to $1,530,100 in 1945, the short term debt load was knocked down to $600,000 by last June 30.

Hancock attributed the absence of short term notes to two factors—strict adherence to budgetary appropriations and the decrease in tax account delinquencies.

It will probably be necessary to issue tax anticipation certificates within the next three months to cover current operating expenses, Hancock said, as "we don't know just when the State will turn over the county's share of 1949 State income tax receipts."

FBI Agent Won't Testify In ABC Case

A District ABC Board hearing was continued indefinitely yesterday after an FBI agent refused to testify and testimony of the other Government witness was challenged.

Before the board was a charge that Lane's Liquor Locker, Inc., 3108-3110 Rhode Island ave., ne., had bought and kept on its premises 43 cases of beer stolen a year ago from an interstate shipment.

FBI Agent L. E. Buscher, who had investigated the theft, was called as a Government witness, but refused to testify. Assistant Attorney General James M. McInerney told a reporter it was feared public discussion of the FBI's information might "compromise its sources."

Earlier, ABC Inspector Carl Anderegg had started to tell of overhearing a person tell an FBI agent of selling the beer to an official of the liquor store. This was challenged by the store's attorney as incompetent testimony. The board withheld a ruling pending further developments of the hearing.

and valuables. They then took $40 worth of narcotics from the safe, $607.82 from cash registers, and fled.

Capt. Murray said they were viewed after their arrest last night by victims in the store and identified. Then, he said, they confessed the robbery.

At the time, one of the men apparently the leader, was described as "6 feet tall and wearing a goatee." Captain Murray said McDaniel still had a part of the goatee when arrested, though he had apparently used a razor to alter it since the holdup.

Police next brought in Robert Preston, who was robbed of $250 in the rear of his confectionery store at 447 New York ave. nw., on April 11. Captain Murray said Preston identified all four men, and they admitted that robbery.

He said that McDaniel also admitted being the partner on April 11 of Andrew Carlos Ware, 28, of 1333 10th st. nw., in the $2393 holdup of the office of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co., at 2002 11th st. nw. At the time, police pursued the bandits, exchanged shots with—and captured Ware.

Though Ware denied participation in that or other robberies, police said, he was identified in the insurance robbery and in five others.

Victims of the five other robberies were being brought to Police Headquarters last night to view the four men newly arrested, and Captain Murray said confidently that "we'll clear more cases."

He said the four men will go before United States Commissioner C. S. Lawrence today charged with the two robberies in which all were identified.

Group Formed to Fight Transit Fare Raise

A Citizens Committee Against A Transit Fare increase was formed Monday night at a meeting in the office of Local 209, Cooks, Pastry Cooks and Kitchen Employes, AFL, at 1215 I st. nw.

The group plans a "real fight against any fare increase," arguing that "this is the time to cut the cost of living, not to increase it. People who work for wages will have to deprive themselves and their families of food if a fare increase is granted," John Martini, business manager of the local, declared.

Martini was elected chairman of the newly formed committee. The Rev. A. J. Allen, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was chosen co-chairman, and Thomas Sampler, secretary-treasurer of Local 74, Laborers Union, AFL, was elected vice chairman, the committee announced.

The group will meet with People's Counsel John O'Dea Tuesday and invited civic leaders and organizations to join in committee activities.

Lucas Denies Crime Inquiry Is Thwarted

appeared to be a "possible perversion of Federal authority."

Slaughter was cleared on Monday of charges of not registering as a lobbyist. Brewster said his only "crime" was refusing to accept the "dictation" of the Administration when he was a Democratic member of the House Rules Committee.

Brewster brought in the recent slayings of Democratic political figures in Kansas City and declared there is "more and more abounding evidence of the imperative necessity" of an all-out probe of gambling and racketeering and their effect on politics.

Lucas said scornfully that "it's amazing what you hear in a political year" and he added he expected "we will hear criticism of the Administration from every conceivable angle" up until the November election.

Kefauver to Press Issue

Senator Kefauver (D., Tenn.), scheduled to head the special crime committee, told reporters he will keep pressing for Senate approval at the earliest possible moment. He tried unsuccessfully late Monday to have the Senate put the issue ahead of ECA.

Kefauver said he had had a "sort of an understanding" with Lucas that the majority leader would bring up the measure before launching into ECA.

To Hear City, State Officials

Meanwhile the Senate Commerce Subcommittee, headed by Senator McFarland (D., Ariz.), on Thursday and Friday will hear about 20 mayors, State attorneys general and other local law enforcement officials. They are to testify on the proposed bill to prohibit interstate transmission of gambling information.

Each can expect to be asked just how many bookies are operating in his city. Senator Capehart (R., Ind.) made it clear earlier this week he intends to put the question to each witness.

Meanwhile, Chairman John Tope of the Young Republican National Federation called for an FBI cleanup of Kansas City. He said the shootings there dramatize the need for a crackdown on "the scandalous and wicket Nation-wide alliance of crime and politics." Tope called on President Truman to order the FBI into action "even though it involves washing his own dirty linen on the banks of the Missouri."

Police Here Join in Hunt For Heiress

New York, April 18 (AP).—The father of chain-store heiress Joyce Irene Green today said his 18-year-old daughter was married Monday in an elopement to North Carolina.

H. L. Green said his daughter and 22-year-old Juan Gonzales Cuevas, Cuban son of a miami transit executive, were wed yesterday at Nashville, N. C.

Green said the young couple was honeymooning "somewhere in the South."

They had been sought by police of 14 States since last Friday when the darkhaired beauty vanished from a fashionable Massachusetts finishing school.

Cuevas bore her away in a yellow convertible coupe in the climax of a romance that began on shipboard beneath a tropic moon.

In Washington, police were alerted to look for the couple on reports they were headed there.

Capital police were pitched into the search on information that a convertible bearing a Massachusetts license passed through Baltimore, heading south.

Green, meanwhile, said he had called off the search.

Amiens, France, April 18 (AP).—Paul Demaie, 70, a bricklayer, last night announced the birth of his thirty-sixth child. Demaie's first wife died in 1927 after giving birth to 24 children. He married again in 1935.

Vandenberg Better, Hears Nats' Game

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), recuperating from his recent tumor-removal operation, was yesterday reported well enough to listen to the ball game.

A cheering factor, too, was the pathologist's final report that the tumor showed no evidence of cancer.

Vandenberg tuned in on the radio broadcast of the American League's opening-day baseball game here, it was reported. His physician, Dr. Robert F. Owen, said he was "well pleased" with his patient's condition.

The 66-year-old Senator is convalescing at Georgetown Hospital where a tumor was removed from near his spinal cord on April 11.

Sewage Flow In Arlington Hit by State

Richmond, Va., April 18 (AP).—The State Water Control Board today decided to take steps to curb the discharge of untreated sewage by Arlington County into Four Mile Run.

The board directed its executive secretary to obtain an order to abate pollution caused by the discharge of raw sewage.

R. M. Wirt, Arlington's director of public service, and F. H. Doe, jr., sanitary engineer, told the board that sewer lines were being constructed to take remaining discharges out of the Potomac River and to convey all of their sewage to the site of an existing sewage-treatment plant.

Also appearing before the board was Guy Ancell, Alexandria city manager, who said the city could proceed no further with its sewage-treatment plans until an annexation suit against Fairfax County is settled.

Best Use Of Hospitals

The Veterans' Administration has incurred heavy criticism in Congress for its unwillingness to take over five old military hospitals instead of building new ones. To the extent that the criticism brings awareness of the appalling waste involved in duplication of hospital facilities, it serves a valuable purpose. The fact that these hospitals do not conform to all VA specifications is no reason summarily to reject them.

It does not follow, of course, that every hospital given up by the military in the general area of a projected veterans' installation is automatically suited for veterans' use. Here particular circumstances must govern. Some military hospitals were flimsily constructed, designed only to meet wartime needs. They were self-contained units, often located without regard to convenience to cities and medical staffs of city hospitals and universities. There is little doubt that for the VA to maintain some of these decrepit hospitals would be a costly business and would require larger staffs.

It is apparent that unless there is some change in admission standards, the patient load in veterans' hospitals will rise in the next few years. The VA commendably has sought to locate new hospitals close to cities where patients can obtain the best available medical service. The plans for a new hospital adjoining the hospital center on the Soldiers' Home grounds in Washington are an example. But the VA is not operating in a vacuum. Certainly it is important to ascertain, before a new hospital is built, whether some existing hospital would not serve the need almost as well.

The missing ingredient in all this is coordination. The Veterans' Administration was not consulted, for example, before the defense establishment decided to abandon the five hospitals in question. Federal medical care already costs billions, and the Government is not wealthy enough to afford separate sets of hospitals unrelated to the total need. The principle of a united Federal medical program is a good one, and the most essential applications of this principle are in the determination of the total demand for hospital beds and the relation of it to existing facilities. Until this important recommendation of the Hoover Commission is adopted by Congress and the Administration, waste in the Government hospital program is inevitable.

NLRB's Split Personality

Last week the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report withheld indorsement of Reorganization Plan No. 12 abolishing the office of general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board and assigning his functions to the board and its chairman. Now the Senate Committee on Expenditures has rejected the plan. The Citizens Committee said that the plan to abolish the office of the general counsel raises issues that are "not wholly organizational, but are matters of national, political and economic policy."

Others argue that the latter proposal entails changes in the Taft-Hartley Act which the Administration has vainly tried to repeal. This objection seems far-fetched, although Mr. Denham's supporters have, no doubt, used it to good effect in their effort to discredit the plan. Even Senator Taft admits that the present arrangement is defective. Last year he voted for an amendment to the act bearing his name that would have returned to the board the powers exercised by the general counsel, although he is now opposing the reorganization plan. Furthermore, he concedes that there is no direct legal objection to the proposed shift of functions.

The existing extreme separation of functions has given rise to friction between the board and the general counsel and has seriously interfered with effective enforcement of the law. In unfair labor practice cases, for example, the general counsel alone determines whether to issue a complaint, and in determining whether or not to do so he need not be guided by the board's previous rulings. Chairman Herzog says that cases have been sent to the board by the general counsel "with the full knowledge that he would dismiss them later." The result is that both labor and management are confronted by a double standard, the work of the board is needlessly increased, and litigation before the courts is encouraged. The board also charges that employes in its regional offices under the supervision of the general counsel have been gradually losing their identity as agents of the board even in handling representation cases.

The present setup of the NLRB was a laudable attempt to separate the prosecuting from the judging functions of the agency. In practice, however, this division of functions has done infinitely more harm than good. Under the reorganization plan internal adjustments would prevent any official from acting as both prosecutor and judge. The chief difference would be that the board would be in a position to exercise general supervisory powers over prosecuting activities, and prevent conflicts that impair its efficiency as a regulatory agency.

In our opinion, the proposed plan entails no changes in the present setup that cannot be justified as a proper exercise of the authority given the President by Congress to reorganize the executive establishments. This reform is imperatively needed to eliminate the friction, uncertainty and delays resulting from the present two-headed administration of the law.

Crime Stall

Despite Senator Lucas' protest that he has not sidetracked the interstate crime investigation, the effect of the maneuvering in the Senate Monday was exactly that. The majority leader's hint that even the controversial FEPC bill may be taken up after the ECA authorization means that the Kefauver crime resolution may be put off indefinitely. If Senator Lucas has not been the actual Brutus in this case, he at least has been a willing accomplice. It is no secret that hitherto his support of the Kefauver resolution has not been precisely eager. Reportedly, however, he underwent a quick conversion after the President returned from Key West, and the present stall is thus strange—doubly strange in light of the manner in which the Democrats have contrived to stack the proposed investigating committee.

It is no doubt true that Republican Senators Ferguson and Donnell—who, to use Senator Ferguson's words, were "euchred out" of places on the committee—would have made things hot on the Senate floor. This confirms, in our opinion, the error of the Democratic leadership in trying to exclude them. To imply that Senator Ferguson in particular would run away with the inquiry is to confess the inability of the Democratic majority to set rules of conduct. As it is now, the Democrats themselves have cast the first stone in making the investigation a partisan affair, and the longer they stall, the more they encourage the impression that they have something to hide.

Attorney General McGrath's testimony Monday served to emphasize the need for a crime investigation. Mr. McGrath spoke in behalf of a Justice Department bill to make illegal the interstate transmission of gambling information by telephone, telegraph and radio. How can Congress know whether this is a good bill unless it first has information about the manner in which communications facilities are now used?

To be sure, Mr. McGrath is quite right in fearing laws which would introduce "a new prohibition era." Undoubtedly, too, there is some tendency to look upon Federal legislation as a panacea which would spare local officials the necessity of cleaning up their own bailiwicks. The job is primarily local, and until there is more outspoken demand from civic groups, labor unions, ministers and the like for an expose of the connection between crime and politics, there is a danger that Federal legislation would have a lethargic reception. That, however, is precisely why the Kefauver resolution is important.

Information about the extent of interstate crime and its corrupting influence could help honest local officials immeasurably by arousing community sentiment. This is especially true in rotten situations such as the one in the Miami area, where payoffs are rumored to run into the millions. Federal investigation of interstate crime and more vigorous community action thus go hand in hand. Anything that postpones adoption of the Kefauver resolution merely plays into the hands of the corruptionists.

Bipartisan Policy

President Truman made a statesmanlike effort to reestablish a genuine bipartisan foreign policy yesterday when he conferred with Secretary Acheson and Senator Bridges at the White House. At the close of the discussion the President issued a statement saying: "It will be my purpose as well as that of Secretary Acheson not only to keep the members of the minority currently informed, but to solicit their views and take them into serious account in both the formulation and implementation of our foreign policy." His action can be interpreted only as a large-minded effort to close ranks and present a united front to the world in the present international crisis.

The invitation to Senator Bridges is the more remarkable because of the Senator's part in the recent feuding in which Senator McCarthy has been the ringleader. Not long ago Mr. Bridges implied that Secretary Acheson was a security risk and more recently the President referred to Senator Bridges as one of "the greatest assets of the Kremlin." Obviously this sort of sniping must be stopped if genuine cooperation in the field of foreign policy is to be attained. The White House conference ought to have a sobering effect upon the Republican Senators who have been stirring up a witch's brew for partisan reasons.

Mr. Bridges was summoned because, with Senator Vandenberg ill, he is the ranking Republican member of the Senate. This does not necessarily mean that he will step into Senator Vandenberg's shoes as the chief Republican spokesman in the Senate on foreign affairs. The effort seems to be to diffuse bipartisanship.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday approved Senator Connally's proposal to set up eight subcommittees to maintain direct contact with the main divisions of the State Department in an effort to keep the Senate better informed about conditions in all parts of the world. With subcommittees assigned to United Nations affairs, social and economic policy, European, Near Eastern, Far Eastern and Latin American affairs, the task of keeping abreast of world events should be greatly simplified. And members of the Foreign Relations Committee will obviously be in the best position to carry on the routine business of cooperation in this sphere.

The plan will give each member of the committee an opportunity to specialize in some aspect of our foreign policy. If the subcommittees operate as anticipated, each will have frequent contacts with the Assistant Secretary of State and specialists of the department working in the same field. The result should be greatly to enlarge the information available to the committee as a whole. A similar arrangement is already in effect in the House Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Since Republicans as well as Democrats will be members of each subcommittee, the plan will give added strength to bipartisanship in formulating foreign policy. It may be taken for granted that in the process of consultation the State Department will also be kept more fully aware of minority views and interests. The result should be an increased sense of joint responsibility for the policy that is actually followed and less irresponsible talk on the part of legislators. In this respect the President's willingness to take the senior Republicans of Congress into his confidence in the development and carrying out of foreign policy may prove even more effective.

Answer To Russia

The note presented yesterday by Ambassador Kirk at Moscow to Mr. Gromyko, deputy minister of foreign affairs for the Soviet Union, over the incident of the American plane shot down by the Russians over the Baltic is just about as stern as diplomatic usage permits. It could hardly have been otherwise, considering the nature of the incident. The question has now become one of veracity between the two governments, since the statements in M. Vishinski's note of April 11 are contradicted in every particular in the American reply and protest.

Vishinski's identification of the plane as "a four-motored military airplane B-29 (Flying Fortress)" might have resulted from confusion on the part of the Soviet officer who reported the incident. Actually the plane was a four-engined naval bomber of the Privateer design; and according to the United States' note was the only American plane in the Baltic area on the day of the incident. The other discrepancies between the Russian and American versions of the affair, however, cannot possibly be reconciled. One side obviously is lying, and, frankly, we think it is Vishinski. For example:

1. The Russian note stated that the plane, when intercepted by Soviet fliers, was over Latvia and moving "deeper into Soviet territory." The American note states that all military aircraft have strict standing instructions to avoid all foreign territory and that Washington is satisfied that these instructions were fully obeyed by the pilot and navigator of the plane. The American assertion that the plane was attacked and shot down over "open waters" is circumstantially supported by the reported recovery of a life raft from the plane off the Danish island of Gotland.

2. Vishinski's note stated that the American plane, having been ordered by the interceptors to make a landing at the Libau airdrome, opened fire on the Soviet planes. This, according to the American note, was altogether impossible since the plane was completely unarmed.

Since practice flights over the Baltic are apparently routine training practice for American forces in Germany, there remains of course the question why the Soviet forces operating out of Latvian bases chose to attack this particular plane. One hypothesis, plausible enough in itself, is the familiar habit of Russian military forces of firing their weapons whenever the mood to do so seizes them, and often upon no particular pretext. Another hypothesis is that the plane may have been testing out some special equipment of which the Russians were eager to obtain models. This would accord with stories from Germany stating that all 10 members of the crew were expert technicians of one kind and another specially chosen for this flight. It would also clarify the indiscreet reference to a "secret mission" in a letter supposed to have been written by the copilot to his wife in Florida. What is altogether untenable, however, is that these experiments had anything to do with reconnaissance over Soviet territory. If that had been the purpose, an entirely different type of plane would have been employed.

The American note asks that the Russians, in accordance with the custom of "peace-loving" nations—the word "civilized" is rather pointedly omitted—apologize for the incident and pay indemnities for the lives and property lost. This, of course, is purely for the record; for there cannot be any one in the Department of State who believes that the Russians would act upon such a suggestion. Thus the tempo of cold war increases apace; and the most remarkable and encouraging thing about the outrageous incident has been the calmness and self-control of the American public.

BEARINGS

Men are so much like ears of corn
One finds in every row:
The empty ears stand upright,
The well-filled ears hang low.
For men whose hearts are brimming
With joy on every side,
Are thoughtless of their posture.
They have small need of pride.
But he who stands too stiffly,
And moves a bit apart,
Perhaps holds close the golden husk
That hides an empty heart.

National Specialization

An old infantryman like General Bradley must have some serious misgivings about the policy of "national specialization" announced as being the basis for implementing the Atlantic Pact. This specialization is no doubt very logical on paper but it glosses over one critical consideration: the fact that nobody in his right mind wants to be the infantryman. And to ignore this is to risk the entire fabric that binds the Atlantic Pact nations together, and to risk shattering the morale of certain key participants.

The psychology of the infantryman in combat is not a very pretty or magnanimous one. He hates everyone who isn't in the same dirty, dangerous mess as himself. That goes for anyone above regimental level, and it goes particularly for the fly-boys in nice clean airplanes.

If an infantryman can hate aviators of his own country, how will that psychology be translated when the infantryman is a Frenchman and the aviator an American? And even if the French started out with a will to fight (which appears doubtful) their combat morale would not hold up long under such circumstances. The only thing that would give them a feeling of oneness with their allies would be the presence of American infantrymen taking the same miserable beating as they.

If the principle of "national specialization" is carried to its logical conclusion it can lead to only one thing: the infantry will not fight long nor well. And when the infantry won't fight, the war is lost.

Movie Morals

Chastity belts for the movies, proposed as a "license" by Senator Johnson of Colorado, are such a straight throw-back to the Spanish Inquisition that one marvels a United States solon would even allow himself such license as a political jest.

The Colorado Senator's indictment of this generation as immoral and perverse, as he so plainly indicated in his desire to license the movies to "reform" our entertainment tastes, betrays a poor knowledge of historic perspectives.

Lord David Cecil, the best chronicler of that era which ushered in "Victorianism," reveals to us an unmoral upper crust that shames anything the Colorado Senator would attribute to us of today, with or without Hollywood as mentor.

In a vignette of social amenities of that incredible time (which nostalgic solons today endow with virtues those ancients would have ridden on a rail), Lord David Cecil says: ". . . The Harley family, children of the Countess of Oxford, were known as the Harleian Miscellany on account of the variety of fathers alleged responsible for their existence. The Duke of Devonshire had three children by the Duchess and two by Lady Elizabeth Foster, while the Duchess (herself surprised, no doubt) had one by Lord Grey; and most of them were brought up together in Devonshire House. . . ."

Yet that was the society and culture which dominated Europe and even influenced the mores and thinking of all Christian lands right down to our own generation. That society alone gave asylum to Karl Marx when no other nation felt inclined to take the risk. It produced worthwhile experiments in sociology with which we have not yet caught up—men and women of vast wealth literally donning the beggar's sack to improve the lot of the less fortunate and the ignorant.

For Senator Johnson and others in high places to indict either our movies or the generation in which he was born is a piece with French communism indicting American Coca Cola as "immoral." ISAAC SCHWARTZ.

Miss Utley's Break

Mr. Alfred Friendly, in your issue of April 14, writes that Freda Utley "broke from the Communist Party some years ago when her Russian husband was 'liquidated' by the Soviets." Permit me to correct him, since this description of me is erroneous and creates a false impression. I left the Communist Party years before my husband was arrested and disappeared without trial into a Soviet concentration camp in 1936.

I was a member of the British Communist Party from 1928 to 1931 when, after having gone to live in Russia and having quickly learned the truth about communism and the falsity of its pretensions, I ceased to be a member of the party. I continued to live in the Soviet Union only because my Russian husband, not being a member of the Communist Party, had no possibility of getting out of Russia. These facts are on record both in my book Lost Illusion and in the Department of Justice and Congressional records. In ascribing my break with the Communist Party to my personal loss he is putting the cart before the horse, since my husband would in all probability never have been arrested or murdered had I kept my mouth shut concerning the horrors of Stalin's Russia which I had learned so well.

Nijinsky

The recent death of the great ballet dancer, Vaslav Nijinsky, elicited from the dance and music critics of the world's newspapers descriptions of the Russian star, his art and fate. Some of the writers erred in describing Nijinsky as stocky in build, with thick ankles. Nothing could be farther from a true description as those who witnessed his sensationally beautiful performance of The Spectre of the Rose can testify. Floods of lights would have found only grace and symmetry in his youthful form when his debut at the Metropolitan Opera House established his fame.

A little later the Diaghileff Ballet Company, on tour, visited Nashville, Tenn., with this writer as a young woman in charge of the publicity for the appearance. Her eyes fell upon a startling scene of barbaric appearance, for the entire ballet company were engaged in painting their legs with bronze paint preparatory to the ballet Scheherazade. They numbered over 300 people, and it was typical of the profession's drive that they sat wherever they could find room.

In contrast to this busy scene were the star dressing rooms, in one of which Nijinsky awaited his cue, and in another beautiful Lydia Lapocova fluffed her brief skirts and smiled glamorously. It is an outstanding regret that the wonderful press pictures of the stars of the company were mislaid in later days.

Arming The Arabs

Most of us know of the terrible struggle the Jews had in acquiring their dot of a country in order to get away from persecution and discriminations of all sorts and also to rescue the rest of the Hitler victims who were robbed of everything they had. They finally succeeded in establishing an armistice. Yet England is now sending arms and munitions to the neighboring Arab countries encouraging them to start the war all over again. Now you would naturally expect to hear some protest from some of the Christian countries against such an outrage, but so far I have not heard a peep out of any of them. S. D. SHEPARD.

"Debt Ceilings"

In your editorial of April 14, "Debt Ceilings," you take occasion to sneer at the proposal of a group of Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee that the legal limit on the Federal debt be reduced from 275 down to 257 billion dollars. I am rather surprised at your editorial, since it appears that you do not understand the purposes of this type of legislation.

Since I and Senator Byrd of Virginia were the original sponsors of an almost identical proposal last October, S. 2650, from which the proposal of the House members was apparently taken, I would like to explain its purposes:

Your editorial implies that there is not much purpose in having any debt limit at all. Such an attitude ignores the tremendous part played by the public debt in our present economy and in the Government financial picture. By the end of the war, the authorized debt limit (although not the debt) had been increased by successive stages to its present figure of 275 billion, and, of course, no further increases in this limit were made after the conclusion of hostilities because it was felt peacetime should be a period of debt reduction and financial stability as contrasted with the wartime period of heavy expenditures and heavy borrowing. The 275 billion figure, therefore, provided us with a useful guidepost, a sort of marker to indicate the point beyond which we should not go except under an extraordinary emergency.

For a year or two after the war, because of the sharp reduction in spending under the Republican Congress and also because of a temporary treasury cash surplus, it was possible to make a sharp reduction in the public debt. At that time I believe it would have been the part of wisdom to have reduced the debt limit to a point very little above the actual debt—in short, to move the marker back to the point where it would be of some real use.

Unfortunately, that was not done, and the debt limit is far in excess of the needs of treasury financing.

If the debt limit is of no significance, as you imply, and should be removed entirely, the last real restraint on the present policy of reckless spending will have been destroyed, and there is danger that the budget will never again be balanced until we have gone through a period of severe inflation. That is the great danger, in my judgment, and I am surprised to find The Washington Post taking such a critical attitude toward attempts to face up to it.

Unused Cold War Weapon

By Malvina Lindsay

Genocide Stand

THOSE FAMILIAR with the technique of genocide, as practiced on Poles, Jews, Armenians, Estonians, Greeks and others, predict its coming pattern in the Communist invasion of Asia.

To exterminate the prolific Chinese or other Asiatics is impossible. Mass murders and wholesale deportations are not so effective in vast crowded populaces as in smaller nations. Hence a subtler technique is needed.

A first line of liquidation would likely be religious and intellectual leaders. When these are removed the masses are more easily dominated, more easily propagandized. Another roundabout tactic in destroying a national, racial or religious group is to stop its procreation by separating members of families. Or children can be carried off en masse and indoctrinated as the conqueror desires.

In view of this and of this Government's new insistence that the approximately 20,000 Greek children carried off in guerilla warfare be returned by eastern Communist countries, ratification of the genocide convention, long delayed in the Senate, becomes more pressing. For this Nation can speak with greater force on genocide crimes if it has officially gotten behind the treaty outlawing this number one international crime.

A SUBCOMMITTEE of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week recommended with four "understandings" that the full committee ratify the genocide convention. Unless the convention bogs down again in some of the hair splitting and misunderstanding that has attended it, it may yet be ratified by the Senate in time to serve as a propaganda weapon for this country in the cold war. One misconception, that it would bring the issue of lynching into the international arena, has been eliminated.

One reason the need for world warning on the threat of genocide is so great is that the more devious measures of the genocidists are seldom recognized early by the people on whom they are practiced. A few "wise men" in a community may disappear. In a place where people are crowded and life is cheap few notice.

Or leaders may be tried on trumped-up charges, convicted, liquidated. The populace shrugs its shoulders. Maybe after all these men were guilty. Even religious leaders can be so discredited by skillful propagandists that their exit does not cause too great a furore.

So with the dividing of families. Husbands and wives can be separated under various pretext. Children can be sent to "summer camps" from which they do not return.

THAT SUCH partial destruction of a group with intent to destroy the entire group constitutes genocide is stressed in the Senate subcommittee's report. And this is a genocide technique of which this country, posing as a friend of the national aspirations and cultural self conciousness of Asiatic nations, needs to give warning.

In fact the United States has neglected a "secret" weapon by not putting itself in a position to thunder throughout the world warnings about the techniques and terrors of genocide. Particularly do people threatened with totalitarian domination of any kind need to be alerted to the earliest and craftiest practices of the genocidists.

But until this country ratifies the convention, which it took the lead in pushing through the General Assembly of the United Nations, it is not in a position to inform, expose, warn, thunder or even whisper about genocide. To date it has let a group of small nations carry the ball in ratification, possibly because its lawmakers have been too absorbed in negative aspects of the cold war.

True, the genocide convention even when ratified by the 20 nations required, won't stop genocide. True also, the masses of Asia cannot be reached readily with genocide education. But to a surprising degree news of the world now penetrates to remote areas. The mere existence of an international law designed to prohibit tyrannical governments from destroying masses or groups of people would sooner or later spread widely. It would at least give this Nation—if it were not No. 20 in ratifying—a big talking point.

Federal Leave

In connection with proposals for the reduction of annual leave for Federal workers, it may be of interest to note British civil service practice. I am advised by an Air Ministry official that the basic leave is four weeks for employes in grades corresponding to our clerical grades (three weeks for employes in temporary status), and six weeks for employes in what correspond to our professional and administrative grades. The six weeks is increased to eight weeks after 15 years of service in these higher grades.

What is equally interesting is that this leave is not docked for such things as tardiness or odd hours necessitated for transaction of personal business. Such absences are handled administratively rather than statistically. All leave must be used within the calendar year.

Lest it be considered the British civil service is all gravy, it should be noted that a 5½-day, 45-hour week is worked. The system of working hard and then relaxing thoroughly has much to commend it. S. B.

Matter Of Fact

By Stewart Alsop

The Tritium Bomb I

THE HYDROGEN bomb, like the atom bomb before it, has become something of a bore, now that the initial excitement has died down. Such proposals as the McMahon plan for dealing with the new horror fade into the mists of memory, and the astonishing human capacity for living under the shadow of total destruction reasserts itself.

Yet even for the layman (unless he prefers the recourse of the ostrich) it is worth trying to understand some of the essential facts involved in the hydrogen project. And once these facts are understood, it requires no more scientific knowledge than the ability to put two and two together to arrive at certain deeply interesting conclusions.

The theory of making a hydrogen bomb is well known. The atom, or fission, bomb, by generating heat comparable to that on the sun, is to be used as a "trigger" to initiate the fusion process which takes place on the sun. Thus the hydrogen bomb is to be a fusion, rather than fission, bomb.

The explosion of the atom bomb is completed in about one millionth of a second. And here is the problem which has led some scientists, like Dr. Robert Millikan of California, to doubt that a true hydrogen bomb is within human capacity to manufacture. How do you construct a mechanism which will not fly apart at the very instant of the atomic explosion, before the immense heat and pressure generated by the explosion can be applied long enough for the fusion process to take place?

THIS IS called the "problem of maintaining assembly." And this is why there exists a vital choice between trying to make the hydrogen bomb with "heavy hydrogen"—called deuterium—or "very heavy hydrogen"—called tritium.

Deuterium has one immense advantage, from the peculiar viewpoint of the maker of hydrogen bombs. It is freely available in nature, which means that at least theoretically it would be possible to construct a sufficient number of deuterium bombs to put this weary world out of its misery once and for all. Yet it also suffers from an immense disadvantage, for its "reaction time"—the time it takes for the fusion process to begin—is about 25 times slower than in the case of tritium.

This in turn means that the "problem of maintaining assembly"—already immensely difficult—is more than difficult with deuterium than with tritium. This is why competent observers are convinced that if the awful new weapon is to be constructed in our times, it will be essentially a tritium bomb, rather than a deuterium bomb.

Yet, perhaps fortunately for the human race, tritium, too, suffers from great disadvantages. It can only be used efficiently in liquid form, at very low temperatures. This means building an intricate refrigerating apparatus into the bomb, thus further complicating the problems of "maintaining assembly." Moreover, tritium has "a half life of 12 years," which in lay language means that half the explosive effect of any nation's stockpile of tritium bombs would seep away every 12 years. (An atom bomb has a half life of 25,000 years.)

NOR IS this all. More serious is the fact that tritium, unlike its cousin, deuterium, is not found in nature. It is artificial. Just as uranium must be irradiated in a uranium pile to produce plutonium for atom bombs, so a metal called lithium must be irradiated, also in uranium piles, to produce tritium for hydrogen bombs.

This means that the tritium bomb will be a direct competitor of the atom bomb. It will require the same installations—specifically the uranium piles at Hanford—and the same uranium raw material. This means in turn that either the production of atom bombs must be sharply reduced once the tritium bomb is in production, or great new installations like the Hanford piles (which cost close to a billion dollars to build) must be constructed, while the supply of the uranium raw material is stepped up.

Finally, according to competent authorities, there are certain reasons (which this reporter will make no attempt either to understand or explain) for believing that if the investment is in plutonium for atom bombs, rather than tritium for hydrogen bombs, the payoff is far greater. Put it another way. Suppose, having solved the problem of maintaining assembly, you make one tritium bomb. You will have, to put it mildly, a very powerful bomb. Yet the same effort and investment, according to this disputed theory, would have given you a number of atom bombs whose combined effects would have been many times more lethal.

These facts—all of which are publicly available—may already have led the reader who is both patient and astute to ask himself certain questions. One of these questions is: Are we now making the very great effort which is obviously necessary to make a true hydrogen bomb? Another question is: Is such an effort worth making? These are questions whose answers deeply concern national policy, and which should therefore be subject to review by the democratic process. They will be discussed in a forthcoming report in this space.

KNOW YOUR WATERWAYS
Waterway and Railway Interdependence

Railways are the backbone of the nation's transportation system and naturally handle a major part of the total tonnage. Other tonnage is moved over the waterways and can be so transported at costs no other system can approach. Railways prehandle or rehandle a large part of all waterborne commerce to their great benefit. The millions of tons of rail borne coal transshipped by water from eastern seaboard, Great Lakes and river ports are striking evidence of the vital interdependence of railways and waterways. Those railways paralleling inland waterways are among the most prosperous in the nation. Our national transportation system can be vastly improved through cooperation, coordination and genuine interest in the welfare of the public, which pays the freight.

Bid For Germany

By Marquis Childs

Russian-East Zone Peace Treaty

CONFIDENTIAL reports from Germany indicate that the Russians have plotted a political-diplomatic coup calculated to take the West by surprise. The timing is aimed at the meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the Western powers set for London in mid-May.

Childs

The objective is to present the world with the sham front of an "independent" East German state. That state will sign a treaty of peace with the Soviet Union. And the USSR will agree to remove all its troops from East Germany within a year.

These moves, which may be announced very shortly, are being plotted by Walter Ulbricht, deputy premier of the East German state. Ten days ago Ulbricht returned secretly to Berlin from a visit to Moscow, where the whole plan was worked out.

Ulbricht immediately initiated a series of conferences to set the plot in motion. The idea as originally projected was to call into being in East Germany a National Front Congress. The congress would have administrative powers to sign a peace treaty with Russia that would seem to give East Germany a most favorable status.

While this would be a fake, it would nevertheless have a powerful propaganda force in all of Germany and in Europe. For one thing, it would strengthen the extreme Nazi-storm trooper elements in West Germany that are today saying the only hope is in at least a temporary union with Russia. Whatever decision the Foreign Ministers might take in London with respect to Germany would seem to be a reaction to an achievement already brought off by the Soviet. That same thing has happened far too often in the past.

THERE IS one big hole in the Russian plan that could be readily exploited by the West. That is the Russian action in handing over to Poland just as the war was ending all the German territory east of the Neisse River. As Winston Churchill pointed out at the Potsdam Conference, this took nearly one fourth of the arable land within Germany's 1937 frontiers.

Under Ulbricht's direction today thousands of Germans working in schools, hospitals and other institutions in the east zone are being coached to say that they accept gladly the Oder-Neisse line as a permanent frontier. But this will not conceal the true feelings of the German people whether in the east or west zones.

AT THE Foreign Ministers' conference next month Secretary of State Dean Acheson will recommend a review of German policy and a drastic revision in the light of present realities. Acheson is in favor of putting a greatly increased allocation of Marshall Plan money into West Berlin to revive employment and trade.

Something like this is urgently needed. Reports from West Berlin indicate that the city is limping along. There is still considerable unemployment. The wage scale is sliding down. The city got money to pay essential pensions only about 24 hours before they were due to be paid.

In recent weeks the American occupation authorities in Berlin, under the very able direction of Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, have been preparing to meet the threat of the May 28 demonstration. Indications are now that the Russian directed march on the west sector from the east zone will be a much more modest affair than originally intended. With resistance fully prepared by American, British and French forces, East German youths are not likely to be so eager to make trouble with a mass invasion of West Berlin.

It is at least a temporary advantage of dictatorship that strategy can be shifted almost overnight without regard either for public opinion or for positions previously taken. The democracies move much more slowly. But in view of what has been happening in Germany, and what threatens to happen, it must seem at times as though this were not an inevitable retarded tempo but a kind of paralysis.

of Perth Amboy, N. J., relating to Maragon.

Holstein explained that he had brought only part of the records because he had been instructed by Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan to withhold those the department regarded as confidential.

'Place The Witness in Custody'

"Place the witness in custody, marshal," the 82-year old justice murmured.

Two United States marshals moved to flank the witness. Assistant United States Attorney Charles Murray rose to his feet.

Then Judge Bailey told Murray. "If he will agree to return today (with the records) I will not commit him at present. But unless he does produce them, he will be committed."

Murray explained that Holstein would have to bring all the records to the courtroom—then he could refuse to turn them over to Goldstein.

When Holstein returned, still maintaining the department's position that the records are confidential, Goldstein asked that a decision be held in abeyance until it appeared whether or not their production would be necessary.

Bailey did not further press for production of the records.

The court also heard about other "confidential" Government records yesterday when Alex Rosen, an assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, brought FBI records in response to a subpena but said he was not authorized to turn them over.

Records Concern Poland

The records pertained to an investigation concerning Milton R. Poland of Milwaukee, Wis., who appeared before the Senate Subcommittee as a witness in connection with Maragon's association with the Allied Molasses Co.

The subcommittee itself had claimed confidential status for some of its own records but allowed Goldstein to view them.

Carmine S. Bellino, public accountant for the subcommittee, took the stand yesterday and testified that a day after the investigation Maragon told him about an account which he had opened in San Antonio in 1942 or 1943 while accompanying tourists to Mexico.

One of the counts against Maragon is that he swore under oath before the subcommittee that his sole bank account was in Washington at the Union Trust Co.

The prosecution yesterday offered 62 checks in evidence along with the records of Maragon's account in the National Bank of Commerce at San Antonio.

Bellino said that Maragon told him that one of the reasons for opening the account was to take care of money for the tourists.

The committee expert told the court that Maragon came to the Capitol the day after his testimony and telephoned his wife about canceled checks on the San Antonio account while Bellino listened on another extension.

Maragon inquired, Bellino said, if his wife could locate the canceled checks. She replied, according to the witness, that they must have been thrown out in the trash.

Later Maragon said the canceled checks might be in the attic and returned on the following day to deliver them to the subcommittee.

Judge Bailey recessed the two-day-old trial shortly after noon with the comment that some of the jurors might have tickets to the local opening game of the baseball season between Washington and Philadelphia.

The 82-year-old jurist commented that he himself did not intend to see the game but would "wait until Washington gets a ball team."

Margaret to Keep On Singing

Philadelphia, April 18 (U.P.).—Margaret Truman today said she'll keep singing until the right man comes along.

"I want very much to get married and have children," the President's daughter said, "but for the present I will concentrate on my career . . . There is no one on the horizon right now—but a girl can dream, can't she?"

Miss Truman told the story of her life—and gave her rebuttal to criticism of her career—in the Saturday Evening Post.

She criticized the critics.

"My struggle for recognition has been complicated by the suspicion in many quarters that the thought of singing was a bright idea that suddenly seized me only when I became the daughter of the President of the United States," she said.

"I realize sniping and snide criticism are inevitable, but I resent the horrible insinuation that I am trying to exploit the prestige of the White House. Singing has been the only career I ever seriously considered."

"I had to do something to keep active and . . . the only alternative was the life of a social butterfly, and I was fed up, bored to death with the so-called Washington social whirl."

Miss Truman admitted being the President's daughter is "tremendously exciting. I love every minute of it."

C. & O. March Net Wipes Out 2-Month Loss

By S. Oliver Goodman

Tuohy

Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. is back to normal after "nine months of chaos," President Walter J. Tuohy reported at the annual meeting yesterday of stockholders in Richmond.

Tuohy added that C. & O.'s gross revenues for March, amounting to more than 27 million dollars, had wiped out the deficits accumulated in January and February. Net result was a first-quarter profit of nearly a million dollars.

He predicted April and May operations would equal or exceed the March earnings. He predicted, too, that unless labor troubles in the auto industry spread, the C. & O. will continue to enjoy a good level of earnings throughout 1950.

In Schenectady, General Electric stockholders heard from President Charles E. Wilson that the company had set new sales, earnings and production records in the first quarter. Wilson reported that net totaled $36,858,000 in the first three months, an increase of 38 percent over the $26,703,000 in like 1949 period. Net this year was equivalent to $1.28 a share, against 93 cents last year.

G. E.'s sales aggregated $418,450,000 or 2 percent more than in the same 1949 quarter.

Slight Gains Shown in Fast Stock Trading

New York, April 18 (AP).—High-speed trading in stocks today resulted in only minor price improvement.

Turnover piled up to 3,320,000 shares, one of the fastest markets since the end of the war. This volume was topped once this year, on January 13 when 3,330,000 shares changged hands. The previous high mark was 3,840,000 shares in May, 1948.

Behind all this smoke there was very little fire. Buyers were interested mainly in steel, automobile, copper, and railroad shares but price gains were limited to fractions, only a few issues moving up more than a point.

Under mild pressure—losses were also confined largely to fractions—were selected radio-television issues, rubbers, aircraft, and motion picture stocks.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved up .4 of 1 point to 76.5. This matched the 3½-year high established late last week. Industrials and rails improved moderately while utilities tipped back slightly on average.

Steels were in demand from the outset and for nearly two hours were the market's chief mainstay. Toward noon automobile stocks took the fancy of buyers and a little later copper shares joined in. Rails made a late start.

Most of the radio-television group had a tough time of it as vigorous profit taking sales chopped into recent spectacular gains. The two most active issues, however, were in the TV division and each ended higher—Electric & Musical Industries up ⅜ at 3¼ and Radio Corp. up ¼ at 22½.

GOODYEAR TIRE & RUBBER CO. TRUCK TIRE PLANT AT TOPEKA, KAN.
J. GORDON TURNBULL INC., ARCHITECT-ENGINEER

ADDING NEW LANDMARKS TO AMERICA

When Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company needed added truck tire production facilities in a hurry, John A. Johnson & Sons, Inc. commenced construction of the above plant at Topeka, Kansas. Later, in the midst of high-speed construction, it was decided to double the size of the plant. Planning and construction schedules were revised, and the new enlarged program was completed on time.

Flexibility in organizing high-speed, line-production methods is often as important as speed itself. And "speed" is one of the key words of the Johnson organization. That is why Architects and Industrial Executives, faced with sudden calls for plant expansion, are turning more and more to Johnson. May we show you why?

Mathieson Stock Bonus Defended In Court Brief

Baltimore, April 18 (AP).—The Mathieson Chemical Co. reported today it sold Thomas S. Nichols $585,000 worth of stock on the pay as you go plan in order to induce him to become its president.

Otherwise, the company said, it could not have gotten the New Yorker to take the job and it needed a man of his talents and experience in the chemical industry.

Thes reasons were set forth in an answer filed by the company to a Federal court suit brought by two Baltimore stockholders.

They said the company sold Nichols 15,000 shares at $39 a share, collecting $29,250 in cash and giving him six years to pay for the other 14,250 shares.

The complaining stockholders say that since the time of the arrangement, in January of 1949, the stock has jumped in value to $54—$30,000 in dividends on the 14,250 shares he hasn't paid for.

The suit contends this weakened the company but the company said in its answer that the president's value is demonstrated by the increased earnings and stock value. The answer said the arrangement was cleared with the Securities and Exchange Commission and outlined in a statement to stockholders. Therefore, the company said, the two Baltimore shareholders now have no right to complain.

Wall St. Gets False Measure; Dow-Jones Index Needs Repair

By J. A. Livingston

IF IT'S TRUE that a mechanic is no better than his tools, then Wall Street's stock market technicians are in a bad way. The tool they most depend on—the Dow-Jones average of industrial stock prices—is "deceptive." You can take that on the indirect say-so of the manufacturer, Dow-Jones & Co., Inc., publishers of the Wall Street Journal.

Friday, April 14, proved what careful students of stock market averages have long known—that in a clutch, the Dow-Jones industrial average isn't true, that it could give the wrong signal. And it did—because one stock, Allied Chemical & Dye, advanced 13 points following the announcement on Thursday of a four-for-one splitup. But let the Wall Street Journal tell the story in its own way:

"Strength in stocks yesterday was deceptive. Industrials closed up 1.18 at 215.31, the highest since September 25, 1930. But had the other 29 issues in this index ended unchanged, the 13-point rise in Allied Chemical alone would have boosted the index 1.52."

Wall Streeters are so accustomed to the Dow-Jones yardstick of the stock market's ups and downs that they fool themselves with it. The Wall Street Journal writer victimized himself when he wrote: "The strength in the market was deceptive." What he meant was that the weakness in the market was concealed by the Dow-Jones stock average. Ditto by the New York Times' index.

STOCK PRICES actually declined on Friday. Yet, the Dow-Jones average went up from 214.13 to 215.31, and the New York Times index from 241.71 to 242.05. Reason: Naive statistics. It's significant that the Standard & Poor's index of 50 industrial stocks actually dipped—from 176.6 to 176.5.

The Dow-Jones index is a simple, arithmetic average. (Likewise the New York Times). Each day, the closing market prices of all 30 stocks in the Dow-Jones average are added together, and then, in effect, divided by 30. Thus, Allied Chemical & Dye, selling at above 230, gets three times as much weight as General Motors. It would take a 3 percent drop in General Motors, 2.4 points, to offset a 1 percent advance in Allied Chemical.

Yet General Motors is a far bigger company than Allied. It has 44,100,000 shares of common stock outstanding, with a market value of $3,578,000,000; Allied now has 2,214,000 shares, with a market value of about 527 million dollars. Inference: G. M. ought to have nearly seven times the weight of Allied, instead of one to three.

Similarly, A. T. & T. ought to have eight times, Standard Oil of New Jersey four times, du Pont six times the force of Allied in the Dow-Jones average. But in all cases, because its stock has been above the 200-mark, Allied carries more weight. And that makes the Dow-Jones index untrue.

STANDARD & POOR'S takes the size of a company into account. It multiplies the price of a stock by the number of shares outstanding. That preserves the real, the economic relationship, between a company with many shares outstanding and a low-priced stock and one with few shares and a high-priced stock. Statisticians call that "weighting." It prevents a large gain in the stock of a small company from disproportionately influencing an average.

The illogicality will show up when the Allied Chemical split becomes effective. The stock then will sell for 58 as against 230 or so today. Were simple arithmetic allowed to run its course, the Dow-Jones average would drop sharply. But no. Dow-Jones gets up an artificial divisor, so that the average the day after a stock split will link smoothly with the average the day before the split. Originally thirty—the number of shares in the index—the divisor is now 8.57. (That explains how the 13-point rise in Allied Friday would add 1.52 to the index if all other stocks were unchanged—13 divided by 8.57). The divisor will be smaller after the split.

NO SUCH PROBLEM arises in the case of the Standard & Poor's index. When Allied stock is split, the company will have four times as many shares outstanding and the stock will be valued at one-quarter of its former price. The stock will have pretty much the same value in the market from one day to the next.

Most indexes move in the same direction over the years. It's only at the high and low points in the market that an index, that a statistical tool, must be true. You don't want to base market operations on an assumption that industrial prices are at new highs when they aren't.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, April 18 (AP).—Grains were steady to firm at the Board of Trade today, but soybeans had to absorb considerable profit cashing, the result of recent sharp advances.

Wheat advanced on reports that additional moisture is needed in the Southwest, and a Government weather report which indicated acreage abandonment will be larger than normal. Some export business was a trading factor.

Short covering gave corn a lift and at the close wheat was up ½ to 1 cent; corn was ⅞@1⅜ higher; oats were ⅜ higher; rye was ½@¾ lower; soybeans were unchanged to 1¾ lower and lard was unchanged to 3 cents a hundredweight higher.

Monopolies Threaten U. S., Senator Says

Richmond, Va., April 18 (Spl.)—The greatest threat to free enterprise in America today is "growing monopoly"—not social security, rural electrification and other Federal aid programs, Senator Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.) declared here tonight.

Without mentioning Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.) by name, the Administration Senator lashed out at the Republican-Dixiecrat coalition that "failed in 1948 to take away from the American people the benefits of the New Deal and the Fair Deal, and they will fail again," he said.

Humphrey spoke at a meeting of the Virginia Commonwealth League.

He reminded his audience he was invited here to debate Byrd on the merit of the Byrd Committee on Non-Essential Expenditures in the Executive Departments. Humphrey recently fought unsuccessfully to have it abolished.

"I regret very much that the senior Senator from Virginia found it impossible to be here tonight" he said.

"You all see the signs," he told the gathering," of a well-laid plan . . . to place in power a program which would overthrow the principles of the Fair Deal and New Deal, which we and the majority of the American people believe in and voted to support."

Those who believe an unbalanced budget "spells the end" of free enterprise in America, said Humphrey, are talking "nonsense." "Reports that more and more industries are consolidating concern me much more," he added.

Byrd is a leader of the Senate economy bloc.

Niebuhr Says Reds Enslave Us

"Communism is holding us in bondage in America today," Dr. H. Richard Niebuhr of Yale University yesterday told a group of theological students.

Dr. Niebuhr

In watching Russia, he said, "we begin to do those very things we regard as evil on the other side."

Because the Russians arm themselves and have spies to protect their internal security, we also arm ourselves and have spies.

"We are in bondage to something we fear and dislike, yet to which we conform," Dr. Niebuhr, professor of Christian ethics at the Yale Divinity School, said.

In Europe, he said, Americanism is looked upon with the same fear as communism is here.

The noted theologian spoke at the sixth annual lecture series sponsored by the Washington Federation of Churches and the School of Religion of Howard University.

Students from Howard, the Virginia Theological Seminary, Westminster Theological Seminary and clergymen from Greater Washington attended the meetings at Howard.

Coal Bill Seen as Denial Of Free Competition

By Ysabel and Robert Rennie

With a coal glut predicted by summer, West Virginia's Senator Harley M. Kilgore has introduced a bill to prop up the price of bituminous coal.

Very similar to the Guffey Act of 1937, which expired during the war, the Kilgore bill would set up a five-man coal commission to set a minimum price for every grade of soft coal produced in every region of the country. Two members would represent the producers, two the mine workers, and the fifth would represent the public. Under the commission there would be 23 regional boards.

Penalties for price cutting would be severe: $5000 or a year in jail for every day the violation continued. The motive for this price maintenance, according to the bill, is the "conservation of the coal resources of the United States." These resources are at present estimated at a 4000 years' supply, or approximately 130 times the known reserves of natural gas, and 330 times the known reserves of oil.

Apparently the sponsors of this legislation do not expect it to provide a market for coal under the fixed prices, for the commission is also ordered to study the following additional proposals and recommend legislation by the end of 1952:

"(1) Production control through private cooperative action; (2) production control through allocation of production; (3) production control through public purchase of coal-bearing lands and production facilities; (4) price stabilization through private cooperative actions; (5) price stabilization through public subsidization of producers and distributors; and (6) price stabilization through public purchase of coal."

"Minimum Regulation"

Lest the public get the mistaken impression that this legislation would create a Government-sponsored cartel, the bill explains that the purpose of these measures would be "to assure an ample supply of coal at all times to the consumers of the United States at fair and reasonable prices, produced and marketed by privately owned and managed industrial enterprise, with a minimum of public regulation, assistance and interference."

In less enlightened times than our own, it was widely believed that the free enterprise system entailed not only private profits but private responsibility for losses. It was supposed that as declining industries were supplanted by newer methods and better products, capital and labor would move from the old to the new.

In those days it was also widely believed that price competition was good for the economy. If one producer was efficient, and could turn out better goods at lower cost, so the doctrine went, he should capture the market from inefficient and high-cost producers. The theory was that the public should buy what it wanted and pay what it thought the goods were worth.

Today, however, we know that it is not at all necessary for inefficient producers and obsolescent industries to be thus inconvenienced. If the fickle public doesn't want to pay your prices, you can ask the Government to force it to do so by legislation.

It is hard to tell exactly when this interesting discovery was made. Perhaps the first evidence of enlightenment came in our agricultural price support programs. But the principle that price competition is "chiseling" spread quickly to the retail markets with the enactment of the State fair trade laws. These statutes guaranteed the public against the inconvenience of shopping about for the lowest prices, since all prices had to be the same. Today the uniform price is the very cornerstone of our free competitive enterprise.

Wickedness Discovered

We have discovered the wickedness of chain stores which, by integrated operations and unreasonably low profit margins, are forcing to the wall honest storekeepers who believe in a good stiff markup. Unions, too, have found that technological revolutions need not displace workers; and some of the more enlightened labor organizations, like those in the building trades, have found that good unions can prevent technological revolutions.

Think of the hardship and financial loss which could have been avoided if we had discovered these principles 50 years ago.

When automobiles threatened carriage makers with unfair competition, the Government should have set up a price-support program. Had warehouses proved unable to store all the carriages the Government bought up, the vehicles could have been allowed to seek their free price level on the open market. The Government could have made up the difference in production payments to the manufacturers.

The player piano was ruthlessly pushed to the wall by phonographs and radios, causing untold (and we now know, unnecessary) misery to the manufacturers and workers in this field. The Government should have required every purchaser of a radio to buy a pianola. And while we are on the subject, why should Edison's incandescent electric lights have displaced illumination by gas?

Economic enlightenment has been slow in coming, but better late than never.

TV Found Hard on Night Vision But May Help Children's Eyes

Philadelphia, April 18 (AP).—Television is tough on night vision but it may prove a blessing to children with crossed-eyes, a group of optometrists observed today.

The optometrists have been viewing for the last year the eye effects of television. Directed by the Pennsylvania State College of Optometry, the survey was based on studies of patients as well as of 40 senior students who watched TV under controlled conditions.

Dr. John C. Neill, professor of ophthalmic mechanics at the college, declared TV is a good thing for training youngsters who suffer from "squint or cross eyes."

He said there's nothing like a Western movie or a puppet show to get the kids to concentrate on the screen.

Then, he advised, cover the child's healthy eye and concentration on the TV screen will provide a beneficial exercise for the "lazy eye" or the one generally known as "crossed."

As to TV's effect on seeing in the dark, Dr. Neill explained that the indigo part of the spectrum uses up the chemical element in the body known as "visual purple" which helps man see at night.

He added that tubes used in newer TV sets help eliminate the robbing of the "visual purple."

Dr. Neill and his associates offered some advice to TV fans:

1. Don't view television through dark glasses.
2. Measure the height of the screen, multiply that by eight and don't sit any nearer than that measurement to the screen.
3. Don't turn out all the lights. A generally illuminated room reduces the contrast between the screen and the surroundng area.

The Gallup Poll

Dixiecrat Revolt Continues In Presidential Politics

By George Gallup

Princeton, N. J., April 18.—A survey of political sentiment throughout the 13 Southern States today reveals the following significant facts:

1—Approximately one fourth of Southern voters questioned in the survey want to see the States' Rights (Dixiecrat) Party put up a presidential candidate again in 1952, as it did in 1948.

2—One fifth of the Southern voters continued to like the idea of a coalition of Southern conservative elements with the Republican Party in naming a candidate acceptable to both sides in 1952.

3—President Truman's personal popularity in the South has dropped considerably in recent months.

4—Despite the underlying current of revolt in the South against the Democrats in presidential politics, Republicans are up against odds so overwhelming in the race for seats in Congress that the Democratic grip on the South in the congressional election this fall is not likely to be broken or even seriously jarred.

The Southern situation is far more one-sided in terms of seats than in terms of popular votes. In national elections the division of popular votes in the Southern States as a whole is usually around 77 percent Democratic, 23 percent Republican, or a ratio of 7 to 2. But the division in seats in 1946 was 94 percent Democratic to 6 percent Republican, and in 1948 it was 97 percent to 3 percent.

In presidential elections there is a new contender in the South today, the States' Rights Party, whose presidential candidate in 1948, Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, took 39 electoral votes away from President Truman in that election.

How Southern voters feel about continuing this party in 1952 is indicated in answers given by voters interviewed in the South by the institute as part of a national cross-section. They were asked the following question:

"In the 1948 presidential election, Southern Conservatives nominated their own candidate for president on the States' Rights (Dixiecrat) ticket. Would you like to see this party put up a candidate again in the next presidential election in 1952?"

SOUTHERN VOTERS
Favor Dixiecrat idea	23%
Oppose	53
Undecided	24
	100%

When the Dixiecrat figure of 23 percent in the above survey is compared with the 17.5 percent polled by the party in the 1948 election, it can be seen that the Dixiecrat strength is not far different from two years ago.

Hammond Appointed To County Council

Harold F. Hammond, manager of the transportation and communication department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, yesterday was appointed to the Montgomery County Council.

Hammond

He fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Lewis Meriam two weeks ago.

A Republican, Hammond's appointment gives the GOP a 4-3 majority on the council. He has supported the charter movement since moving into the county in 1944.

The new councilman lives at 9220 Kingsbury dr., Silver Spring, is married and has two children. He is chairman of the County Safety Board and vice president of the Seven Oaks Manor Citizens Association. He is 42 years old.

Hammond was chosen, the council stated, "from the younger and newer residents who form a growing majority in the suburban areas."

He is a civil engineer and has specialized in traffic and local transportation engineering problems and community planning.

In its business session, the council disapproved a request by the County Liquor-Control Board to lease quarters in the Viers Mill Village shopping center for a dispensary.

Council President Frederic P. Lee said the council favors the limiting of liquor dispensaries to "major business centers" and opposes locations in "community or local shopping centers." He pointed out that the Wheaton Dispensary is just two miles from the proposed location.

The council received a letter from the Silver Spring Board of Trade indorsing the proposal of the Silver Spring Memorial Hospital Association for issuance of a one-milion-dollar bond issue to finance construction.

Shooting Victim Identifies Assailant in Prince Georges

A 19-day mystery in Prince Georges County was ended yesterday when a former Hyattsville policeman, injured in an early-morning shooting last month, swore out a warrant against a 24-year-old Colmar Manor man whom he identified as his assailant.

The former policeman, Thomas R. Bladen, 32, of Edmonston, Md., earlier had steadfastly refused to identify the man who fired at least two shots at him in an alley between two county taverns on the morning of March 31.

The man, who is to be arraigned in Hyattsville Trial Magistrate Court Tuesday on a charge of assault with intent to kill, was identified by police as William Andrew Terry 3d, 24, of 4210 Newton st., Colmar Manor, Md.

According to County Detective Richard A. Pearson, Terry and Bladen met in the Dixie Pig where they began "razzing each other." Pearson said Terry's remarks were aimed at Bladen's dismissal from the Hyattsville police force last February for "failure to report for duty."

Bladen's remarks, Pearson said, were aimed at Terry's frequent court cases concerning a 1947 automobile accident in which he was involved.

Pearson said the argument continued as the two men adjourned to the parking lot between the Dixie Pig and the Crossroads. Bladen swung at Terry, Pearson said, and Terry than pulled a gun and fired "at least two shots," the county detective reported.

College Park Officials Vote For Paving of Potomac Ave.

College Park's mayor and town council last night voted unanimously to authorize paving Potomac ave., following three weeks of controversy.

The new street improvements, which had been requested in March by more than 51 percent of the property owners involved, later aroused bitter opposition by a minority group.

The petition, originally approved by Mayor William A. Duvall and the council March 28, was made the subject of a special meeting and rehearing last night. The opposition which appeared three weeks ago failed to materialize in strength at the special meeting.

The new construction will be started immediately. It will cost $8469, to be financed by the town and repaid by property owners along the improved section.

Potomac ave. runs south from Berwyn rd. and lies in the northern part of College Park, This action to be improved begins at the southerly line of lot 38, block 5, and extends to the northerly line of lot 7, block 3.

Budget, Levy Consideration Postponed

Consideration of the budget and levy was postponed yesterday by the Prince Georges County Commissioners until Friday after nearly a day of discussion of various items.

The commissioners will meet in executive session at 10 a. m. Friday to discuss the budget further in an effort to keep the county tax rate down without seriously impairing any of the functions of government, they said. It is possible that the levy may not be signed until next week, they announced.

County Engineer Arthur W. Tayman was instructed to place black top on the parking lot in rear of the County Service Building in Hyattsville adjacent to the new police radio repair building.

Another resolution directed that only police emergency cars are to have specially designated spaces on the parking lot.

The commissioners received a resolution from the County Civic Federation opposing granting any more multi-family dwelling zoning until the school financing problem has been solved. No action was taken by the commissioners.

The board will meet at 10 a. m. today in the County Service Building at Hyattsville to hold hearings on 30 zoning petitions of which nine are for semi-detached dwellings, with six of the latter large projects. Determined opposition from citizens' groups is expected in most of these.

The commissioners approved payment of $26,505 to the State roads commission to be financed by sale of bonds from the Metropolitan Improvement District. The action followed a report by County Engineer Tayman and County Attorney Jerrold V. Powers that the commission was justified in collecting the fees for engineering and supervision costs on suburban projects, some of which ran back to 1945.

The 1950-51 road improvement program was discussed but no decision reached and the proposed projects not made public pending final agreement.

Near-Chief Sings Navajo's Praises

By Richard L. Coe

I'M AN INDIAN, TOO. Mabel Dodge Luhan has only a little bit more on me.

It all happened yesterday when Chief Natay-ethe-galth and his wife, Pop Chalee, called to induct me into the Navajo tribe. Pop Chalee, a mural artist in her own right, is the niece of the fabulous Mabel Dodge, and I'm no end set up to feel that I have something in common, albeit remote, with the colorful Buffalo heiress whose "Intimate Memoirs" about D. H. Lawrence, John Reed and herself are so diverting.

Pop—which means something like "soft eyes"—and her strapping, quiet husband are tub-thumping for Metro's "Annie Get Your Gun," because in that one Betty Hutton sings and dances Ethel Merman's reason, Metro thinks it's worth while to pay Natay and Pop to make a sweeping tour of the land. It's probably good business because, old number, "I'm an Indian, Too." For some occult, movielike by golly, they're getting space from this corner.

Natay and Pop are delighted to be making the trip, for they feel most people don't realize that Indians today aren't the wild folk of the Western movies. They've a culture and religion of their own and of which they feel proud. They're also enjoying meeting folks around the country.

Chief Natay, son of a Navajo leader and a boyhood sheepherder in Arizona, is 33, tall, dark and striking. He's been a schoolmaster and welder, a translator and metal art worker. Pop Chalee is small, well-manicured and in her native costume has a remarkable amount of chic. Her paintings and murals appear to be well known across the land, and she's got a vivacious lingo.

It was her father's brother, Tony, who married Mabel Dodge when that incomparable lady settled down in Taos, and he kept his dignified head when Mabel decided to divorce him.

Ward of the State

Mabel's eye had settled on a gent who seemed to be a Far Eastern potentate, but who turned out to be a phony from the Caribbean area. To divorce Tony, Mabel had to ask permission of the United States Government, for all Indians are wards of the state. Uncle Sam turned thumbs down on the idea and she and Tony, reunited after the unmasking of the potentate, have again settled down to comparative marital bliss. Tony, by the way, spells it "Lujan," but Mabel, for the benefit of her non-Navajo friends, has settled on the phonetic spelling, "Luhan."

Pop Chalee goes into all this cheerfully, rather like the Duchess of Marlborough discussing the Windsors. Gives you the feeling that what she says about Indians being smoothly civilized makes sense. "Though," continues Pop, "we Indians don't approve of divorce."

Chief Natay and his wife agreed that the name this corner picked out for itself, "Squatting Bent-Ear," wouldn't do. Too frisky. So they gave me a name of their choice, "Hasteen Ah-Sah-Yaz." It means Master (not quite Chief!) Young Eagle. I love it.

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND phones tearfully from New York to deny my paragraph yesterday about her baby living in separate quarters from his parents . . . "He's only in that hotel while we're on this one-week trip East," Olivia explains. "I told that to any number of people, but I guess they just didn't get that phrase, 'while we're away.' Of course our baby lives with us, but while we were away we thought it would be easier and safer for him to be in a less lonely locale" . . . Husband Marcus Goodrich explains further that to make the 7-month-old baby feel at home he moved all the nursery furnishings into the hotel suite, and that it was all he could do to persuade Olivia to make a trip away from their wee one . . . Now that I'm an Indian, my scalping knife is out for the eminent lady reporter who miffed the yarn, and my apologies go to Mr. and Mrs. Goodrich, who kindly observed that life in Hollywood may seem screwy, but, so far as they're concerned, not that screwy . . . It all comes from believing anything you don't hear with your own ears; I broke my own rule and suffer accordingly.

FAGUE SPRINGMAN, the local baritone, has hopes for starting one of those musical circuses that were so successful last summer in Jersey and this winter in Florida—light operas in arena staging . . . It's a good idea, but money's a problem . . . He says he'll talk to all who want to hear about it tonight at Campbell's music shop, 1108 G st., at 8:30.

ROSE ROBISON COWEN'S Children's Studios will be presenting a unique series of plays beginning Friday night when "The Devil and the Blacksmith," based on a Czech legend, begins a Children's International Drama Festival as part of the ANTA-UNESCO 1950 International Theater program . . . Plays from Puerto Rico, Germany, England and Mexico are also on the schedule . . . It's a stimulating, ambitious-sounding program for the group, whose headquarters are at 3815 Livingston st.

GLEN ECHO tomorrow night continues its Thursday night square dancing programs in the Spanish Ballroom, with Ralph Case calling the dances and Zeb Turner chanting to his guitar . . . Sammy Ferro and his "Kountry Kousins" play for the hoedown, which goes on from 9 till midnight.

TODAY brings "The Titan," an unusual biography-in-his-work of Michelangelo, to the Dupont . . . "Tight Little Island" continues at the Little, going into its fifth week . . . The Pix unveils a Marx Brothers bill, "Duck Soup" and "Animal Crackers."

WHICH ONE IS THE SPIDER? The web of deceit involves both Marlene Dietrich and Richard Todd in Alfred Hitchcock's murder tale on the Warner screen, "Back Stage." But which one is the liar, the director asks. Marlene has a merry moment singing "The Laziest Girl in Town."

Postlude

University Musicians End Series

By Paul Hume

Contemporary chamber music filled the bill last night in Clendenen Hall of American University.

There, the university's chamber music society completed its current season of programs, surveying four centuries of music for small ensembles. It has been a noteworthy series, admirably conceived, and well carried out. It is encouraging that the university intends to present another such series next season.

Last night's music was drawn from America, England, and Russia. The oldest item presented was a set of six bagatelles by Anton Webern. These, dated 1913, were produced only a few years ahead of Prokofieff's Overture on Yiddish themes, a work from 1919.

Webern frames his creations with utmost economy. Brief in length, sparing of sonority, they breath a single idea in hushed dynamics, and are gone. Webern lived 30 years after writing them. They are early and experimental. Performed with acute precision last night by the University Quartet, they did not arouse the enthusiasm entitling them to the second reading the quartet proceeded to give them.

The idea that they were so elusory as to require the double treatment is one to which we do not subscribe.

Far more interesting and rewarding were the overture, a trio by Copland, and Emerson Meyers' quintet. Copland, also writing in a period of musical unrest and change, produced a fascinating study in rhythm, long melodic lines, abrupt, jagged ideas, and new sounds for violin, cello, and piano. His trio, "Vitebsk," a study on a Jewish theme, is not so hard to hear as we were led to imagine. It should be played again and soon.

A more elaborate work in the same vein of thought was Prokofieff's overture. Three themes weave in and out of the music, written for quartet, clarinet, and piano. It moves almost into the French salon for a moment and then returns to its most characteristic undulant motion.

Meyers' quintet is called conservative and classical. It is. But it possesses originality of thematic material, treatment, and a constant allure in the use of the instruments.

The entire evening was unusually well played, with all members of the quartet infusing a command and polish not always present in their earlier concerts.

Coy Sees TV Threat to New Radio Stations

Chicago, April 18 (AP).—Chairman Wayne Coy of the Federal Communications Commission told broadcasters today there is the unpleasant prospect that television's competition may result in some casualties among newer radio stations.

Addressing the twenty-eighth annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters, he said "the 800 prewar stations are in a stronger position than the 1200 other stations as they face the dilemma of today's broadcasting transition."

While forecasting that competition between television and radio for audience and sponsors "will become more and more severe," Coy declared:

"I am convinced that we will need not only a national system of television but that we will need an able system of aural (radio) broadcasting."

Coy gave radio broadcasters this formlula for weathering "the winds of competition" which, he said, "are blowing a terrific gale on the broadcasting business:"

". . . make your station an indispensable part of your community's life, a source of leadership and aid in every civic project, a forum for the discussion of local issues, an institution where local talent can be heard and encouraged . . ."

Explaining his prediction that the longer established stations would fare best against video competition, Coy said that last year the 800 prewar stations garnered 94 percent of the income, while the 1200 that came on during and since the war had to split the remaining 6 percent.

Some broadcasters have contended that radio's outlook has been clouded as much by the large number of new stations licensed by the FCC since the war as by television.

Coy also had the encouraging report for radio broadcasters that television has not yet had any significant impact on the income of standard radio. He said the revenue of established radio stations in areas also having television declined only slightly—less than 2 percent last year—while the business of stations in non-television areas was virtually unchanged.

Nats Get 5 in 1st, Outlast A's, 8-7, in Opener; Yanks' 9-Run 8th Overpowers Bosox, 15 to 10

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

GRIFFITH STADIUM, April 18.—Somebody talked. Word got out that the season was opening today, and there are 33,000 people in the place, not counting H. S. Truman, the noted opening-day pass-cadger from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Cordiality was busting out all over as Clark Griffith greeted his new partner, John J. Jachym, and ushered him to the official family box. Scanning the packed park before the game, Jachym was highly impressed with his investment, at least at this hour.

POVICH

Connie Mack, Vice President Barkley and Clark Griffith led the march to the flagpole for the unfurling and even the secret service couldn't deduce which one was out of step. Youth was served on the return to home plate with the Veep (73) showing his heels to Griff (80) who was trailed by Mack (87).

President Truman, the first southpaw in White House baseball history, warmed up for the ceremonial pitch with his right arm and crossed up the cameramen with a lefthand throw. Then, grinning, he grabbed a second ball and threw it right-handed. Practically an iron-man stunt, for a White House hurler.

THE NATS have a run. Irv Noren drove it in with a single to center, in his first time at bat in the majors, the first dividend on Griffith's $70,000 outlay. Before the game, Noren confessed, "I'm nervous." He might make good if Bucky Harris can keep him unnerved.

The Nats have five runs, the A's have a new pitcher. Carl Scheib faced four hitters and succeeded in retiring only himself. He was thrown out on a fast play by Connie Mack, who went far to his right in the A's dugout and motioned to the bullpen for Bobby Shantz.

At this point, it was brightly suggested in the press box that the only way Philadelphia could get even with Washington was to wait until November when the Eagles would move into Griffith Stadium.

SAM CHAPMAN bids for a home run with a fearful swat toward the seats in left center and immediately rues May 18, 1924—the day Gil Coan was born. Coan stole the homer from Chapman and the fans' laps with a one-hand leaping catch as his shoulder blades rubbed the fence.

After seven nonsalaried weeks in the South, Coan went on the payroll today, and is acting like it. He personally has made seven of the first 13 putouts and is covering left field like a one-man crowd.

Dillinger tripled and Suder homered and the A's have two runs. In fact, Suder overdid it with his homer. With the new box seats to shoot at in left field, he wasted power needlessly with a clout far beyond 'em into the concrete bleachers.

Scarborough's six-run lead is evaporating, and the A's have pulled up to 6-4 with two more runs in the fifth. Scarborough wild-pitched the first one home with an errant curve ball that escaped Al Evans' mitt and left him with a mouthful of sod.

Bucky Harris furloughs Scarborough in the sixth after the A's pull up to 6-5, and calls in Mickey Harris, whose first act is to call for a new ball. On the suspicion, no doubt, that Scarborough was pitching a lively ball.

With one out and men on first and third, Umpire Cal Hubbard obligingly reaches in his pocket and gives Harris just what he wanted—a double play ball. He throws it to Joost and Dente starts a nice twin-killing that gets the Nats out of the inning with their one-run lead.

MAKE IT 7-5, NATS. Kozar singles, Evans singles and Harris hits into a double play, but Pinch-hitter Sam Mele gets the run home with a single to right. Mele isn't supposed to hit to right, but definitely he's the type that can't be trusted.

Connie Mack makes a bum of Bucky Harris in their respective pinch-hitting selections. Connie comes up with Billy Hitchcock in the eighth and signals for a triple, which is forthcoming immediately, and the A's now trail only, 7-6.

Mickey Harris gets out of the inning nicely, though, something that can't be said for Eddie Yost. Yost turned in the third out on a high pop by Eddie Joost in front of the plate, but he had to survive a 210-pound body block by Eddie Robinson who also had designs on making the catch.

And the A's wind up one run shy, not to be confused with bashful, in this case. Connie Mack's Golden Jubilee year commences unjubilantly. He got seven runs for his money, when he needed nine.

Spahn Wins, 11-4

Sam Jethroe, Elliott, Ryan Homer, Braves Crush Giants

New York, April 18 (AP).—Billy Southworth's renovated Boston Braves flexed their home run muscles three times today to crush the New York Giants, 11-4, in view to 32,441 opening day customers at the Polo Grounds.

Warren Spahn rode home with an eight-hitter, walked six and fanned six in the process.

Bob Elliott, Connie Ryan and Rookie Sam Jethroe, the Negro speed demon, battered Giant pitching for homers. Jethroe also singled and walked in an auspicious debut. On the other side Hank Thompson and Whitey Lockman homered off Spahn.

A five-run eruption in the fifth inning that chased Larry Jansen broke a tie game wide open.

Stranahan Leads North, South Golf

Pinehurst, N. C., April 18 (AP).—Defending Champion Frank Stranahan and Medalist Harry H. Haverstick, jr., led the parade of favorites safely through the first round of the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament today.

Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, ousted Mort Reed of Rochester, N. Y., 4 and 3, and Haverstick of Lancaster, Pa., eliminated A. M. Foster of New York by the same score.

Edward J. Newcombe, New Haven, Conn., defeated Robert Chandler, Washington, D. C., 4 and 3.

Champs Rout Parnell; 14 Go to Bat In Big Inning

Boston, April 18 (AP).—The World Championship New York Yankees spotted the Boston Red Sox nine runs and then whaled six pitchers including Starter Mel Parnell, for a 15-10 victory today before an amazed 31,822 opening day crowd at Fenway Park.

For seven innings the largest first game turnout in Boston's long baseball history basked in the balmy weather, thrilling to their favorites. Just before Parnell blew up, he had what seemed a safe 10-4 lead, for the Yanks had rapped him for four runs in the sixth with Tommy Henrich hitting a triple and Bill Johnson a double.

Yogi Berra's single launched the Yankee's eighth inning drive, during which 14 men went to bat to produce nine runs.

The big inning for the Yankees included a double and a single by Rookie Billy Martin, a double by Pinch-Hitter Johnny Mize, Henrich's second three-bagger of the game, plus Berra's second single, three bases on balls and a run-costing wild pitch by Masterson. That terrific upheaval boosted the Yankees into a 13-10 lead.

Joe DiMaggio playing only in his sixth opening game in 12 years, banged out three hits for six bases

Phils Club Dodgers, 9-1, Behind Roberts

Philadelphia, April 18 (AP).—Rookie Second Baseman Mike Goliat slaammed out four hits in as many times at bat to lead the Philadelphia Phils to a 9-1 triumph over the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers today

The largest opening day crowd in the Phillies' history—29,074 cash customers—saw Righthander Robin Roberts hold the Brooks to seven hits while the Phils pounded five pitchers including Starter Don Newcombe for 16.

It was obvious from the outset that Newcombe, who sparked Brooklyn into the 1949 World Series with a 17-8 record, had nothing but his glove.

Richie Ashburn opened with a single; Gran Hamner doubled over Duke Snider's head in deep center, scoring Ashburn. After Eddie Waitkus flied out, Del Ennis walloped a double scoring Hamner.

When Mike Goliat and Andy Seminick both doubled to start the second inning, Manager Burt Shotton waved Carl Erskine in to relieve Newcombe.

It was a preconference warmup for both teams.

SOME NEW ANTICS—George Myatt, (53), third base coach of the Nats, gave the fans some acrobatics to look at yesterday during the season's opening game. Here Myatt throws himself to the ground as a signal to Teammate Irv Noren to slide on a play at third base in the seventh inning. But Noren was out, Pitcher Bob Shantz to Third Baseman Bob Dillinger, on Eddie Stewart's tap. Umpire Joe Paparella calls the play The Nats outlasted the Athletics, 8-7

A Day of Firsts

16-Year-Old Gets in Line At 6:30 for Bleacher Seat

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

IT WAS opening day at the ball park and there were a lot of firsts:

First in line for the last 3000 bleacher seats—Bob Matthews and Val Dulay, both 16-year-old sophomores at Eastern High School. They got in line at 6:30 a. m. And, oh yes, they didn't play hookey. They had written excuses from school.

First to sit in the new $2 box seats in front of the left field bleachers, 390 feet from home plate—Wayne Carter, 1226 B st. se. "I'm satisfied to sit here for opening day, when tickets are scarce, but ordinarily, they're little better than sitting in the 60-cent bleachers," he said.

First ball to be hit out of the park—the Nats' Bob Ortiz cracked a batting practice pitch into the new bleacher boxes.

Mickey Cochrane edged into the "first" act by catching batting practice for the Athletics. It was the first time that the great Cochrane had donned a mitt before a big-league game since he was "beaned" by the Yankees' Bump Hadley in 1937.

First man to cross home plate—Vice President Alben Barkley, a former Senator, after marching with Connie Mack and Clark Griffith to raise the flag in center field before the game. Barkley bowed neatly as he stepped on the plate, and the crowd applauded.

First strikeout — Scarborough fanning Eddie Joost in the first inning.

First hit—A single to right by Elmer Valo of the A's in the first.

First run—By Gil Coan in the first inning.

First run batted in—By Irv Noren, who scored Coan with a single to center.

First double—By Sam Dente in the first.

First triple—By Bob Dillinger of the A's in the fourth.

First homer—By Pete Suder, a king-sized liner into the old left field bleachers in the fourth.

First relief pitcher—Bobby Shantz, who took over for Starter Carl Scheib of the A's in the first.

Seven Nats reached base their first times up this season: Coan singling, Dente doubling, Noren singling, Eddie Robinson walking, Ed Stewart doubling and Eddie Yost singling in the first inning. Pinchhitter Sam Mele, batting for Coan in the sixth, singled too.

Tigers Shell Lemon, Beat Tribe in 10th

Cleveland, April 18 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers knocked Bob Lemon out of the box in the eighth inning and went on to beat the Cleveland Indians, 7 to 6, in 10 innings today before 65,744, the biggest opening-day crowd in the Nation.

The Tigers were aided by four unearned runs on the help of errors by Joe Gordon and Mickey Vernon.

Detroit scored the winning run in the tenth when Dick Kryhoski ran home on Johnny Lipon's long fly to left.

Al Rosen, new Indian third baseman, hit his first major league homer in the eighth inning. Larry Doby homered in the first inning with one on, also for Cleveland. Catcher Aaron Robinson hit a home run with none on in the seventh inning for Detroit.

Scarborough Wins Game; Suder Hits Homer in 4th

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

President Truman was the only unscored-on pitcher at Griffith Stadium yesterday until Alex Kellner did a brief ninth-inning stint for the Athletics. In the slugfest that followed the President's ceremonial pitch, the Nats won the opening game from the A's 8 to 7.

The Nats made a bold attempt to cold-cock the A's with five rapid runs in the first inning, but they wouldn't stay down, and the 31,548 fans watched 'em whittle Washington's leads to 6-4, 6-5 and 7-6 before Mickey Harris negotiated the final out.

The President himself set opening-game history by throwing out not one, but two, ritualistic pitches to launch the 1950 season. Grinning at his own ambidextrous display, he threw the first as a southpaw, the second as a righthander, to confound the photographers

Scarborough Gets Credit

He spurned the sissified umbrella when rain started to fall in the sixth inning, and calmly donned a raincoat to sit out the rest of the game.

Ray Scarborough was the winning pitcher, a fact that wasn't established until he was swabbing himself down in the showers after bequeathing a sorry situation to Relief Man Mickey Harris in the sixth inning. At that point, Scarborough had pitched away most of what had been a 6-0 lead, the A's had two on, one out, and the tying run on third.

In that crisis, lefthander Harris lured Eddie Joost into hitting a double-play grounder to shortstop Sam Dente and preserved the Nats' lead.

Mele, Kozar Come Through

To Connie Mack's choice of Carl Scheib as his starting pitcher, the Nats owe their victory. That husky righthander who in three years had beaten the Nats seven times without defeat couldn't last out the first inning. He got nobody out and was charged with the Nats' first four runs.

For their last three runs, the Nats had to scramble against little Lefthander Bobby Shantz, who

McGrath Doesn't Get a Foul But Demands His 'W'

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath missed out on a chance to be a national hero yesterday at the opening baseball game, but says he'll settle for a Washington "W" instead.

McGrath, seated next to President Truman, volunteered to help Nats' Pitcher Joe Haynes guard the Chief Executive from any errant fouls. Nats' President Clark Griffith promptly furnished McGrath with a glove, which he wore for nine innings.

"But no foul balls came our way," said McGrath afterward. "I made no runs, no hits and no errors. I missed out on my chance to be a national hero. However, since I served as a kind of extra outfielder, I feel I'm entitled to my team letter."

Truman Opens Season With a Balk, Nats With a Bang

Haynes Gets First Ball, Coan 'Alternate' Pitch

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

GRIFFITH STADIUM, April 18.—OPENING DATA: President Truman's opening day pitch looked like a put-up job today. Using the baseball furnished him by Clark Griffith, Mr. Truman threw it smack into the hands of Joe Haynes, Griff's son-in-law . . . To remove the suspicion of collusion, however, Mr. Truman made a second pitch—this time right-handed, with Gil Coan fielding the ball on the first hop . . . For the first time in three years, Sid Hudson was completely blanked trying to catch the presidential pitch. He pocketed the prize in 1947, again in 1948 and had it in his glove last year only to fumble the ball with Eddie Robinson making a nice recovery . . . Today, however, Sid was bumped by Robinson in the mad scramble for the souvenir . . . Even though Umpires Cal Hubbard, Joe Paparella and Eddie Rommell were looking right at him when he did it, Pitcher Truman, nevertheless, committed the first balk of the season and got away with it. He failed to come to a complete stop before throwing out the second ball . . . Irv Noren was as excited as the rookie he is getting his first gander at a Washington opening day. "If Truman is as nervous as I am," Noren said, "he'll freeze up and won't even be able to throw the ball" . . . Both, however, proved perfectly relaxed. Truman was very nonchalant performing his annual ritual and Noren seemed to be his natural self as he belted a single his first time at bat . . .

THE STADIUM was so jam-packed for the opener that a Standing Room Only sign had to be put up even in the Nats' new bullpen. Coach Joe Fitzgerald couldn't find a seat, inasmuch as Manager Bucky Harris had seven of his pitchers there . . . Ray Scarborough says he's proud of his opening day pitching assignment, but at the same time wishes a deal could be worked out whereby Mr. Truman would toss him the first ball . . . "I'm out there warming up and don't get a chance to catch it," he said . . . At the end of the first inning, Mr. Truman's prediction of a 5-3 Nats victory was looking very good with the Nats having fulfilled their part of his prophecy, holding a 5-0 lead . . . Strangely enough, the advantage was piled up against Carl Scheib, who had beaten the Nats seven times in three years without a loss . . . The only man Scheib could get out that inning was he, himself, who was escorted out by Earl Mack, the second of the fabulous McGillicudy clan to make an appearance this afternoon. The senior Mack, Connie, bowed in earlier as an escort for Vice President Barkley in the flag-raising ceremony . . . Manager Bucky Harris, who has committed himself to the two-platoon system, either completely forgot about it or else he decided to junk the idea in the first inning. With Scheib disposed of, the Macks wheeled in Lefty Bob Shantz to face the left-handed batting Ed Stewart. Harris permitted Stewart to stay in the lineup and Ed rewarded his judgment with a line single to centerfield to drive in two runs . . .

GIL COAN, who lettered in track at Monroe, N. C., senior high, gave an exhibition of his speciality—high jumping—in the second inning by leaping 5 feet in the air to snare Sam Chapman's bid for a homer in the leftfield stands . . . There was a definite leftist trend in the first five innings of the ball game what with Leftfielder Coan owning seven putouts by that time and the Athletics' only two extra base-hits being made into left field also . . . If any of the Nats gets hurt sliding, it's bound to be George Myatt, third base coach who isn't even on the playing roster. Myatt, nevertheless, doesn't merely tell a base runner to slide, he actually slides into the bag himself directing the runner . . . Mickey Harris stopped two rallies in the sixth inning. He relieved Scarborough and got Joost to hit into a double play to quell the A's. Shortly afterward, he stopped a Nats' rally by grounding into a double play himself . . . Rain fell in the sixth inning, but nobody seemed to mind except the group sitting back of President Truman's party. The Trumans watched proceedings from under an umbrella, forçing the spectators behind them to take a dim view of the game

Pafko Smacks 2 Homers, Cubs Top Reds, 9-6

Cincinnati, April 18 (AP).—Two home runs by Andy Pafko and one by Preston Ward provided the punch today as the Chicago Cubs opened the National League season with a 9-6 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. There was a crowd of 31,213.

Ward's home run in the third inning came with two on and Pafko's second blast in the ninth also came with two runners aboard. Johnny Schmitz was the winning surler, although he yielded to the veteran Dutch Leonard for the final inning.

Pafko also cracked out a double for good measure.

Sid Hudson Hurls Tonight Against A's

Having conquered the Athletics by daylight, the Nats will try it at night this evening.

It's the earliest regular season night game in American League history, but only one of 43 the Griffs will play at Griffith Stadium this season.

To protect his club's perfect American League standing, Manager Bucky Harris nominated Sid Hudson to do the Washington pitching with Hank Wyse, also a right hander, on the hill for the Mackmen.

Hudson, who won only four games last year, showed little in the early spring, but has been impressive in his last two tests. Wyse, who was with the Chicago Cubs several years ago, was battered freely by the Nats at Orlando April 9, but came back to make a creditable showing against them two weeks ago in a Charlotte, N. C., exhibition.

With the righthanded Wyse toiling for the A's, Harris will use his left-handed hitting outfield, consisting of Irv Noren, Gil Coan and Eddie Stewart.

Globetrotters and All-Stars End Tour at Uline's Tonight

Tommy O'Keefe, Georgetown University star, will be in the lineup tonight for the College All-Americans as they tackle the Harlem Globetrotters at Uline Arena.

Tommy is expected to add scoring punch to the Star attack. The six-one Hoya guard gave a convincing demonstration of his ability in that department last Saturday night as he paced the New Jersey All-Stars to a 68-66 overtime win over the New York All-Stars.

O'Keefe was awarded a trophy as the game's outstanding player. He dunked in the winning basket on a lay-up shot in the final 30 seconds.

The Globetrotters also have imported new talent for the finale of the 18-game cross-country tour. They have called up Chuck Cooper, former Duquesne University center; Ben Bluitt of Loyola (Chicago), Bill Brown and Duke Cumberland.

Uline's has expanded its seating capacity to 8000 for the contest, which is expected to set an all-time attendance record here.

The All-Americans will put many of the brightest stars of the 1949-50 basketball season on the floor tonight. These include Bob Cousy of Holy Cross; Kevin O'Shea, Notre Dame; Don Rehfeldt, Wisconsin; Bill Erickson, Illinois; Gerry Calabrese, St. John's (Brooklyn); Ed Dahler, Duquesne, held them to a single tally from the first to the sixth inning, and made two important hits, himself, for the A's.

Nats Grab Opener From A's, 8-7

Griffs Score 5 In First Inning; Suder Homers

Altogether the Nats amassed 12 hits against the A's nine, which included Pete Suder's fourth-inning home run blast into the left-field bleachers off Scarborough.

Ultimately, the important Washington hits were delivered by Al Kozar and Pinch-hitter Sam Mele, at a time when the A's were yapping at the Nats' heels in the sixth and seventh innings.

Mele, rushed into the game to hit for Gil Coan in the sixth with two outs, after the A's had pared the Nats' lead to 6-5, delivered a run-scoring single to right. And in the seventh, after the A's drew up to 7-6, Kozar banged a run-loaded single to center with two outs.

The Nats pounced on Scheib as if he were white meat, when they got the signal to play ball after the half-hour of ceremonies.

Gil Coan opened his 1950 season with a single to center, and Sam Dente smartly clubbed a hit-and-run two-bagger into right field to send the rally into full cry.

Exit Scheib, Enter Shantz

Rookie Irv Noren introduced himself to the Nats' fans with their third straight hit, a single to center that scored Coan, with Dente cautiously holding up at third. When Scheib lost control and passed Robinson, Connie Mark lost patience and got him out of there, with the bases full.

Eddie Stewart greeted little Shantz with a single to center that deposited two more runs home, and Eddie Yost whacked a single to left to score both Robinson and Stewart. The final run was tabbed as unearned, what with Stewart moving to second base after Sam Chapman bobbled his single to center.

Robinson and Yost wrenched a run out of Shantz to up the Nats lead to 6-0 in the third. Robbie hustled himself a two-bagger on his drive into right center, and with Harris trying to pyramid his lead, Stewart laid down a sacrifice. Yost's long line drive to McCosky scored Robinson from third.

Coan Robs Chapman

Meanwhile, Scarborough was getting by without being scored on in the first three innings, chiefly by grace of Gil Coan's sensational roaming in the left field sector. Coan dragged down hard-hit balls, including a bit of unabashed thievery against Sam Chapman. He leaped over the barrier to haul in Chapman's bid for a homer in the second inning with a glove-hand catch.

They caught up with Scarborough for two runs in the fourth, after Dillinger's hit into left field wound up as a triple after hitting a drain pipe in foul territory. Chapman's long fly scored Dillinger, and then Pete Suder walloped the day's only home run.

Suder, supposedly incapacitated by a knee injury, was an added starter in the A's lineup. He tested his knee before the game in batting practice, hit a couple into the stands, and decided he was healthy.

This thing was getting serious for Scarborough in the fifth when the A's whacked him for three more hits and got two more runs, one of which he wild-pitched home.

Little Shantz himself opened the inning with a single, and only another back-to-the-fence catch by Gil Coan off Joost saved Scarborough more trouble. McCosky moved Shantz to third with a single to right, and Scarborough gave the A's a free run with a pitch into the dirt that moved Shantz home.

Ferris Fain singled to center for the second run of the inning.

Eddie Yost gave the A's an opening in the sixth when he muffed Sam Chapman's grounder with none out, and the A's capitalized on it. Guerra drew a walk with one out, and when Shantz shot a single past Dente, the Nats' lead dwindled to 6-5.

Whereat Manager Bucky Harris suddenly ran out of patience with Scarborough, waved Mickey Harris in from the bullpen. Southpaw Harris cut the A's off with a double-play pitch to Joost which Dente gobbled up and routed around the bases.

The Nats got that run back in their own half of the inning after some doubt that they would score despite singles by Kozar and Evans that opened the inning. Playing in, the A's infield grabbed up Mickey Harris' grounder for a double play that restrained Kozar on third base, but Mele moved in to hit for Coan and did—a single to right that scored Kozar.

Harris almost let the game get out of hand in the seventh again, when McCosky led off with a double to center. He was rescued temporarily by Kozar, who made a sensational play on a ground ball Valo rammed off the pitcher's shank. McCosky, who went to third, scored on Fain's fly to Stewart.

Again the Nats battled back and regained a two-run lead in their own half. Shantz walked Noren and Robinson but then gave himself a lift with none out by grabbing up Stewart's attempted sacrifice and throwing to Dillinger for a force play. Eventually with two out, Kozar singled past Joost to get a run home.

Harris' two-run lead began to evaporate again in the eighth with two out. Suder drew a walk and Harris fanned Pinch Hitter Al Guintini. But Pinch Hitter Billy Hitchcock, a former Nat, rifled a triple down the right-field line to score Suder and put the tying run on third.

In this crisis, Harris bore down smartly and caused Joost to pop high in front of the plate. Eddie Yost made the catch to end the inning despite the bull-like charge of Eddie Robinson who also had designs on the ball and knocked Yost off his pins.

In the ninth, Harris was all business. He got rid of McCosky quickly by shoving a third strike past him, and then watched his outfielders take care of modest flies by Valo and Fain to wind up a clever and winning relief job in which he allowed only two hits in three innings.

Halley, Top Choice, 2d By 2 Lengths

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Havre de Grace, Md., April 18.—Apprentice Jockey Eddie Sanders, who rode his first winner at Charles Town last March, appears to be a fixture on the major tracks. He gave another excellent saddle demonstration today, booting home H. R. McClarin's Cecil M. in the Bush River Purse featuring the Tuesday horse show.

Walter M. Jeffords' Halley, the favorite, was second, five lengths behind the winner and two lengths in advance of a photo for third given to E. K. Bryson's Yarle over Mrs. E. H. Augustus' Loran.

Competing in a field of eight sophomores, with only the Brookmeade Stable's Great Admiral a Preakness candidate, Cecil M. was making his first start of the year and hung up a $21 win mutuel while going the 6 furlongs over a fast track in 1:12 1/5.

Cecil M., winner of only one race in nine tries last year, broke well today and had the lead at the far turn. From that point to midstretch several horses made challenges, but young Sanders shook his whip in Cecil M.'s face and the colt drew out.

Investors in the 8-and-5 tickets collected $71.40 on the daily double. Jockey Mike Basile brought Golden Reigh from behind to take the first race in the colors of Mrs. George Brown, jr. The winner paid $6. The second event went to R. P. Steckler's Mess Boy, piloted by Pat Boyle. The 5-year-old returned $13.20.

Boozer Hurls Virginia Win

Charlottesville, Va., April 18.—Southpaw Bill Boozer hurled three-hit ball and struck out four men as he led Virginia to a 4-1 triumph over V. P. I. in a Big Six game here this afternoon. It was Boozer's fifth straight victory.

Jim Patton, with three hits, including a double and home run, paced the Cavaliers at bat. His homer came in the seventh inning with the bases empty.

Virginia has won nine games and lost three. It was the Cavaliers' first Big Six start. Virginia Poly has a 5-4 over-all record and a 2-1 Big Six mark.

5 More Horses Now Eligible For Preakness

Havre de Grace, Md., April 18.—John O. Needles, secretary of the Maryland Jockey Club, was a visitor today to release the supplementary nominations to the 1950 edition of the Preakness Stakes.

Five horses were made eligible to the $50,000 mile and three-sixteenths stake through payment of the $1500 supplementary fee.

The added nominees are Mrs. James Carson's Kinsman, C. T. Chenery's Hill Prince, Mrs. W. H. Labrot's Balkan, Mrs. Andrew Schuttinger's Ferd and Willorene Farm's Trumpet King. Willorene Farm is owned by Jacob Mandelbaum of New York. It was revealed that Brookmeade Stable's Sun Glow, last Saturday's Chesapeake Stakes winner, already was eligible.

For the first closing of the Preakness, 399 were eligible by payment of $10 each. At the second closing, 165 remained eligible through payment of $25 and at the final closing, 70 made payments of $100. These fees, plus $7500 for the five supplementary nominations brings the gross value of the race at the moment to $72,615.

Needles, who is secretary-treasurer of the Laurel Race Course, also revealed that at a meeting of the Laurel directors recently President Henry A. Parr 3d announced that steeplechasing would be resumed at the track with the fall meeting, October 17 to November 1.

Laurel directors also voted to retain the $25,000 added money for the 1951 Selma Stakes which will close to yearling fillies on May 15 of this year.

Bill Bennings Says:

AT HAVRE DE GRACE.

Dear Folks:

Jockey R. J. Martin was suspended for 10 days and fined $200 for punching an elderly gatekeeper at the clubhouse. Martin had just been beaten on Swap Out and was stopped when he didn't have a ticket. Quiz Show will not go in the Wood Memorial, the decision being made by Trainer J. H. Pierce. Thus Johnny Gilbert stays here to ride Hash Night in the Burke Handicap. Jockey Bobbie Mitchell suffered bruises in a training spill this morning but retained his afternoon mounts. Capot will not be shipped in for the Burke, according to word from New York. Baseball can be expected to howl, but night flat racing is not too distant in Maryland.—BILL.

Citizens Oppose Roosevelt Change

The Petworth Citizens Association last night went on record as opposing any change in the name, the faculty or the principal of Roosevelt Senior High School.

The action followed a speech to the group at the Petworth Public Library by Mrs. Elva C. Wells, acting principal of Roosevelt, who urged that things remain as they are.

The association also passed a resolution asking that shifts of pupils and teachers because of the transfer of Central High School to Negro use be accomplished with the least possible disruption.

A bill vesting control of swimming pools and other recreational facilities in the hands of local officials was approved. Provision of an inside swimming pool and a floodlighted stadium at Roosevelt High was urged.

Columbia Heights

Opposition to operation of public swimming pools in the District on a nonsegregated basis was voted last night by the Citizens Forum of Columbia Heights, at a meeting at Bell Vocational High School.

The group went on record as favoring operation of four pools for white swimmers exclusively, and two for Negroes.

The forum also voted opposition to any increase in fares by the Capital Transit Co. and asked continuation of the weekly pass and fares at their present level. It voted opposition to an application for a poolroom license on Irving st. between 14th and 15th sts. nw.

Central N.W. Civic

The Department of Interior was commended last night for its stand on non-segregation in swimming pools and recreation areas in a motion passed by the Central Northwest Civic Association.

Meeting at Garnet-Patterson Junior High School, 10th and U sts. nw., the group also disapproved a bill which would authorize appointment of a retired Metropolitan police officer to the District boxing commission.

E. Central Civic

Opposition to Harry S. Wender's reappointment to chairmanship of the District's Recreation Board was voiced in a resolution passed by East Central Civic Association last night. The group objected to his "segregation stand" on swimming pools and other recreational facilities.

Brookland Citizens

Miss Kathleen W. Noel, 1262 Lawrence st. ne., has been elected president of the Brookland Citizens Association, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. Louise Parent has been named as vice president of the group.

Anacostia

The Anacostia Citizens Association last night amended its constitution so that no person who is, or who has been a member of the Communist Party or other subversive group shall be admitted to membership.

The group also urged that many improvements be made to Kramer Junior High and Anacostia Senior High schools.

Herbert P. Leeman, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, spoke briefly on the merits of the Kefauver Home Rule bill. The meeting was at the Y. M. C. A., 17th st. and Good Hope rd. se.

Cathedral Heights

Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, District engineer commissioner, discussed the functions of the District Government before the Cathedral Heights-Cleveland Park Citizens Association last night.

He said there is "need for better coordination of governmental machinery," but added quickly that he was not discussing "home rule."

"I get paid by Uncle Sam whether they want to elect commissioners or not," he said, "so I have no public views on the issue." The meeting was at Satterlea Hall, St. Alban's Church, Massachusetts and Wisconsin aves. nw.

Dr. Urey Sees Atlantic Union Minimum Need

An "Atlantic Union" agreement between this country and Western Europe was seen last night by Dr. Harold C. Urey as a bare minimum program necessary to combat Soviet expansion and control atomic weapons.

Dr. Urey, Nobel prize-winning scientist and professor at the University of Chicago, voiced the opinion in an address before the University of Chicago Club of Washington at the Hotel Statler.

"It is not possible to work out a Government that includes the western world and Russia at the same time," Dr. Urey told his hearers. 'The basis of disagreement is too profound.

"The Atlantic Union idea is as much as can barely be secured at present, and perhaps it is barely enough to solve our problems. Anything less than the Atlantic Union will lead only from one temporizing solution to another which in the end will not be effective.

"Europe is the danger spot of the world. Her people are threatened by atomic bombs and a vast army in the East. Unless we give them the maximum amount of support, they may fall to the totalitarian tyranny of Russia."

Dr. Urey said no effective international control of atomic weapons can be achieved by the type of international organizations used in the past such as the League of Nations, United Nations, World Court, or the Kellogg peace treaties.

Dr. Urey's general topic was "Neutralizing the A and H Bombs." He received the Nobel prize for discovery of heavy water, an important ingredient of the bombs.

Another speaker was Sen. William Benton (D., Conn.), a trustee of the University of Chicago. H. R. Baukhage, radio commentator, was master of ceremonies.

Truman Wins $1 as Nats Win Opener

walked across the field to his dugout.

He and two comparative youngsters—Vice President Alben Barkley, 72, and Clark Griffith, 80—started the opening-day ceremonies by marching out to center field.

The Army Band struck up the national anthem. With the players of the two teams standing at attention, Barkley hoisted Old Glory to the top of the pole.

Cheers arose from the great crowd as the three men led the procession back to home plate. The Veep strode along at march time, flanked by Mack and Griffith. It was a brisk pace, but the two octogenarians never lagged.

Barkley stomped on home plate when he reached it, and then led Mack and Griffith over to the presidential box near the Washington dugout. Mack, attired in a blue suit and a high 1910-style collar, was not even puffing as he was presented to Mr. Truman.

It was noticed that the Chief Executive first took off his hat and then reached out to grasp the older man's hand.

Rain, which had seemed imminent all afternoon, actually started falling in the sixth inning.

President Truman, the First Lady, and Miss Margaret Truman, were exposed to it, being in a box just beyond the grandstand roof. Miss Truman was the first to take alarm as the drizzle started. She held a score card over her spring hat, a blue sailor. A minute or so later, however, she and Mrs. Truman were huddled together under an umbrella.

The President put on a raincoat, but smilingly refused when photographers urged him to join his wife and daughter under the umbrella.

Heretofore, in advance of opening games, Mr. Truman has always gone down to Capitol Hill for a luncheon given by Federal Trade Commissioner Lowell Mason. He was unable to go yesterday, but sent White House Secretaries Matthew J. Connelly and Charles G. Ross to represent him.

Ross told reporters later he had submitted Mr. Truman's forecast of a 5-3 score in Washington's favor, and accompanied it with the $1 bet.

Arriving at Griffith Stadium later on, the Chief Executive pulled something new when the moment arrived to throw out the first ball. A natural southpaw, he started out with a ball in his left hand.

"Which way do you want me to throw it?" he yelled at the photographers.

"Wait till we're set," came the reply.

Right-Handed Toss a Flop

The President then proceeded to throw the two balls out to the assembled Washington players. The first, thrown with his left, was a good one with some loft. It was caught by Pitcher Joe Haynes. The right-hande dtoss was a miserable thing that landed on the turf, and was recovered by Leftfielder Coan.

Agencies Absorb Much Of Half-Billion Added Costs of '49 Pay Bills

Uncle Sam is paying his employes $514,178,786 in additional salaries and benefits this year under 15 different bills passed last year by Congress.

A report covering the cost of the various pay bills has been made to Congress by the Budget Bureau. In one way or another, much of the added cost is being absorbed by the agencies, an estimated $402,595,599. The defense agencies have absorbed the entire cost of pay bills covering both civilian and military people.

The Budget Bureau has requested from Congress deficiency appropriations of $111,583,187, or only 22 percent of the total, to meet pay bill cost for the remainder of this fiscal year.

Presumably Congress will approve the money since the total is far less than expected, but several of the agencies are concerned, nevertheless, as they will be needing the funds within a few weeks.

TAX COURT: The terms of four members of the Tax Court expire soon. They are those of Presiding Judge John W. Kern and Justices John A. Tyson, Clarence V. Opper and C. Rogers Arundell. Tyson will not seek reappointment. There is now one vacancy on the 15-man court.

Among the candidates for the vacancies are: Stephen Rice of the Senate staff; Richard H. Akers of the Court of Claims staff; Dean Davis of the Tax Court staff; Andrew D. Sharpe and Helen Goodner of Justice, and Mervin Kelley of Internal Revenue among others.

BOOKLET: Civil Service has published a new question-and-answer booklet on the rights of veterans in Federal employment. You may get a copy by writing the Civil Service Commission here.

REORGANIZATION: A majority of members of the important Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee is reported to be opposed to the President's plans to bring about an internal reorganization of the Federal Trade Commission, Federal Power Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, and the Civil Aeronautics Board. The Senate Expenditures Committee will hear opponents of the plans next week.

Meantime, the bill by Senator Frear (D., Del.) to reorganize the Postoffice Department along the lines proposed by the Hoover Commission has been revived by the Senate Postoffice and Civil Service Commission.

A bloc of members sparked by Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.) has demanded that the committee act with the courage and speed on the reorganization and postal-rate-increase bills that it has shown on the bills to boost postal salaries and to increase Postoffice's operating expenses. A good friend of Government employes, Humphrey fears benefits for postal people will suffer if the record postal deficit continues to climb.

The committee has given its tentative agreement to a compromise reorganization bill now being drafted. It has also agreed to take up the long-delayed postal-rate bill. These actions were agreed on before it approved H. R. 87 to give World War II postal veterans credit toward promotions for time served in the armed forces.

MORE PLANS? The Budget Bureau has drafted half a dozen new plans to reorganize the Government. But whether the President will recommend them to Congress this year is an unsettled question. He has been advised against it by some of the Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill.

MEETING: The Society for the Advancement of Management will hold its spring conference here today and Thursday in the General Services Auditorium. Herbert Emmerich, former top Federal official, will speak at 7:30 this evening on "The Challenge to Federal Executives." Agriculture Secretary Brannan will wind up the conference Thursday night at 8:15 by discussing "Organizing a Department for Better Management." . . . NFFE's District Federation will meet at 8 p. m. tonight in the Willard to hear a discussion of the new Compensation Act by William McCauley.

Plan to Shift Elementary School Posts Gains Step

Lee Is Dissenter As Personnel Unit Of School Board Approves Program

The personnel committee of the Board of Education yesterday by a 2-to-1 vote approved a plan of School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning for reorganization of elementary school administration.

Committee Chairman Adelbert W. Lee cast the dissenting vote. He said the proposal was part of an overall plan of Dr. Corning's for school reorganization and "we ought to have the complete blueprint before considering any segment."

The plan considered yesterday would end the present geographical administration of elementary schools. Divisional directors now in charge of the various sections would be given city-wide administrative duties.

The full board will take up the plan at its meeting at 3:30 p. m. today at the Franklin Administration Building, 13th and K sts. nw. If the plan is approved by the board it will go into effect next September.

Lee said he opposed the "piecemeal" method of reorganizing schools proposed by Dr. Corning. In recent weeks, the school head has presented a series of recommendations affecting school administration.

Lee said that without a blueprint it looked to him as though the plan would "further encumber the complicated system of administration we already have."

Lee charged that Dr. Corning overlooked heads of departments of English, history, mathematics and other subjects in drawing up his proposal. Department heads are in a "disjointed status" with responsibilities and no authority to carry through, Lee declared.

Dr. Corning said he is preparing a plan on the functions of department heads to be submitted at a later date.

The committee also approved a "credentials examination" to be held this spring for teachers now assigned to counseling positions.

2 Doctors Named for Home Service

The District Commissioners yesterday appointed two doctors to initiate home care services to the city's bed-bound, indigent patients.

The appointments, according to Dr. Sidney Shindell, physician in charge of the home care demonstration project, pave the way for actual start of the program, perhaps next week.

Appointed were Dr. Edwin P. Parker 3d, 31, of 2009 N st. nw., and Dr. Cyril A. Schulman, 32, of 1345 Saratoga ave. ne. Both are practicing physicians, and Dr. Parker served as an assistant resident at Gallinger Hospital in 1947-49.

Dr. Shindell said the program would start out slowly with several patients released from Gallinger Hospital for continued care in their homes under supervision of the appointed doctors. Eventually, he said, perhaps 100 such patients will be so attended.

Gallinger's home care program, sponsored by the District Health Department and financed by Federal funds, was designed to demonstrate how many patients can safely be released early from hospitalization if proper care can be provided them in their homes. It has been estimated that such home care would cost as little as one third of present continued-hospitalization costs.

The project is financed largely by a special grant from United States Public Health Service. A grant of $65,391 from USPHS last December was largely earmarked for the project, though a portion of that fund was allocated for the purchase of equipment to detect chronic diseases.

The District Health Department for its share, put up an additional $8066.

Drs. Parker and Schulman will receive $6400 each for their part-time services in the one-year demonstration project. They will visit the patients before discharge from the hospitals, and follow those patients' progress and provide necessary medical services at their homes, Dr. Shindell said.

PAUL REVERE RIDES AGAIN FOR HOME RULE

Charles Del Vecchio—The Washington Post

PLUG FOR HOME RULE—Paul Suddath of 815 I st. nw., clad in Colonial costume and trying very hard to portray the Paul Revere of 1775 trots along F st. at 13th st. nw., calling attention to the home rule fight but causing no traffic jams. The ride, sponsored by the Central Suffrage Conference, started at the Capitol where the rider handed scrolls to congressional sponsors of home rule legislation urging prompt action on the measure. Leaflets were distributed along route

No Jinx, Only Error, Caused Bridge Snarl

Span Was Kept Open After Operator Took Foot From Switch

The new South Capitol st. bridge is not permanently "jinxed," but is proving a great aid to the flow of traffic in and out of the District.

This was the word from the bridge engineer's office yesterday, after an operator unwittingly took his foot off the "dead man's switch" and snarled traffic for almost an hour Monday night.

It was the third time the new rotating section had met with difficulty since the bridge was opened January 14. The mechanism was momentarily frozen by cold weather February 21 and the roadway barrier became stuck for 20 minutes on March 11.

Engineer Harry R. Howser said the 396-foot swinging span refused to close after letting a tug through at 9 p. m.

The safety device known as the "dead man's switch" is similar to such contrivances on subway trains. It causes everything to stop operating. In a moment of "confusion," the operator was unable to reverse the electrical circuits immediately and get the movable span back into place, Howser said.

By the time the chief operator answered his distress call, traffic had been rerouted across other bridges and the operator had solved the problem.

The District engineer's office said the new bridge has about halved the average daily traffic across 11th st. bridge, while reducing that over Sousa considerably. These are comparative figures for December, 1949, a month before the new bridge was opened, and March, 1950, respectively:

11th st.—45,272 and 26,613; Sousa—54,011 and 47,354, and Benning rd.—45,846 and 47,249.

The average daily vehicular traffic over the S. Capitol st. bridge for March was 28,134.

New Highway Bridge Ceremonies Set May 19

Ceremonies officially opening the new Highway Bridge will be held May 9, at noon, it was announced yesterday.

Charles Stofberg, special assistant to Commissioner John Russell Young, said nearby Virginia officials and southwest Washington citizens' groups will be asked to participate in the dedication. Arrangements will be discussed at a meeting in Stofberg's office Thursday at 3 p. m.

Stofberg said Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) and the Commissioners will be cochairmen of the dedication committee. Highway officials reported it is expected the bridge will be completed and open to traffic a few days before May 9.

Congregation to Honor Seven Founders Today

Seven founders of Agudath Achim Congregation will be honored at a tenth anniversary party at 8:30 p. m. today in Stansbury Hall, Georgia and Missouri aves. Rabbi Herman J. Waldman, spiritual leader of the congregation, will be the speaker.

Prince Georges, Montgomery Facing Water Discoloration

Shutdown of the Willis School filtration plant to permit cutting in new service pipes probably will result in discoloration of water in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties today, the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission announced yesterday.

The discoloration will not be harmful and consumers are assured the water will be perfectly safe. There will be no shortage of water, a commission spokesman said.

The shutdown due to cutting over new distribution lines as part of new construction work at the plant will continue for about 24 hours. In order to supply water for Prince Georges sections while the filtration plant is inactive, water will be piped from the Montgomery County section, causing a reverse in flow of the water, which will be the reason for the discoloration.

In the event of rain today, the switchover may be postponed until the next fair day, a full day being required for the task.

Revere Rides Again; Ballots, Not Bullets Is Aim This Time

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

Paul Revere rode down F street yesterday to wake up Washington to the spirit of '76.

Astride his borrowed horse, Willie — renamed Rebel for the day—Paul advertised his American story to the Nation's last holdout on full citizenship with two huge signs:

"Taxation Without Representation Is STILL tyranny" and "Paul Revere Rides Again for Home Rule."

Paul I of Charlestown-to-Lexington fame would have envied Paul II's route.

For the 175th anniversary of the original New England canter, Paul, II started at the Capitol steps (representation), plodded through F st.'s noontime crowd (a voteless zone) to the Treasury Department (taxation).

Paul and Rebel hit the road under the banner of the District League of Women Voters and the Central Suffrage Conference—a note of drama in their drive to secure the necessary 40 more House signatures to force the Senate-passed District home rule bill to a House vote.

The modern Revere, in proper Colonial dress, was started on his way at the Capitol by four articulate believers in the right-to-vote idea: Senators Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) and Robert C. Hendrickson (R., N. J.) and Representatives John F. Kennedy (D.) and John W. Heselton (R.) both from the original Paul's home State of Massachusetts.

Paul presented the legislators a scroll "begging" House members to sign the home rule discharge petition and thus "demonstrate the true spirit of our Founding Fathers."

Culver B. Chamberlain, president of the Central Suffrage Conference, gave the Congressmen a fighting speech. He got a big hand from hundreds of out-of-town school children visitors who were attracted by the Capitol demonstration.

As Paul rode down the Hill, bells tolled in the Church of the Epiphany, 1317 G st. nw.

(The costumed horseman in private life is Paul Suddath, 29, a stableboy at Edgewater Stables, G st. and New Hampshire ave. nw., also Rebel's home.)

Along the route 50 "Paula Reveres"—members of the District League of Women Voters—passed out some 5000 leaflets, slugged "Paul Revere rides again—with a ballot."

The ride went like clockwork, Superintendent of Police Robert J. Barrett even broke out a two-squad car escort to protect Paul from hazards of the modern age. A week ago he expressed fears the stunt might cause a traffic problem.

But the suffragites did have a minor run-in with the law. At F and 15th sts. Chamberlain suggested Paul make a return trip down F st. and asked the police escort if it would mind sticking with them.

The policemen said they could not—that their interpretation of orders from headquarters called only for escorting "Revere" from the Capitol grounds "to" F and 15th sts. nw. Paul went alone down F st. without incident.

Wolf Takes Oath As Lieutenant

Lieut. Jacob J. Wolf, head of the Police Auto and Bicycle Squad for the last three years, yesterday took the oath as a permanent lieutenant at a brief ceremony in the office of Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett.

After being sworn in by Detective Sergt. Hoyle Secrest, Wolf passed out cigars and presented a 5-foot photo of Major Barrett to the superintendent.

Wolf was a civilian patrol driver for the force in 1919. A year later he went into uniform after Congress decided to make policemen of the drivers. In 1947, he was named to head the Auto Squad as an acting lieutenant.

Jilted Suitor Blamed in Fire At Girl's Home

Police Say He Set Blaze to 'Get Even;' Charged With Arson

A Fairfax County laborer was accused yesterday of setting fire to the home of his former girl friend to "get even" with her for jilting him.

County Police Lieut. Richard Utz identified him as Jeffrey Manuel, 23, of Gum Springs. He was held at the Groveton substation on an arson charge in lieu of $1000 bond for hearing next Monday at 10 a. m. at Fairfax.

Utz said Manuel was arrested at his home a few hours after Henrietta King, 20, also of Gum Springs, reported her home slightly damaged by flames, apparently fed by gasoline poured on the side of the house. Awakened by what she said resembled an explosion at about 3:30 a. m., the King woman told police she saw Manuel disappear into the darkness when she ran outside.

Occupants of the house, including six children, quickly extinguished the blaze, police were told.

Utz quoted Manuel as admitting he set fire to the home after "a few drinks" intensified his brooding over his ill-fated romance.

Grass, Brush Fires Cut Down by Showers

Dying winds, followed by the beginning of a series of showers, last night cut down the toll of grass and brush fires in the District area by 75 percent.

The showers are expected to continue through most of today, the Weather Bureau said, with mostly cloudy, mild weather, but no soaking rain.

There were 29 grass, brush and woods fires reported in the area yesterday. Prince Georges County had 17, largest of any community, and one caused a second alarm, burning more than 15 acres before it was extinguished. It was on the Lanham-Severn rd., between Glenn Dale and Bowie.

The District department received only three calls yesterday, all in the afternoon and all minor. Others reported were Montgomery County, 4; and Fairfax County, 5, none serious.

State forest authorities in both Virginia and Maryland yesterday reported that fields and woods are tinder-dry.

One blaze in Powhatan County, Va., burned through 600 acres of woodland before it was subdued, and in both States other fires covered hundreds of acres.

Arnold Bus Balks at Paying Full Retroactive Pay Boost

Arnold Bus Line acknowledged yesterday it owes employes a full 17-cents-an-hour wage increase awarded last September in arbitration—but only for the period union members were employed by the company itself.

The Virginia State Corporation Commission has been operating the line (officially the Washington, Virginia and Maryland Coach Co.) since last November, when it took over to avert a threatened strike.

The line's statement was made in a brief filed yesterday with the Interstate Commerce Commission, in reply to a union request that the ICC rescind a recent fare increase because it was obtained through "fraud."

Demand that the ICC revoke the recent 5-cent cash fare boost came last Wednesday from Local 1079, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America (AFL).

A retroactive wage award to 280 employes was one of the company's chief arguments for a fare increase, the union said. Yet, the union complained, the men were offered a 10-cent-an-hour wage hike, without retroactivity, in a conference held after the fare increase was granted.

Yesterday's reply to the union charges, filed by S. Harrison Kahn, attorney for the bus line, agreed that the pay award was "one of the principal motivating facts for the need of increased fares."

But company revenues declined an "unanticipated" 10 percent between the time the fare increase was requested and the date on which it was granted, the brief declared.

In view of this, the company said it asked the union to accept the lesser increase, "in the interests of the public, because the public is required to pay the fares which provide the revenue."

However, the company said, it never intended to "ignore or set aside" the arbitration award "for that period in which petitioners' members were employes of the coach company."

The bus line said it will pay the wages prescribed by the arbitration award as soon as the State Corporation Commission returns company properties. A conference on this subject will be held in Richmond today.

Belvoir Soldier Killed in Crash At Woodbridge

Weapons Carrier Hits Bank, Upsets; 2 Arlington Girls Injured by Autos

Pfc. Frederick F. Coverdale, 21, a Fort Belvoir soldier, died yesterday, apparently instantly, when an Army truck he was driving overturned and rolled on him.

The accident occurred near Woodbridge, Va., on Route 639, about a half-mile south of its junction with Route 123. Fort Belvoir officers said he was returning alone to the post after driving a detail of men in a ¾-ton weapons carrier to the site of a triangulation tower under construction near Woodbridge.

There were no eyewitnesses. Virginia State Police, who were first notified, and Fort Belvoir officers said one of the front wheels of the vehicle apparently struck a soft bank, turning it over.

Coverdale, a member of the Headquarters and Service Company, 656th Engineer Topographical Battalion, died of head injuries. He had a total of 49 months of Army service, including some in Europe. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coverdale of Philadelphia, Pa.

In another accident yesterday, Laura Bonn, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bonn, 4306 N. Sarlyn Springs rd., Arlington, suffered a broken left leg when, police said, she was struck by an auto near her home. She was treated at Arlington Hospital and transferred to Sibley Hospital where her condition was reported good.

Kaye Moore, 7, daughter of Norman H. Moore, 2129 S. Columbus st., Arlington, suffered a fractured collar bone, Monday, when police said, she ran into the path of an auto driven by Hugh B. Wood, jr., of 4130 N. 3d rd., Arlington. She was treated at the Anderson Clinic and taken home.

Keleher Case

Set Stiff Fee In Anger, Ford Says

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

Attorney Charles E. Ford yesterday admitted he was "hot as a firecracker" at Dolly Keleher four years ago when he quoted her a fee of $5000 for his services.

On sober second thought, Ford testified, he did not think "my services were worth that." He said he would like to disown that fee—"it wasn't a nice thing to do."

A fee of $3000 would be fair, he said.

Mrs. Keleher, divorced wife of gambler John B. Keleher, is suing Ford for $6450, the balance of $8050 she says she gave him for safekeeping in February, 1946, and never saw again.

Ford has had two lawyers sitting throughout the trial, Austin F. Canfield and Lewis Shapiro, who are slated to testify as expert witnesses on the reasonableness of his fee.

On direct examination, Ford presented this accounting of the $8050 given him by his former client for safekeeping: $1600 was given to her to finance her trip to New York; $3500 was given—with her consent, according to Ford, without her consent, according to Mrs. Keleher—to her husband "for ready cash," leaving a balance of $2950. This, Ford said, he applied to his fee of $5000.

Ford told the jury of 11 men and one woman that he had spent from 100 to 120 hours on Mrs. Keleher's case, evaluating reports of private detectives she had following her husband, his income tax returns, photographs, and reports of his assets.

Ford took the stand in his own defense at 9:30 a. m., and the courtroom quickly filled, predominantly with lawyers on hand to watch the duel between Ford and Mrs. Keleher's counsel, James J. Laughlin.

Under cross-examination:

Ford said that "one or two months ago," he felt he had "acted in temper" in charging Mrs. Keleher $5000, and last week instructed his attorney, Leo A. Rover, to withdraw a counterclaim for $2050 against Mrs. Keleher.

But Ford stressed the services he had rendered.

"I got in bad with everyone in the gambling business for asking Keleher for one half of what he had," Ford testified.

"You say the gamblers were mad at you?" Laughlin asked.

"They came in and asked me to let up on Jack," Ford said. "I was going to proceed against him whether the gamblers liked it or not."

Judge Richmond B. Keech recessed the trial at 1 p. m. until this morning, to allow the principals to attend the ball game.

D. C. Census Job Four Fifths Done, Supervisor Says

The District's job of census-taking is about four fifths completed, Supervisor Norman M. Russell said yesterday.

He said enumerators are now working on their last "enumeration districts." This means that of 1290 areas assigned to 800 workers, there are no districts left in which workers aren't counting noses.

The job in Washington will be completed before the end of April, since interviewers are "well beyond their current goal for enumeration," Russell said.

Rock Creek Park Talk

An illustrated talk on "Trailside Features in Rock Creek Park" will be given at 8 p. m. Thursday at the Interior Department auditorium, 19th and C sts. nw., by Evan Haynes, naturalist of the National Park Service.

Two District Bills Backed By Officials

A Senate District Subcommittee yesterday heard city officials recommend passage of bills which would:

1. Let the District collect part or all the cost of care from residents of the Home for the Aged and Infirm who are able to pay.

2. Set up a $15,000 revolving fund to aid in distribution of surplus property to District public and private educational institutions.

Testifying for the bill to authorize admission of paying patients to the Home for the Aged were Corporation Counsel Vernon West and Welfare Director Gerard M. Shea.

The other bill was recommended by West, George E. S. Reynolds, public school official, and Leslie P. Parmele, in charge of surplus property distribution here.

Edward L. Leahy (D., R. I.), subcommittee chairman, said the bills would be taken under advisement.

Crime Group to Weigh District Enforcement

Representative James C. Davis (D., Ga.), has scheduled a meeting of the House District Crime Investigating subcommittee for 10 a. m. Thursday.

Davis, chairman, said the discussion is expected to center on a memorandum prepared by Hyman I. Fischbach, committee counsel, outlining suggestions for revision of the Washington law enforcement program.

Fischbach's outline was submitted to Washington law enforcement officials, both District and Federal, for study and comment.

Davis said he also seeks an early hearing by the House Accounts subcommittee on his request for additional funds for his crime committee. The money would be used to perfect any program developed from the Fischbach outline, according to an earlier announcement by Davis.

Man and Second Wife Make Generous Concessions To His Married Daughter's Request for Favors; But One Refusal Turns Girl Against Stepmother

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My first marriage ended in divorce 25 years ago and my daughter Kate, only child of the union, has since grown up, married and produced two children, now 7 and 12 years of age.

My present wife Edith and I have been happily married for 16 years and until two years ago we maintained harmonious relations with Kate and her family. In fact, several times in the early years of her marriage, my daughter needed financial and personal help which Edith and I furnished to the best of our ability.

But when Kate wanted us to keep her children for a week, so that she could have a vacation with her husband, after the trial of moving into a new home, Edith declined the responsibility—and since then Kate refuses to have anything to do with her.

I believe with my daughter that Edith was wrong in not taking the children, as it was only for a short period, and the first time that Kate had asked that favor of her. And since they are my only grandchildren and very dear to me, I felt that my wife should have cared for them in that instance out of respect and devotion to me.

Man's Sympathetic to Daughter's View

HOWEVER, Edith said she was unused to children, as we have none of our own, and felt she couldn't cope. Also she felt it was impractical to have them with us, as we don't live near their school; and the upshot was that Kate put them in care of a neighbor, where they could keep up with their studies, and she and her husband had their vacation anyway. But now if I want to see my daughter, I must visit her at her own home, without Edith along, and of course this makes a most unpleasant situation.

My wife feels no need to apologize for refusing to keep the children that time, and doesn't think it warrants a lifetime grudge. On the other hand, Kate and I think it wasn't an undue request to make of someone so close; and I can see my daughter's viewpoint in refusing to see or talk with my wife,—although as far as my wife is concerned, Kate is welcome to visit us.

What is your opinion? Who is wrong, and who is the injured party? Can anything be done to put our home life on a happy basis again? Please advise. A. L.

Man's Attitude Is Upside Down

DEAR A. L.: It appears that you have a wonderful second wife and an odiously spoiled daughter, fruit of your first union that went to pot. Studying the present picture, one wonders if the first marriage failed because the mother's character was as parasitical and immature as the child's, and because you failed, then as now, to see straight and set an example of fairminded conduct.

A woman of lesser character than Edith couldn't put up with you and Kate. But, as it happens, your present wife has exceptional understanding of human nature, also great self respect and honest common sense.

Hence she is able to keep a sturdy emotional balance in a most difficult three-way relationship. It is thanks to her, and no credit to you especially, that the marriage still holds together; and in my opinion, your tacit disloyalty to her since Kate started feuding is something to be ashamed of.

Who was wrong, and who the injured party, in the storm about Edith's foresighted refusal to start keeping the children when Kate wanted respite? (I say foresighted refusal because I am mindful that your prior experience in helping Kate had proved her to be a repeater in asking services.) Well, obviously Kate is 100 percent wrong all the way through, firstly in presuming to think that her demands on family are heaven's first law, and nextly in sulking ever since about Edith's decision.

Girl's Attitude Is Quite Wrong

YOUR daughter is so wrong that I am surprised you have to ask for clarification of the point. And she is without shred of claim to being "injured," inasmuch as she got her vacation anyway, after putting your wife's sound suggestion into effect, by lodging the children where they could continue classes, which was best for their morale in the circumstances, naturally.

How to get your family life on a happy basis again? Well, the least you can do is to square yourself with Edith, by letting her know you didn't marry her to be a nursemaid to her predecessor's grandchildren, and in backing her right to "be herself" in relation to your daughter. And nextly you can relay my sentiments to Kate about her performance—that is, if you have the courage—and invite her to renounce her mistake—if she has enough character to do so—by offering the hand of friendship to Edith, and resuming family visits. M. H.

'Iwo' Sculptor Completes Bust of Fleet Adm. Leahy

By Ellen Buell Parry

FELIX DE WELDON, internationally known Washington sculptor, has just completed a new bust of Fleet Admiral William H. Leahy. This week he will give it to the Truxton-Decatur Naval Museum, of which Admiral Leahy is president.

Modest, quiet, 42-year-old de Weldon has done over 800 pieces of sculpture, including busts of President Truman, the late King George V, King George VI, Queen Alexandria of Greece and Canada's MacKenzie King.

He is best known for his Iwo Jima monument depicting six tired Marines placing the American flag atop Iwo Jima on February 25, 1945. This statue, which formerly stood where the Pan American Annex is now, has been moved to the Marine Training School at Quantico.

At his 4-story barn-like studio at 219 Randolph pl. ne., de Weldon is working on a new Iwo monument, a giant compared to the first one, although identical in design. This majestic work, five times life-size, will have the largest sculptured figures ever executed in bronze. To be known as the Marine Corps Memorial, it is to be located on Mount Vernon hwy. half-way between Washington and Mount Vernon.

A class prophecy has more than come true!

The Minister of Foreign Affairs of Chile, Horatio Walker, who came to Washington last week with Chile's President Gabriel Gonzalez-Videla, was graduated from George Washington Law School in the class of 1906.

It was written of him in the 1906 yearbook: "One of the several men of '06 of whom we expect great things . . . Within the quarter century, Chile . . . will doubtless replace her Washington legation by an embassy. Every American who knows Horace Walker will be heartily glad to have him return to us with due honors at that time."

The prophecy wasn't fulfilled to the letter. Although it is true that Chile now has an embassy, Senor Walker has never served here as Ambassador. But, as Minister of Foreign Affairs, he controls all his country's emissaries.

While in town, the Minister, quite unannounced, dropped by to see his old law school.

A few Close friends were invited last Sunday evening to tell Navy Capt. Forrest Close goodby. "Boney" Close left Monday for sea duty, to be in command of a squadron of destroyers.

His wife, Kitty, will hold down Close Quarters at Langley.

Apropos of her husband's new assignment, Kitty told about a friend of hers whose husband was in command of a ship in and out of Norfolk from time to time. He invited his wife and two children to have dinner on the ship one evening in port.

Navy personnel stood at attention as mother and kids went aboard. They were nicely escorted to father's cabin. Dinner was formally announced. The service during the meal was excellent. An aide, smartly uniformed, invited them to see a movie afterward.

At the end of the evening, mother and children climbed back into their old jalopy to return to their apartment. On the way home one of the children asked, "Mummy, why is it that Daddy is so rich, and we're so poor?"

Leap Year Custom Revived—by Male Request!

By Marie McNair

THE COMMITTEE which put on such a successful Leap Year dance two seasons ago has been importuned by spoiled males ever since to do it again.

So, since it's no longer Leap Year, the group has decided to call their next party "Mayden's Choice" and has selected May 12 at the Sulgrave Club.

Arranging the event, which is by invitation and subscription, are Mrs. Eugene Carusi, Mrs. Edward H. Foley, jr.; Mrs. J. William Fulbright, Mrs. Arthur Gardner, Mrs. Edward Graves, Mrs. B. Lauriston Hardin, jr.; Mrs. Arthur Krock and Mrs. J. J. Wadsworth.

The usual Leap Year rules will prevail. There will be a two-to-one stag line, all ladies. No mere male will be permitted to go into the bar unless escorted by his "date." This time, the men will sit home waiting to be escorted to the ball. And the most popular masculine guests may come with corsages pinned to their lapels!

Mrs. Mesta Piles Up Invitations

MRS. PERLE MESTA, United States Minister to Luxembourg, is the guest in whose honor the Norwegian Ambassador and Mme. Munthe Morgenstierne will entertain at dinner on May 9.

The Belgian Ambassador, Baron Robert Silvercruys, has planned a dinner for May 8 in honor of Madame Minister, and Senator Theodore F. Green will be host at a luncheon at the Senate on April 26.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss were hosts at a dinner party for Mrs. Mesta and tonight Undersecretary of Commerce and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's dinner is in her honor.

Other fetes planned to welcome our envoy back after nine months away are a luncheon by Mrs. John L. McClellan at the Capitol on April 25 and a luncheon on April 23 to be given by Mr. and Mrs. James Vardaman.

As inspiration of the play "Call Me Madame," Mrs. Mesta will go to New York on May 4 for a preview peek at the script. When the play is produced in New York in the fall, Ethel Merman will fill the lead role of feminine diplomat.

Incidentally, Mme. Minister was a luncheon hostess yesterday at—a Wisconsin ave. hamburger drive-in. Hungry for some fresh air and some man-sized hamburgers, Mrs. Mesta took her luncheon guest, Mrs. Alice Turley Curran of the State Department, for a spin and then to the drive-in.

Menu for the luncheon was hamburgers (with onions), coffee and ice cream.

Brig. Gen. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton, USAF and Mrs. Hamilton will leave on Saturday for Sea Island, Ga., where they go each year for golf. They'll return in about 10 days.

Indonesian Luncheon On Party Menu

MME. WATTIMENA, wife of the First Secretary of the Netherlands Embassy, invited a few friends in for lunch yesterday to sample dishes from her cook book, "Adventures in Indonesian Cooking." The luncheon was held at 1 o'clock at the home of Baroness Rengers on 33d pl.

The luncheon menu included curried chicken, lamb in soy sauce, shrimps and string beans cooked in cocoanut juice, mixed green salad, and piffopaffs. Mme. Wattimena's cook book was recently published and is now available at the YWCA book shop.

Strubles Honored At Farewell Supper

VICE ADMIRAL and Mrs. Arthur Dewey Struble were honored last evening at a dinner given by Rear Admiral and Mrs. Robert P. Briscoe. The party was a farewell to the Strubles, as the admiral is leaving at the end of the month to take up new duties as Commander of the Seventh Fleet. Mrs. Struble will join him in the Philippines at the end of the summer.

Admiral Struble has been in Washington as Deputy Chief of Naval Operations, and he is being relieved by Vice Admiral Donald B. Duncan.

Mrs. Tomas Cajigas entertained at luncheon yesterday at Mardi Gras for Mme. Vladimir Rybar.

Among the guests were Princess Wan Waithayakon, wife of the Siamese Ambassador; Mme. Thors, wife of the Icelandic Minister; Mme. Mica Trbojevic, sister of the Yugoslav Ambassador, who is leaving on Sunday to return to Belgrade; Mrs. John N. Greely, Mrs. Conger Pratt, Mrs. L. J. Birchall, Mrs. Frederick Mitchell Gould, Senora de Sacasa, Mrs. Seymour Jeselsohn, Mrs. Arthur Vennell and Mrs. Alpheus Ryan.

Mayflower Society Honors Visitors

Members of the Society of Mayflower Descendants held their regular meeting last evening at the Arts Club at 8:15 o'clock. Guests of honor were out-of-town members who are attending the annual DAR Congress.

Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, wife of the president of George Washington University, acted a skit from the book "With a Feather on My Nose," a story of the life of Billie Burke. After the program, refreshments were served, and members went on to the DAR reception at Constitution Hall.

Mrs. Downs Wed in N. Y.

Mrs. Florence Harris Downs, daughter of Mrs. Russell Bennett of Washington and the late Admiral Frederic R. Harris, was married yesterday to Henrik Schlubach-Carr of Mexico, the ceremony taking place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Russell Cecil in New York.

The bride was attended by her small daughter, Roberta, and her goddaughter, Penny Proddow of Connecticut. Mr. Schlubach's best man was Paul Williams. Read Admiral Archibald L. Parsons, USN (ret.), gave the bride in marriage.

Mrs. Schlubach attended schools abroad and is a graduate of Holton Arms School, Washington. She is a member of the Sulgrave and the 1925 F Street Clubs in Washington and of the Southampton Beach Club, New York. Her marriage to Donald Downs of Washington and Virginia was terminated by divorce last December.

Mr. Schlubach, a Chilean citizen, was born in Hamburg, Germany, the son of Baroness Esther von Frankenburg and Ludwigsdorf and the late Edgar H. T. Schlubach-Brander. He is the grandson of Sir Edward and Lady Carr and the nephew of Mrs. Herbert Schlubach of Jamestown, R. I.

In the Wake of the Sewing Contest

Guards 600 Garments—Can't Wear One!

By Peggy Preston

YOUNG LADY with more clothes than she knows what to do with is Miss Hazel Amberg of The Washington Post staff.

In her office Miss Amberg has, within arms' reach, 600 beautiful garments, each one lovelier than the next. But, alas, she cannot wear them. For these are the entries in The Washington Post Sewing Contest which ended April 15. She is caretaker of the lot, and her job is to sort them according to classification, and prepare the setting for the formal judging on April 24.

Meanwhile, Miss Amberg is finding that the handling of her 600 charges is a full-time job. Each must be carefully hung, labeled and numbered. Duplicate listing of names, addresses and classifications are kept to provide a double check against an error in labeling.

Full Tide Reached in Easter Week

FOR THE FIRST few weeks of the contest which opened March 1, things were rather slow at the contest headquarters. Entries came trickling in until Easter Week when the full tide was reached. More than 200 were received in the last two days of the competition.

Dozen of States have been heard from in the contest, garments coming in from Corpus Christi, Tex., Los Angeles, and other cities across the continent. Baltimore and Richmond are represented by many entries, as well as small towns throughout Virginia, Maryland and Delaware. Washington, and its suburbs take first place numerically.

Next Monday the entries will be displayed before a panel of judges, who will pick 16 winners, two in each of the eight classifications of the contest. Those winning cash awards, totaling $560, and other prizes as well will be determined at that time. A list of the winners will appear in The Washington Post, Tuesday, April 25.

Judges Include D. C. Celebrities

THOSE SERVING as judges will be Mme. Bonnet, wife of the French Ambassador; Mrs. Charles Brannan, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture; Mrs. Lauris Norstad, wife of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations, USAF; Mrs. Lee Rush, head of the Home Economics Department, District Schools; Miss Faye Mitchell, Professor of Textiles and Clothing, University of Maryland, and Miss Kathryn Towne, Associate Professor of Home Economics, George Washington University.

The eight first-prize winning garments will be sent to New York immediately following the judging and entered in the National Sewing Contest there. Any contestant winning a prize in this Nation-wide event will be awarded a prize of $100, and a week-end trip to New York in June.

The Washington Post.

NO, this is not a ladies' ready-to-wear shop. It's an office of The Washington Post, where the 600 entries in this newspaper's Sewing Contest are being assembled and divided according to classification by Miss Amberg, who examines a dress, center at right. April 15 was the final day for entering the contest

It's June in April as Questions From Brides Pour In; Anne Tells How to Decorate on a Budget

IT'S June in April in this department! Questions on bridal etiquette are showering in! For weddings do take advance planning—if the bride's family is to avoid nervous breakdown and a touch of bankruptcy.

DEAR ANNE:

My daughter is to be married in June in a large country church, with only one attendant. A small reception will follow.

I'm seeking advice on how to decorate that big church inexpensively and yet make it look pretty as possible. Also, is it proper for the bride to wear a veil with a street length dress at a 4 p. m. wedding? What sort of suits should the men wear? Can they be in different colors?

How large a cake will it take to serve 50 people or more? What can we serve besides cake, punch, and nuts? I don't intend to have little tea sandwiches.

Mrs. I. D.

Least expensive way—and a lovely one—to decorate the church would be with white garden flowers and greenery from the woods. If you haven't these, there may be someone among your friends with garden or farm who would be glad to supply them for such an occasion.

If you have to buy flowers, one or two vases for the altar may suffice, with trailing woodland vines used to decorate the altar rail and elsewhere in the church. White candles are also an important, but fairly inexpensive, item of wedding decoration.

About the bride's gown: In this day of short afternoon and evening dresses, she could properly wear one of these with a finger-tip length bridal veil. If her short white dress is not in a "dressy" style however, it would be better to wear a white hat or veilless halo headdress. The men can dress in dark business suits but these should all be of the same color.

A 10 to 12 pound cake will be required to serve 50 guests. As to additions to your menu, you might serve ice cream along with the cake and you might have mints or other small candies, as well as nuts.

DEAR ANNE:

Do you have a recipe for orange soup? E. E. W., Washington

This one is a sort of antique, but the only one I can locate. It comes from a cookbook called "One Thousand Simple Soups," by Olive Green (Knickerbocker, 1907.)

ORANGE SOUP

- 4 cups strained orange juice
- 3 tablespoons arrowroot
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon sherry or brandy

Rub arrowroot smooth in a little water. Add to orange juice and cook until clear Add 1 cup sugar and sherry or brandy. When sugar melts, chill soup. Serve in sherbet glasses with a little finely cracked ice and a garnish of finely chopped orange peel on top.

DEAR ANNE:

My husband, a chemist, glanced at your column the other evening and saw the item about removing plating from an old nickel lamp. Because aqua regia corrodes metals, gives off dangerous fumes, and will burn the skin severely, he says the best advice is to have the job of removing the plating done professionally. Neutralizing agents for aqua regia available in the home are sodium bicarbonate, washing soda, and ammonia. E. D. L., Arlington, Va.

I certainly agree with your husband E. D. L., that the plating should be removed professionally and not attempted at home. I suggested this in my answer, but perhaps not strongly enough.

DEAR ANNE:

Can you suggest some means of mending plastic shower curtains? I have a lovely pair that have accidentally gotten torn. F. P.

Is the tear of such a nature that you could stitch it up on the sewing machine? Use a fine needle (size 11) and either lap one torn edge over the other and sew it flat or make a fine seam on the inside of the curtain. Use paper clips or Scotch tape to hold the edges together. Do not pin or baste. Set machine stitch for the longest stitch possible.

If tear is jagged or otherwise unsuited to stitching, you could mend it with adhesive tape on the inside. This wouldn't look as well, but would make the curtain usable for a while longer.

Anne answers questions through her column only. Address letters to "Anne," Room 408, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C. Names and addresses of questioners will be used, unless specifically requested otherwise.

Wear Shoulder-Length Earrings in Paris

I've never seen such long earrings in my life as women are wearing in Paris! Some almost reach the shoulders, just escaping to swing free as the wearers walk or dance. These are what we've been calling "chandelier" earrings this winter although there are more ball and bead types, especially in big pearls and crystals.

Women are only wearing these at night, with cocktail or short dinner dresses. They usually omit necklaces then, because it makes too much around the neck, but load up their bare arms with bracelets instead.

On the Town

By Georganne Williamson

THE DARK recesses of the King Cole Room are crammed with young people most of the time.

They leave the bright lights and big names in entertainment to the older folks and pile into the room in droves. There's no floor show, no dancing, but if you're on a date or just whiling away a few moments, this is the place to go.

While the King Cole Room never books a name, names are often made there. Evelyn Knight received her training under King Cole's owner, Vin Gallagher. Gallagher is also responsible for the rising lights of Donna Mason and Jody Miller. Betty Madigan, 19-year-old local television star, is now receiving the magic chance.

Owner Gallagher is a good natured, humorous man with flashing teeth and Hollywood features With his college-age daughter, he has nursed the room along since its start 13 years ago, getting as many laughs out of it as possible.

He will admit, on questioning, that the King Cole Room is doing as well as any room in town, that it's nearly always full. But, he adds, "It's a lot of fun, or else I couldn't have have stood it for 13 years."

The decor, undoubtedly one of the reasons for the room's unfailing popularity, strikes just the right note. A deep blue background sets off the silver-gold pattern of pure "doodling." Over the bar, opposite the piano in the long, narrow room, is a bright and fanciful mural.

"That is actually the main lighting fixture in the room," Gallagher explains. And sure enough, its reflected glow from a hidden spotlight is about the only illumination in the place.

Supplying the piano music is Dick Koons. An old-time bandleader at the Mayflower, he gave up the headaches of an organization and settled into the piano slot at the King Cole Room. There are a lot of patrons who return time and again to hear him play. Betty Madigan, singer there now, is dark, exotic and has a rich, expressive voice.

"LADIES love it because it works," says James Braams Mitchell of Olmsted's Restaurant about his original drink, "Catherine of Alexandria." There is one lady who certainly loves it—Mrs. Catherine Ryan of Alexandria.

She's a small, delicate featured woman with a flair for clothes and pert hats. Her husband, Harry L. Ryan, jr., a member of the law firm of Witeford, Hart, Carmody & Wilson, has represented Olmsted's for some time.

Mitchell honored his friends on their tenth wedding anniversary by concocting the after-dinner drink called "Catherine Alexandria." "It 'works' like Vesuvius," he explained, "because of the combination of liquor and cream. The mixture bubbles down to the last drop."

"Catherine" is made of Creme de Cacao whisky, topped with fresh cream. The taste is sweet, and chocolate, but it packs more wallop than a hershey bar.

There's another unique drink at Olmsted's dating back to the original proprietor, Bert Olmstead. The name is "Kick in the Pants" and it is made of lemon juice, brandy, triple sec, and whisky. "Kick in the Pants" honored the restaurant's twentieth anniversary in 1930. A very sharp, Zombie-type highball (much more suitable for men, they hastily explained to me) it has been a sure success every since.

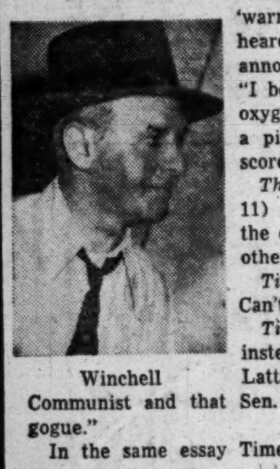
Walter Winchell

Notes of a New Yorker

If you have any doubts about the power of the Press then read pages 26 and 27 of Time and discover how we saved Eddie Rickenbacker's life . . . Looka: "When he got to a hospital, nine hours after the crash, he felt a familiar languor—what he calls the 'warm, soft sensation of death.' Then he heard the radio voice of Walter Winchell announcing that he was dying. He says: "I began to fight. They had me under an oxygen tent. I tore it apart and picked up a pitcher. I heaved it at the radio and scored a direct hit . . . Then I got well.'"



Winchell

The same issue (under Letters, page 11) apologizes to Roy Chapman Andrews, the explorer, reported dead (by Time and others) thrice in two years.

Tide May Wait for No Man But Time Can't Detect Life.

Time Mag is featuring contradictions instead of comic sections. It reports Owen Lattimore is "neither a Russian spy nor a Communist and that Sen. McCarthy is an irresponsible demagogue."

In the same essay Time botches on with: "Lattimore's ideas 'might be more dangerous than a carload of spies.'"

The editors of Modern Screen magazine for May have faces red enough to demand a congressional probe . . . The mag offers a piece about Hollywood stars "who have saved their marriages via psychiatric treatment, including Bette Davis' husband."

Oooooooopppssss!

From the Miami Herald editorial page: "Herald Columnist Winchell: Dear Walter: Were you scooped in your specialty by the United Press, which reports that Princess Elizabeth is infanticipating for the second time this summer? Just asking!—Biscayne Bill."

From the broadcast of Sunday night, January 8, 1950: "Tips to the Papers! Att'n, Int'l News Service: Princess Elizabeth probably is enciente again. Since her trip to Malta, her diet is said to be simple, ungarnished foods."

Lame Alibi Dep't.: The British Foreign Office discloses that the arms Britain is now shipping to the Arabs "are not sufficient to enable them to make war."

Then why are they sending the guns? To shoot dux???

The polyloquent New York Times, dubiously noted for being periphrastic, has the amusement page readers hopping for the dictionary again . . . John Martin (reviewing Yvette Chauvire's performance in "Swan Lake") reported: "Her particular version of the role differs in many ways from the versions we are familiar with, and the hand of the ineluctable Serge Lifar, under whose direction she has danced most of her career, was evident in it."

Ineluctable means irresistible, inevitable, not to be overcome. Polyloquent is a rarely used synonym for loquacious. Periphrastic—adj. From periphrasis: Circumlocution, the using of many words to express but little.

Item: "Former Mayor Curley of Boston Pardoned by Truman!"

A refreshing novelty seeing someone getting a pardon in Boston instead of Berlin.

"Charles River, Mass. As a nonresident of Massachusetts would it not be a public service through your various mediums to ask Mr. Truman the following questions: 'Do you believe that your action in granting unconditional pardon to Curley for two Federal crimes of which he was legally declared guilty (1) Contributes toward the dignity of the President's office? (2) Instills local and international confidence in our form of government? (3) Bolsters respect for our judicial system? (4) Is an inspiration to the youth of this country? In short, Mr. President, is it consistent with the obligations sworn, stated and implied by you when you took your oath of office?'—Francis B. Richardson."

News Item: "President Truman may make 60 speeches in his planned railroad junket around the Nation."

We hope he finds time to pause at Hyde Park to say "Thanks!"

Jean-Paul Sartre's wife (Simone de Beauvois) is involved in two law suits over her book, "The Third Sex," about famed courtesans.

Among those named is Cleo de Merode, mistress of King Leopold II (of Belgium), the exiled monarch's grampa. . . . Cleo, who is now 80, happened to hear the book's quote about her over a radio station . . . She started suit against Mrs. Sartre, who then sued the radio station for broadcasting material from her best-seller without her go-light.

Betty White's Honeymoon Center (130 W. 42d) was almost the subject for a Herald Tribune resort-section article. The idea was given up when they couldn't dope a way to avoid using the word "honeymoon." That gazette has a rule against using the word in its editorial columns . . . In the past 15 years Miss White has planned honeymoons for more than 60,000 newlyweds . . . The Herald Trib also has a ban against using the word "body" in any story. This must make it pretty tough on the obit writers partickilly.

New Yorkers Are Talking About: Lovely Ginger Rogers's fury over that recent photo of her in Life, taken off-guard while she was doing The Charleston at Hollywood's Mocambo. What threw her into a swivet and tizzy was the caption. Called her an "old-timer" . . . Drew Pearson's brother, Leon, who has written a musical show with Shearing, the blind British composer. Leon's lyrics are surprisingly good . . . The plight of one-time opera great Frieda Hempel in a bout with Mr. Tax Man. Things are not That Good, but Uncle Sam wants his $7000, anyhow . . . Kathleen Winsor's claim that her new novel "is not autobiographical." Uh-huh . . . Albert Q. Maisel's grand article in Collier's titled "Runyon's Last Story." It's a darling . . . The several dozen microphones ordered by a United Nations delegation. (For What???) . . . The buzz that Saratoga gambling will get the Go-Ahead this summer . . . The bottom falling out of some of the magazines. Little wonder from some of the medihokre stuff we've yawned through. (Not you, Hemingway) . . . the 8-lb. boy for the Ogden (Brownie) Reids (of the Herald Trib) at LeRoy San . . . And the typo in the book col'm of the N. Y. Worldtelsun, which called the "The Texas Border" publishers "Boobs-Merrill" . . . Ain't that bofil?

Francis: The Colonel Diagnoses the Case

Synopsis: The shavetail got back in the nuthatch yesterday, when the colonel forced him to disclose that Francis, the talking mule, warned him in time to save headquarters from the Jap bombers. A lieutenant colonel brain man wept to work on him. "You know," said the brain man, "it's just a trick of your imagination, the result of frayed or overstrained nerves?" The lieutenant stuck to his guns. "But Francis can talk," he said.

By David Stern

"Now see here, my boy," the colonel lowered his eyebrows again, "you must realize that all this talk about the mule is the result of some some of . . . ah . . . some sort of mental strain."

The colonel gazed out the window at the Burma hills.

"Young man, where is this mule, this Francis you're talking about?"

"Just 2 miles from here, sir. I was wondering if we both couldn't both go and see him. Then maybe we could get this all straightened out."

"Just what I was going to suggest, young man. Correct treatment for this case."

The staff car drew up at the side of the banyan tree. Colonel Pleper and I climbed out.

Francis, looking particularly bedraggled, stood with closed eyes.

"Francis," I said, "would you mind opening your eyes?"

Not an eyelid flickered. The slow breathing of the mule continued.

I leaned forward and patted the mule on the flank. "Francis," I said, "wake up. I have someone here I want you to meet."

Like snails retreating, the mule's lids drew up. The brown eyes were dull and unrecognizing.

"Francis!" I said, and there was desperation in my voice. "Francis, for heaven's sake, speak to me. You must! You must!"

"Perhaps," said the colonel, "if I walk away he'll speak to you?"

"Francis," I said, I'm in a jam."

"Are you crazy?" Francis hissed a whisper.

"I'm beginning to wonder," I whispered back.

"So am I," said the mule.

"You don't know what a mess you've gotten me into."

"Watch yourself, lieutenant. Or I'll be in there with you."

"That's not a friendly attitude, Francis."

"Sh, the colonel's watching us."

"They've put me back in the booby hatch," I said.

"You don't say!" the mule opened his eyes wider. "You don't say!"

"They're sure I'm crazy!"

"The Army's not as backward as I thought."

"Francis, I'd like to kick you in the——"

"Careful lieutenant, you're getting on my home ground. . . . Straighten up. Here comes the tubby colonel."

"Well, young man," said the colonel. "So, your friend won't talk to you?"

"But, sir——"

"Now, young man, look at this mule. . . ." The colonel gestured. "Undersized, flea-bitten, dull-eyed, spiritless, decrepit, stupid, as sad a creature as ever God created . . . obviously an animal dying for one kind word."

"But I don't have a pot belly!" said a voice that crackled like a rampaging flame-thrower.

The colonel sucked in his breath. "Who said that?" He looked all around.

"I did!"

"Who's I?"

"I is I, me, Francis, the mule!"

The colonel's mouth was open wider than his eyes, which were bursting from their sockets.

"I don't have a pot belly!" said the mule. "I don't have dandruff! I don't have fallen arches! I don't walk duckfooted! And I have a damned sight more consideration of other people than some colonels in the medical department!"

"Who said that?" demanded Pleper, glaring at me. He was shaking from head to foot.

"I didn't, sir," I said.

"And another thing," spat Francis, "I've listened to a lot of half-baked and sun-dried psychology in my time. But, by the tail of my great-aunt, Regret, who won the Derby, I have never heard such drivel as I listened to just now!"

I was back in my room in the ward. The door, supposed to be closed, stood ajar.

I heard noises.

Miss Humpert's nutmeg tones were unmistakable.

"Colonel . . . Colonel Pleper, what's the matter?"

"Matter? Matter? Nothing's the matter." The voice screeched like a radio with a bad tube. "Why should anything be the matter? Why, I ask you? Why? Go ahead, nurse, why? Answer me."

"Has anything upset you, sir?"

"No. Nothing. Confound it, nothing!"

"Yes, sir."

"Well. Well . . . Don't just stand there looking at me. What do you want?"

"Is there any diagnosis on the lieutenant, sir?"

"Most certainly there's a diagnosis, Miss Humpert. Young man's suffering from hallucinations!" The colonel's voice rose to a shriek. "Violent hallucinations! . . Maniacal hallucinations! Watch him, nurse, watch him!"

(Tomorrow: Francis unmasked).

Truman Gets Circus Tickets From Shriners

Like most Washingtonians, President Truman is a circus fan, too, but he doesn't have to pay his way in.

A delegation of local Shriners, led by Illustrious Potentate Julius B. Gay, will present a batch of tickets for the ninth annual Shrine Circus which opens at Uline Arena next Monday to the Chief Executive today at 11:30 a. m.

Mr. Truman is a Shriner himself, a member of the Ararat Temple in Kansas City, Gay said. The President, Mrs. Truman and White House officials will be invited to attend the circus opening Monday night.

The circus proceeds will go to 30 local institutions aiding the crippled, needy and underprivileged, as well as the Crippled Children's Hospital in Philadelphia.

Marine Concert Off

The Marine Band concert tonight has been canceled because of another engagement in Lexington, Mass. The final Marine Symphony Orchestra concert of the season will be presented next Wednesday at the Marine Barracks.

Could You Stood It?

Oh, Lucky Woman! You Get Dizzy Dean

By Tex McCrary and Jinx Falkenberg

TELEVISION today is taking Dizzy Dean into millions of kitchens at baseball time; the American Woman should be briefed on what to expect—this is a sample of Dizzy Dean on a microphone:

"The runners hold their respectable bases . . ."

"Williams stands confidentially at the plate . . ."

"Sti . . . rike THREE! Gordon swang and missed . . ."

"The runner got throwed out at third . . ."

"Dillinger slude into second base!" (And here, Dizzy carefully explained that "slid" as he pronounces it, should be spelled "slude" and not "slud" or "slood").

And, finally, a familiar sign-off: "Don't fail to miss tomorrow's broadcast!"

School teachers are already deeply concerned about the evil effect of television on children—New York teachers will probably blow a valve when Dizzy Dean's grammar begins to muscle into young minds. Even on radio, Dizzy aroused St. Louis English teachers to the point of protest to the F. C. C. in 1946. Diz stopped the teachers right in their syntax:

"Dizzy Dean ain't going to be throwed offa tha air by no English teachers!"

Made His First Ball

DIZZY never got very far in Arkansas schools—his mother died when Dizzy and his brother Paul were kids, and they joined their father in the cotton fields:

"I got my diploma from the second grade," says Dizzy. "But you might say it was only a honorary degree—I reckon I didn't really know the first grade so good!"

Dizzy started studying baseball about the time he dropped his books: "I had to make the first baseball I ever seen—I took my father's oldest wool sock and I wrapped it around a hunk of wadded-up rubber inner tube from an old tire . . . and then I sewed it up with a needle and thread and that's the baseball me and Paul first chunked around . . ."

But even before that homemade baseball, Dizzy and Paul learned speed and accuracy another way: "You learn to have pretty good control when you go uot huntin' for squirrels with an empty stomach . . . Naw, we didn't use no shotgun! Didn't have no shotgun. Only way we knew to get them Arkansas squirrels was to knock 'em outa the trees with hickory nuts!"

All for 80 Cents

THAT arm kept the early control and in 1934 Diz pitched 30 victories. And 1934 was the year Dizzy almost snapped the sanity of Manager Frankie Frisch . . . and all for 80 cents.

"We was playin' Boston, and I bet another player I'd strike out Vince DiMaggio ever' time he come up to plate—10 cents a strikeout!

By the ninth, I had already won 30 cents, when up comes Vince again. We was leadin' 2-1 with two out and a couple of runners on bases. The count on DiMaggio runs to 3-and-2, when the guy I bet with sticks his head outa the dugout, and yells at me: 'Hey, Diz—double or nothing!'

"I yells Okay, and then I rare back and fog it in there, and Vince pops it up—a foul ball! My catcher, Brusie, starts circling under it, and I know he'll catch it shore, so I yells to him: 'Drop it, Brusie, drop it! I got a chance to win 80 cents!'

"Brusie is so surprised, he lets it drop. And before pore Frisch can figger out what's happenin,' I throw the third pitch right by DiMaggio!

"You bet I picked up that 80 cents!"

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

You Can Always Tell a College Boy, But Not Much

The other day I ran a paragraph about the fun District Liners were having with a novelty rubber nose attached to a pair of horn-rimmed glasses.

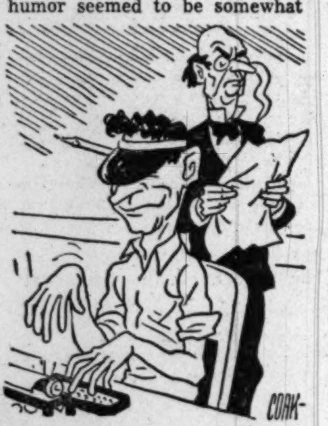
Jim Oberlin of 215 Oakland st., Arlington, Va., tells me he wore his "nose" to school last week, and took a seat in the back of the room.

"The teacher looked at me a couple of times, but didn't say anything," he reports. "Finally she finished calling the roll, walked to the back of the room, looked me over, and said:

"'Whom are you visiting, young man?' What a class that turned out to be!"

Teachers must be improving since I went to school, Jim. I can recall a couple from elementary school who wouldn't have thought it was very funny.

By the time I got to college, the faculty's collective sense of humor seemed to be somewhat improved. That is, until I ran afoul of Dr. George W. Rightmire, who was then president of Ohio State University.



The undergraduate head of a student society had gotten into a dispute with President Rightmire and, covering the story, I got a "quote" that I thought was pretty clever. But it got a very cool reception from the dean. The undergraduate had said: "I'd rather be right than Rightmire."

EXPLANATION FOR AN ANGRY MARINE

As I started home the other midnight, I saw a crowd gathered outside Thompson's.

A hard-boiled Marine was muttering: "We ought to send this in to Walter Winchell. He'd burn them good."

Inside Thompson's, an Army private lay writhing on the floor in an epileptic fit. Four servicemen were holding him down, as two policemen stood by and watched.

"What's the beef, Mac?" I asked.

"He's been on the deck for an hour," the Marine growled. "As soon as he keeled over, they called Emergency Hospital. A lady medic gave him a shot, but then she shoved off—leaving him there like an animal. He's Army, so I guess they don't want any part of him."

The Armed Services Police pulled up, a stretcher was unlimbered, and the afflicted man was finally on his way to a hospital bed.

I called J. G. Caposella, Hospital Administrator at Emergency, because I know from experience that these things are seldom as crass as they appear to a layman.

"Our policy," Caposella explained, "is to give emergency treatment to any person in need of it. However, if it is not an emergency case, and it involves a serviceman, the armed services take care of their own.

"In this particular case, the patient has a known record of epilepsy and the doctor on our ambulance merely administered a sedative and turned the patient over to the police and armed services. If the man had been in need of immediate hospitalization, we'd have taken him to Emergency, Walter Reed, Gallinger, or whatever hospital was indicated by the circumstances."

"De-cinder-grated cinders," replied Jimmy, "the kind that are all beaten up into little bits."

Doctor Is Slain By Miner Who Failed Physical

Morgantown, W. Va., April 18 (U.P.).—A disgruntled coal miner was jailed today for slaying a coal company doctor who would not pass him on a physical examination because of his poor hearing.

"He wouldn't give me a clean bill of health so I could work," Vincenzo Stefanizzi, 47, told State police after the shooting.

RFC Dollars Seep to McCarthy

By Drew Pearson

Here is more insight into the operations of Wisconsin's mercurial Senator Joe McCarthy.

McCarthy

In 1948, McCarthy went on a 30,000-mile tour of the country, supposedly to study the Nation's housing.

A few months later, in the spring of 1949, Senator McCarthy was in need of financial aid, while Carl Strandlund, president of the Lustron Corp. of Columbus, Ohio, was in need of congressional aid.

Lustron, almost wholly financed by the Federal Government, was having great difficulty launching its prefabricated housing venture despite 32 million RFC dollars. In fact, Lustron was having such difficulty that some Congressmen proposed an investigation.

It was about this time that Senator McCarthy and Lustron-boss Strandlund developed what amounted to a mutual-aid pact. McCarthy dashed off a 7000-word article on housing, and Strandlund paid him $10,000 for it. The article was based on material McCarthy had obtained in the course of his Government-financed trip, and the rate of pay was $1.33 a word, which would make most authors green with jealousy.

Actually, of course, the $10,000 Strandlund paid to McCarthy was part of the RFC millions the Government had advanced Strandlund.

Catholic Criticism

Significant development in the McCarthy-State Department Red hunt is the recent editorial in the Catholic Review, official organ of the Washington-Baltimore Archdiocese, critical of Senator McCarthy.

Significance of the editorial lies in the fact that though McCarthy's ever-changing charges have been deplored by many lay Catholics, he has received vigorous support from the Brooklyn Tablet and some of the former Coughlinite extremists that do not represent the church.

How much this latter support was inspired by William J. Goodwin, former Coughlinite and Christian Fronter, is problematical. Goodwin is a registered lobbyist and gets $25,000 a year for promoting the cause of the Kuomintang and the Soong dynasty in Washington. Undoubtedly he has some influence with his old friends of the Brooklyn Tablet.

Regardless of this, Lobbyist Goodwin definitely has an interesting connection with Senator Bob Taft, and this may account for Taft's statements—which have astonished many old friends—supporting McCarthy. Goodwin occupies an office, while in Washington, with Paul Marshall, formerly a member of Taft's staff, and, during the 1948 election campaign, Goodwin was one of Taft's political workers.

Taft's Poor Judgment

Goodwin sold himself to Taft in 1948 on the idea that he could round up Catholic delegates, though actually he was a constant liability. Not realizing that Goodwin's connections with the Coughlinite extremists were not all representative of the church, Taft sent Goodwin all over the United States, where he represented himself as Taft's bosom pal, and made outrageous claims of political achievements.

Among other things he claimed responsibility for the 1946 election of GOP Senators Ecton in Montana and Malone in Nevada; was supposed to have brain-trusted Revercomb of West Virginia and Robertson of Wyoming; and claimed that he lined up Governor Duff of Pennsylvania for Taft, though Duff was for Dewey in the end.

Despite this, Taft has shown such poor judgment as to spend hours with Lobbyist Goodwin—even today—listening to him boast of his political power inside the church and with old-line Democrats.

This explains how Taft happens to be for McCarthy's grandstanding—despite statements by Governor Dewey and GOP Senators Lodge, Flanders and Ives divorcing themselves from McCarthy's attacks. This is also why the editorial in the Catholic Review is significant at this time.

Capital News Capsules

Hidden Nepotism—The taxpayers still can't find out how much Senators are paying their employes. Though the House payroll is made public from month to month, the Senate payroll is still kept strangely secret. Secretary of the Senate Les Biffle promised to tell all in his annual report. But when it was released last week, all he listed were names, not salaries—and only up to December 31, 1949. It's the taxpayers' money, and they are entitled to know how it is spent—but Biffle doesn't seem to realize this.

New Drug Addicts—An Indian cult of drug addicts, common in the West, is now moving eastward. This is a religious cult built around the use of peyote, a drug derived from the seed pod of cactus. The Indians chew on the drug during all-night rituals around the campfire.

Merry-Go-Round

Johnny McCone, onetime aide to former Secretary of National Defense Forrestal, has been asked to become Undersecretary of Air . . . the Potomac Edison Co. is now spreading its propaganda against public power, appropriately, through the Fertilizer News . . . General MacArthur has urged the Defense Department to support Secretary Acheson's plan to offer surplus American wheat to the Chinese people. Acheson figures the Chinese Communists wouldn't dare accept it and that this would hurt Moscow and boost the prestige of the U. S. A. . . . Ambassador Wiley has cabled the State Department that the new Prime Minister of Iran may be a Russian stooge and must be watched closely.

Four Policemen Found Guilty in Precinct Fracas

Four police privates were found guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and were verbally reprimanded by a department trial board Monday.

The privates were Wyatt J. Roy, jr., now of the Eleventh Precinct; Buttell M. Jefferson, now of the Ninth Precinct; Daniel R. Gonzales, now of the Fourteenth Precinct, and Joseph D. Thornton, now of the Tenth Precinct.

The charges arose from a fracas in the Fifth Precinct station early March 13, after Private Roy, with Private Jefferson as a passenger, was picked up for speeding. Both were off duty and in civilian clothes at the time. All four were suspended after the fight, but the next day restored to duty and transferred to other stations.
